1. About the National Adviser

1.1 The National Adviser provides an independent, expert perspective to the work being taken forward in Wales; advising, shaping and informing legislative, strategy and policy developments and driving forward improvements in the prevention, protection and support for all individuals affected by violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales.

1.2 The role is a statutory advisory role, independent of Government, and its functions are detailed in Section 21 of the Act;

The National Adviser is to exercise the following functions, subject to the direction of the Welsh Ministers

- a) To advise the Welsh Ministers about pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- b) To give other assistance to the Welsh Ministers in their pursuit of the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- c) To undertake research relating to the purpose of this Act*
- d) To advise and give other assistance, with the agreement of the Ministers, to any persons on matters relating to pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- e) Produce reports on any matter relating to the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*

1.3 I was appointed to the role of National Adviser through the Public Appointments process and began my term of office in September 2015 reporting to, the then Minister for Public Services, Leighton Andrews AM. Following the National Assembly elections in May 2016 I report to the Cabinet Secretary for Communities and Children, Carl Sergeant AM.

1.4 The Act requires the National Adviser to prepare an Annual Plan setting out how they propose to exercise the functions of the role during the following financial year. The Annual Plan must state the objectives and priorities for the following year; state any matters on which the Adviser proposes to report during that year and state any other activities that the Adviser proposes to undertake. A copy of my first Annual Plan is attached to this response.

1.5 The Act further requires the National Adviser to send an Annual Report to Welsh Ministers about the exercise of the functions during the previous financial year. A copy of my first Annual Report is also attached to this response.

2. Context for this response

Internationally

2.1 In September 2015 world leaders agreed 17 new global sustainable development goals as part of the “Transforming our World – The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”. Sustainable Development Goal 5 commits to achieving “Gender Equality and empowering all Women and Girls” and includes targets to

- End all forms of discrimination against all women and girls everywhere
- Eliminate all forms of violence against all women and girls in the public and private spheres, including trafficking and sexual and other types of exploitation
- Eliminate all harmful practices, such as child, early and forced marriage and female genital mutilation

The publication of the sustainable development goals underlines a global commitment to ending all forms of violence against women and girls and a set of indicators to monitor the progress of the goals are expected in 2016.

2.2 The Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (‘Istanbul Convention’), to which the UK is a signatory, sets out minimum standards for Government’s to meet to prevent violence against women, protect victims and prosecute perpetrators. The Convention sets out the standards to:

- a) protect women against all forms of violence, and prevent, prosecute and eliminate violence against women and domestic violence;
- b) contribute to the elimination of all forms of discrimination against women and promote substantive equality between women and men, including by empowering women;
- c) design a comprehensive framework, policies and measures for the protection of and assistance to all victims of violence against women and domestic violence;
- d) promote international co-operation with a view to eliminating violence against women and domestic violence;
- e) provide support and assistance to organisations and law enforcement agencies to effectively co-operate in order to adopt an integrated approach to eliminating violence against women and domestic violence.

2.3 The EU Victims Directive establishes a new legal standard for victim’s services which include advice, practical, emotional and psychological support services. The obligations placed upon states include a minimum level of provision of specialist services for individuals and their children regardless of nationality or citizenship.

UK

2.4 The publication of the UK Government’s “Ending Violence against Women and Girls Strategy 2016 -2020” in March 2016 builds on the work of the UK Government over recent years and prioritises the prevention of violence and abuse, provision of services, partnership working and pursuing perpetrators. The accompanying action plan provides detail of the legislative and policy changes required to deliver the strategy and the resources being invested to support implementation. When considered collectively, the UK Government strategy commitments and subsequent inquiry announcements by both the Home Affairs and Women and Equalities Parliamentary Committees relating to prostitution and sexual violence and harassment in schools provides an opportunity for a complementary framework to policy commitments and practice developments in Wales. Whilst recognising the “complexities” of devolved and non-devolved policy areas it is imperative that potential duplication is avoided and opportunities for improved co-ordination, consistency and coherence identified for stakeholders and survivors.

Wales

2.5 The Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015 (The Act) is recognised as ground breaking in its intention to improve responses of public services and arrangements for the protection, prevention and support of those experiencing any form of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. The potential of the Act now relies on effective leadership and the delivery, scrutiny and monitoring of its implementation.

2.6 Having received Royal Assent in April 2015 two commencement orders have brought into force all provisions of the Act including requirements on Welsh Ministers, Relevant Authorities and the National Adviser.

2.7 There have been consultation periods for three pieces of draft statutory guidance;

- the National Training Framework,
- Ask and Act and
- Multi Agency Collaborative Working

In March 2016, following consultation, the National Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Training Framework was published as statutory guidance.

2.8 The draft National Strategy, as required by the Act, is currently being consulted upon and this must be an integrated, ambitious cross government strategy providing leadership and clear expectations for implementation of the Act.

2.9 The Well Being of Future Generations (Wales) Act aims to improve the social, economic, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales and, through the introduction of a sustainable development principle, requires Public Bodies listed in the Act to think more about the long term, work better with people, communities and each other, look to prevent problems and take a more joined up approach.

2.10 The implementation of the Social Services and Well-Being (Wales) Act 2014 aims to improve the well-being of people who need care and support and carers who need support.

The Act changes the way people's needs are assessed and the way services are delivered; promotes a range of help available within the community to reduce the need for formal, planned support and introduces stronger powers to keep people safe from abuse and neglect. The Act also has wide ranging implications for ensuring services are able to provide the right support at the right time.

2.11 The Housing (Wales) Act 2014 requires local authorities to prevent and alleviate homelessness enhancing the enabling legislative framework that we have in Wales to address violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence and improve arrangement for protection, prevention and support.

2.12 The National Independent Safeguarding Board has been established under the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014. The National Board is an advisory body that will advise Welsh Ministers on safeguarding people in Wales. It will work alongside the regional safeguarding adult boards and safeguarding children boards to secure improvements in safeguarding policy and practice throughout Wales and has nominated a violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence lead from within its membership.

2.13 In January 2016 Public Health Wales published a report on the first Welsh Adverse Childhood Experiences Study (ACEs). ACEs are stressful experiences occurring during childhood that harm a child (e.g. physical or sexual abuse) or affect the environment in which they live (e.g. growing up in a house with domestic violence or abuse). Findings show that ACEs have a major impact on the development of health harming behaviours in Wales and the prevention of ACEs is likely to not only to improve the early years experiences of children born in Wales but also reduce levels of health harming behaviours such as problem alcohol use, smoking, poor diets and violent behaviour. The study found that 16% of adults had lived in households where there had been domestic abuse and that, as children, 17% of adults had experienced physical abuse and 10% had experienced sexual abuse.

2.14 All of the above provide the cross cutting context in which the Act is being implemented and should be considered by the Committee to ensure that the Act itself is not isolated from wider legislative context in Wales but rather is aligned and integrated not only across Welsh Government policy areas and devolved responsibilities, but is proactively contributing and complementary to the wider UK and international context for the prevention of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

3. To what extent is the approach to tackling violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence improving as a result of the obligations of the Act

3.1 The Act has the potential to significantly improve the approach to tackling violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales through effective implementation of the obligations set out within.

3.2 Listed below are, to my knowledge, the obligations of the Act that have been delivered since April 2015;

1. Appointment of the National Adviser in September 2016
2. Statutory Guidance published relating to the National Training Framework in March 2016
3. Draft guidance relating to “Ask and Act” and “Multi Agency Collaborative Working” consulted upon (September 2015 – January 2016) but not yet published.
4. 2 early adopter sites identified to pilot Ask and Act and an evaluation of these sites planned for Autumn / Winter 2016
5. Draft National Strategy consulted upon August – October 2016 to be published 4th November

3.3 My observations would be that awareness and understanding of the Act and its requirements remain inconsistent across the public service in Wales.

3.4 The timing of the introduction of the Act alongside the Social Services and Well-Being (Wales) Act and Well-Being of Future Generations (Wales) Act presented an opportunity to integrate many of the key messages, principles and requirements of the legislation. I feel, however that this opportunity was missed and that there is a resultant risk that the Act will be considered in isolation rather than as part of an integrated Welsh approach to improving social, economic and cultural wellbeing.

3.5 The specialist sector, organisations and individuals have been key in raising awareness of the Act and its requirements, however a lack of meaningful communication and clear direction from Welsh Government has meant that relevant authorities and partners have, in some instances, been unsure as to how to progress delivery of their own obligations and there remains uncertainty in relation to timescales for obligations within the Act e.g. implementation of Ask and Act, publication of statutory guidance.

3.6 The publication of the statutory guidance on commissioning for specialist services is critical to the purpose of the Act and it is therefore concerning that there is no confirmed timeline for the publication of this guidance. Commissioning of specialist services is already happening in Wales, in particular those services funded by Welsh Government’s Supporting People Programme Grant. In the absence of Welsh Government guidance and principles, commissioning processes are inconsistent, with different services being commissioned from different approaches.

Strategic, collaborative commissioning is vital for the sustainability of specialist services and delivery of the purpose of the Act.

3.7 I welcome the Lloyds Bank Foundation “Tackling Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence; A Collaborative Commissioning Toolkit for Services in Wales” and in the absence of Welsh Government guidance the principles within the toolkit need to be embedded within commissioning practices. This toolkit, developed in collaboration with survivors, commissioners and service providers outlines key principles that should underpin the Welsh Government guidance to ensure greater consistency of commissioning practice.

3.8 I have seen some progress in relation to governance arrangements for violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in that local areas are considering how they can move to regional governance arrangements. Learning from the Gwent Pathfinder project has enabled other areas to consider regional arrangements and I am supporting a number of regions through this transition. The draft Multi Agency Collaborative Working document consulted upon in 2015 provided guidance for areas when considering governance and partnership arrangements however, no final document has been published. Guidance on effective governance arrangements is critical to delivering the obligations of the Act in terms of effective strategic leadership at a regional and local level.

3.9 In preparation for the population needs assessments required by the Social Services and Well-Being (Wales) Act areas have begun considering data relating to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence which is included as a core theme for inclusion within the data catalogue. This assessment, alongside others as specified in the Act must be considered by Local Authorities and Health Boards when preparing their local strategies.

3.10 The publication of statutory guidance relating to the National Training Framework and the piloting of Ask and Act have raised important issues including;

- Alignment of the national training framework with other training requirements / frameworks e.g. Social Services and Well-Being to ensure key messages are integrated and consistent and maximise resources
- Assessment of the resources required to support effective and sustainable implementation of the national training framework
- Earlier identification of individuals experiencing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence resulting in an increased demand for specialist services and resource implications to support this increased demand
- A mechanism for effective communication between Welsh Government and Relevant Authorities as it relates to the implementation of both the National Training Framework and Ask and Act

3.11 These key issues relating to resources to support effective implementation, capacity and demand upon the specialist sector and effective communication need to be carefully considered and addressed prior to national roll-out.

4. What are the most effective ways of capturing the views and experiences of survivors? Are the arrangements in place to capture these experiences and to what extent is this information being used to help inform the implementation of the Act's provisions?

4.1 Survivors' experiences are key to understanding their needs, challenges and aspirations and should be integral to informing the development of the National Strategy, implementation of the Act and my work as Adviser.

4.2 Within the terms and conditions of my appointment, my role, on behalf of Welsh Ministers includes working with victims and survivors to gain an understanding of their experiences and views and consider how these could influence the development of policy and delivery of services.

4.3 There is currently no sustainable structure for engaging with survivors about what is important to them. Current survivor engagement is ad-hoc and tends to be responsive to an organisation or establishment's request for feedback or formal consultation.

4.4 Within my Annual Plan 2016-17 I commit to seeking survivors' views on the development of a sustainable national framework for survivor engagement, where survivors are supported to shape the agenda, voice issues that are important to them and influence and inform practice improvements. Survivors from marginalised and under-represented groups including male survivors, LGBT survivors, Black and Minority survivors, refugees, disabled individuals, women involved in the Criminal Justice System, adult survivors of child sexual abuse and survivors not engaged with services will be encouraged and supported to contribute their voices. I prioritise the following deliverables within my plan;

- To support a pilot project to inform the development of a sustainable survivor led engagement framework with a view to promote the adoption of the model across Wales
- To support and ensure representation of all communities and groups of people to have their voices heard specifically where violence or behaviours tend to be related to a specific identities e.g. FGM

4.5 Between January and March 2016 I supported an engagement and consultation project with survivors of violence of abuse, domestic abuse and sexual violence delivered by Welsh Women's Aid and an independent facilitator. The consultation was requested by the then Minister for Public Services, Leighton Andrews AM to inform the National Advisory Group of survivor's recommendations on;

- Priorities for the national strategy – prevention, protection and support
- Improving public service responses and priorities for the National Adviser
- Test out views on continued survivor engagement in Wales

4.6 “Are you listening and am I being heard? Survivor Consultation: A report of the recommendations made by survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence to inform the National Strategy in Wales” contains a number of recommendations to inform the development of the national strategy, feedback on the priorities for the National Adviser and recommendations for improvements in specific agencies.

4.7 The report also contains recommendations that reflect survivors overwhelming support for a sustainable model of engagement and consultation. Survivors wanted to ensure that their voices and experiences remain central to policy and service improvements across Wales. Survivors strongly recommended that that a national framework for ongoing survivor engagement and involvement be prioritised and resourced by Welsh Government. I have attached a copy of the report to this response.

4.8 Survivors identified 10 key recommendations for priority inclusion in the National Strategy and I expect these recommendations to be integral to the Strategy, demonstrating how Welsh Government is placing survivors central to improvements in Wales.

4.9 I wish to highlight a number of examples of practice developments relating to survivor engagement;

1. The Lloyds Bank Foundation “Tackling Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence – A collaborative commissioning toolkit for services in Wales” published in 2016 was developed in collaboration with commissioners, survivors, providers and second tier organisations and highlights how understanding survivors experiences of public services is key to improving the effectiveness of prevention, protection and support services and systems. The toolkit provides guidance when considering engagement with survivors including good practice principles relating to childcare, accessible and safe locations, resources for interpreters, running dedicated sessions for different groups and thinking about different methods of participation. The toolkit has been widely distributed in Wales to inform strategic commissioning of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence services.
2. Survivor engagement has been central to needs assessment and strategy development in two local authority areas that have undertaken these activities in 2016 and has been identified as integral in other areas that are planning how they will meet the requirements of the Act.
3. Llamau’s The Llwybrau Project – Service User Consultation Toolkit which aims to share tools and ideas that can enhance service user engagement.
4. Welsh Women’s Aid are currently developing a national survivor participation framework using Survivors Empowering and Educating Domestic Abuse Services (SEEDS) model. This framework, which will be developed over the next two years enables survivors to engage in local and national decision making and can provide a mechanism for agencies to better understand survivor's experiences and perspectives. This model is being piloted in the South East Wales region to inform national roll out.

4.10 Meaningful and effective survivor engagement requires resource to ensure that good practice principles are demonstrated and that survivors are appropriately supported.

4.11 Survivors have lived through violence and abuse. They know first-hand what it is like and what may help others in similar situations. It is vital therefore that Welsh Government and Public Services are prepared and willing to listen as this can really have an impact on future services and resources for individuals and families impacted by violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

4.12 To ensure that survivor views and experiences are listened to effectively and inform policy and practice improvements in a meaningful way I believe that Wales should develop a national survivor engagement framework, centrally resourced by Welsh Government and independently delivered to ensure consistency and adherence to principles of good practice. A national framework could support engagement regionally to inform and shape improvements at this level whilst simultaneously contributing nationally through the National Advisory Group and National Adviser.

5. Whether survivors of abuse are beginning to experience better responses from public authorities as a result of the Act, particularly those needing specialist services?

5.1 The Act contains obligations that provide an overarching framework for improved responses e.g. the preparation and publication of a National and local strategies and the power to issue statutory guidance.

5.2 The only guidance published to date is that relating to the National Training Framework which aims to ensure that high quality and consistent training is available to those across the public and specialist sector.

5.3 Welsh Government consulted on the policy of "Ask and Act" between November 2015 and January 2016 but has not yet published final guidance. A principles-based approach to targeted enquiry, "Ask and Act" aims to create a more consistent approach to the identification and support for those who experience violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

5.4 When considered together, the aims of both policy developments are to increase awareness and understanding of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence across public authorities, to identify individuals experiencing these matters at the earliest opportunity and provide an appropriate response which may include referral to a specialist service. Increased identification will undoubtedly lead to increased referrals to specialist services; this at a time when services are facing year on year cuts to funding.

5.5 The impact of the National Training Framework is, at this time, minimal and Ask and Act is limited to being piloted in two early adopter sites with an evaluation planned for Autumn 2016. It is therefore unlikely that survivors of abuse have seen any improvements in responses as a result of these policy developments.

5.6 The Act requires Local Authorities and Local Health Boards to develop a joint strategy by May 2018. The Strategy must pay regard to existing needs assessments including the population needs assessment required by the Social Services and Well-Being (Wales) Act 2014 and others listed in the Act. The process of needs assessment should identify priority areas and gaps in existing provision and identify resources for investment from across stakeholders. Although areas have started to consider needs assessment information, only two local authority areas have, to my knowledge, begun developing their strategy and neither of these areas have articulated as yet the impact of strategic priorities on service delivery models. It is too early therefore to consider whether the requirement to develop joint strategies has or will result in improved responses for survivors.

5.7 The role of the specialist violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence sector is critical to achieving better responses for individuals. In the recent report survivors identify the need for improved links between public authorities and the specialist sector and survivors wanting to know about specialist services in their areas and how they can access for information and support.

5.8 When considering the potential for increased referrals to specialist services as a result of increased awareness and requirements to “Ask and Act” there must be progress towards agreeing sustainable funding for services to ensure that high quality, specialist provision is accessible across Wales to provide a needs-led, strengths based response to individuals and families at the earliest opportunity. These principles should underpin commissioning of all violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence services however, in the absence of Welsh Government’s Commissioning Guidance processes different approaches are being taken to commission different services.

5.9 There are examples of initiatives across Wales demonstrating how Public Authorities are seeking to improve their responses to survivors;

- IRIS – general practice based project with health and the specialist sector working in partnership to improve the health care response to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. Funded by the South Wales Police and Crime Commissioner IRIS is currently being piloted in Cwm Taf and Cardiff and Vale Health Board areas.
- TALK – an early identification and intervention model for key personnel and students who are undertaking further or higher education and are or have experienced domestic abuse or sexual assault. Funded by the South Wales Police and Crime Commissioner
- Free from Fear – Gwent Social Housing Domestic Abuse Partnership – researching and developing a toolkit for improving responses of social landlords and preventing domestic abuse

- “Ask me scheme” – Welsh Women’s Aid and Powys Local Authority piloting the scheme which aims to create safe spaces in local communities where it is safe for survivors to disclose and get signposted appropriately to access to support they need. This pilot goes beyond the responses of public authorities and the specialist sector building a community response to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

5.10 These initiatives have an opportunity to contribute to policy development and it is important that Welsh Government is willing to listen to ensure that learning from these initiatives is embedded within national guidance and are translated into practical application to improve responses to individuals experiencing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

5.11 Survivors recommend that Welsh Government place a “greater focus on stopping perpetrators behaviours and, where coercive control is a feature, on getting perpetrators to leave and end abusive relationships”.<sup>1</sup>

5.12 It is therefore also important to consider how public authorities respond to perpetrators of violence and abuse. Statutory guidance is expected from Welsh Government in relation to working with perpetrators and this guidance needs to provide overarching principles and clear direction from Welsh Government as to the role of public authorities in challenging and holding perpetrators to account for their behaviours. Evidenced and accredited programmes are an important element of our responses to perpetrators and I expect the guidance to include minimum expectations for the commissioning of perpetrator interventions to ensure the safety of individuals and families are priority and the management of risk and support to partners / ex partners are integral to any programme being commissioned and delivered in Wales.

5.13 The purpose of the Act is clear in its aim to improve responses of public authorities and improve the arrangements for the prevention of and protection and support for those experiencing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. The policy developments to date are the first provisions intended to deliver on this purpose. Although too early to assess their contribution to improved responses I would also wish to see Welsh Government and Public Authorities committing to continuous, ongoing improvement in response both to changing individual and societal needs and learning from within Wales and beyond as it relates to the prevention, protection and support of individuals experiencing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

6. Whether the National Adviser has sufficient power and independence from the Welsh Government to ensure implementation of the Act?

<sup>1</sup> “Are you listening and am I being heard? Survivor Consultation: A report of the recommendations made by survivors or violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence to inform the National Strategy in Wales”

6.1 The functions of the National Adviser are detailed in Section 21 of the Act;

1) The National Adviser is to exercise the following functions, subject to the direction of the Welsh Ministers

- f) To advise the Welsh Ministers about pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- g) To give other assistance to the Welsh Ministers in their pursuit of the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- h) To undertake research relating to the purpose of this Act*
- i) To advise and give other assistance, with the agreement of the Ministers, to any persons on matters relating to pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- j) Produce reports on any matter relating to the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*

3) If the National Adviser requests that a relevant authority provides information for the purpose of the exercise of any of the Adviser's functions, the authority must comply with the request unless the authority considers that doing so would – a) be incompatible with the authority's own duties

b) otherwise have an adverse effect on the exercise of the authority's functions

4) A relevant authority which decides not to comply with a request under subsection (3) must notify the National Adviser in writing of the reasons for the decision.

6.2 The powers of the National Adviser, as the title of the role suggests only extends to advisory functions; providing advice and assistance to Ministers and any other persons; undertaking research, producing reports and requesting information from relevant authorities.

6.3 Within this advisory capacity the role has no powers to hold Ministers, Welsh Government or public services to account in relation to the implementation of the Act and as such, there is "no teeth" to the role. This raises further questions in relation to what sanctions can be imposed if the legal obligations mandated by the Act are not implemented. There is currently a lack of detail as to any sanction options relating to the requirements of the Act or any statutory guidance. If it is not the National Adviser who holds public authorities to account in relation to the Act where does the accountability sit?

6.4 Throughout the appointment process to the role it was emphasised that this role was a public appointment and that nothing within the terms and conditions should be construed as, or be taken to create a contract of employment between myself and the Welsh Government i.e. I was not an employee. However there are elements of the post that from a public perspective could be unclear and raise questions relating to the independence of the role i.e. the role has a Welsh Government email address and is effectively based within the Welsh Government's Community Safety Division in Merthyr.

6.5 I am absolutely clear about the need for the role of the National Adviser to be independent and I advocate this at every available opportunity and seek to demonstrate this in all that I do. I feel however that the current infrastructure in which the role operates and the lack of resources available to the Adviser limit not only the effectiveness and potential of the role but could also undermine the independence that is integral to the role.

6.6. My annual plan outlines the principles and priorities that I have set myself and sets out my statement of intent for the role of National Adviser. The breadth and scale of my annual plan also raises questions about resources and the capacity of the National Adviser.

6.7 The role was appointed on a part time basis– 3 days a week and there is no budget allocated to the National Adviser over and above salary and on costs. Any request for financial resources to carry out the functions of the role has to be made to Welsh Government or Ministers.

6.8 In response to a request for additional resources to support the National Adviser an allocation of part time hours within the Violence against Women and Domestic Abuse team were identified to support the role. Although grateful for the administrative support this role can offer I am acutely mindful of the nature of support I request both in terms of not compromising the independence of my role nor the role of the civil servant.

6.9 Additional resources are required to support, build capacity and consolidate the effectiveness of the role if its potential is to be realised and a balance is required between the resources provided by Welsh Government and the fundamental need to maintain the independence of the role.

6.10 The independence of the National Adviser should not rely wholly on the individual undertaking the role; rather it should also be supported by appropriate allocation of resources to the National Adviser and an infrastructure to enable the individual to perform the functions of the role.

7. To what extent the good practice guide to healthy relationships is successfully influencing the development of a whole school approach to challenging violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence?

7.1 The provisions within the Act as they relate to Education are included within;

Section 9 - Requiring local authorities, by regulations, to publish information about whether and how local education functions are being exercised to promote the purpose of the Act

Section 10 – Issuing of guidance to the governing bodies of further education institutions on how the bodies may contribute to the purpose of the Act.

7.2 I am unaware of the proposed content or timescale for publishing either the regulations or guidance.

7.3 It is interesting to note that the Auditor General has published intention to carry out a study of how councils and their partners are tackling the issues of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales. A call for evidence has recently been made to shape the aims of the full study and as part of the evidence Local Authorities are asked whether they have considered how they will provide information to the public about whether, and if so how, local authority education functions are being exercised to promote the purpose of the Violence against Women, Domestic Violence and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015.

7.4 On the 26th February 2015 whilst the Bill was progressing through the National Assembly a written statement was made by the then Minister for Public Services, Leighton Andrews outlining the education policies that would be introduced to complement the provisions of the Act. These provisions included;

- The need to consider healthy and respectful relationships within the Curriculum Reform work
- The publication of a good practice guide to healthy relationships education
- Safeguarding provisions within the revised “Keeping Learners Safe” guidance and all Wales protocol
- Inclusion of education based staff within the National Training Framework
- Estyn led thematic review to approaches across Wales
- Guidance to school governors
- Funding of the Spectrum project and All Wales Core Liaison Programme

7.5 “A Whole Education Approach to Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence – A Good Practice Guide” was published in October 2015 and its intent is described on Welsh Government’s website as;

“to be used as a handy tool to help integrate these issues and approaches into existing teaching and management practices”

7.6 The guide has been published on the Welsh Government website but further than this I do not know how the guide has been distributed to the Education sector and what expectations have been attached to the guide by Welsh Government. I am not aware of any monitoring mechanism that enables Welsh Government to assess how many schools are aware of the guide, how many schools have or intend to implement the guide or what mechanisms are in place to assess the difference being made by adopting a whole education approach to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

7.7 For schools that would like to adopt the principles of a whole education approach I am unsure what resources have been considered locally, regionally or nationally to support and enable the schools to drive forward this cultural change. Local and national specialist services would undoubtedly support schools and other education settings to implement the approach however consideration of a long term solution is required for appropriate resources to facilitate effective, sustainable implementation.

7.8 A toolkit of resources and materials for use within primary, secondary and further education settings to complement the good practice guide has also been researched and compiled by Welsh Women’s Aid and AVA (Against Violence and Abuse). We await publication of the resource however, I fear that without clear direction from Welsh Government as to the expectation for implementation and mechanisms for data collection and monitoring there is a real risk that the commitments made by the former Minister will fail to deliver change within our education settings.

7.9 A key principle within the Whole Education Approach good practice guide is staff learning about violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. This applies to all teaching staff, lecturers, tutors, youth workers, non-learning and support staff. Training should be provided in line with the National Training Framework which will apply to all staff within local authority education functions. Within the “New Deal” element of the curriculum reform there is an opportunity to align continuous professional development with the requirements of the national training framework to ensure that all staff receive appropriate training relating to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. At this time I am unclear as to what extent education professionals recognise the relevance of the requirements of the Act to their roles and functions.

7.10 A thematic review is expected to be carried out by Estyn during 2016/17 which should provide a baseline of information as to current practice across Wales. Taking consideration of the scope of work relevant to education (National Training Framework, Whole Education Approach, reporting requirements of the Act, areas of learning within the curriculum reform) I expect the review to make recommendations for practice improvement and outline how monitoring responses and approaches to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence should be embedded within the inspection framework.

7.11 Education plays a key role in the primary prevention of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence and survivors in Wales identify compulsory prevention education in all schools and colleges as a key priority for inclusion within the National Strategy<sup>2</sup>. Survivors said;

“Children need to know what’s wrong and right in relationships, what’s acceptable and what help is available – what services there are. It needs to be age appropriate, in primary school – it should be compulsory and not out of choice as parents and some children may not get it. As they get older, in secondary schools, boys already hit girls for the sake of it and no-one challenges it”

“I want my daughter and her friends to know. I wish I’d had more knowledge, I never saw it coming and I’m not stupid but we just didn’t have any education, any awareness. I didn’t know there were services here to help me. This should be taught in all schools”

7.12 The development of a new curriculum following Professor Donaldson’s “Successful Futures” Report and Welsh Government’s “Qualified for Life – A curriculum for Wales – A Curriculum for Life” provides an opportunity to align the Act with the four purposes of the curriculum. In particular how the Act relates to the purposes that all children and young people will be healthy, confident individuals who know how to find information to keep safe and well and form positive relationships based upon trust and respect.

7.13 It is imperative that the curriculum includes compulsory age appropriate, preventative programmes regarding all forms of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence grounded in a gender equality and human rights framework.

7.14 The role of Education is crucial if Wales is to successfully implement and realise the potential of the Act. This highlights, once again the necessity for a truly integrated national strategy requiring leadership, commitment and resources from across Government to deliver lasting change.

I submit this written response for consideration of the Equality, Local Government and Communities Committee and look forward to contributing further to the post legislative inquiry when I provide evidence on the 19th October 2016.

ANNUAL PLAN

National Adviser for tackling Violence against Women, other forms of Gender based Violence, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence

NATIONAL ADVISER RHIAN BOWEN-DAVIES

INTRODUCTION

My name is Rhian Bowen-Davies and this is my first Annual Plan as National Adviser for Violence against Women, other forms of Gender based Violence, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

This plan sets out my objectives and priorities for 2016/17 and outlines the key principles by which I shall undertake the duties and responsibilities of the role.

The appointment of the National Adviser, the first role of its kind in the UK, is required by the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015 (The Act).

This ground breaking legislation provides the strategic framework to improve arrangements for the prevention, protection and support of those affected by all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

The Act applies to all individuals, recognising that anybody can experience gender based violence irrespective of age, gender, ethnicity, sexual orientation or religion. We cannot however, ignore the disproportionate impact and effect of gender based violence, domestic abuse and sexual violence on women and girls.

Violence against Women and other forms of gender based violence are violations of human rights and persist in our society as a cause and consequence of continued gendered inequalities. Achieving gender equality within a wider human rights framework is integral to improving the arrangements for the protection, prevention and support for all individuals experiencing any form of gender based violence.

STATEMENT OF INTENT

Over the course of my term as Adviser my challenge, ultimately, is to contribute to long lasting change in the prevention, protection and support for all individuals experiencing any form of gender based violence.

The current national context in relation to inequalities and gender based violence affords a unique opportunity to pursue the elements set out in this Plan. Alongside the Act, the following national developments are integral to achieving my vision:

- The Well Being of Future Generations (Wales) Act 2015 and the Social Services and Wellbeing (Wales) Act 2015 provide a unique opportunity for me to integrate the purpose and requirements of the Act within the wider legislative context; embedding Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as a key strategic priority in determining the well-being of our Nation.
- The recently published Equality and Human Rights Commission's Report "Is Wales Fairer? - The state of equality and human rights 2015" identifies the elimination of violence, abuse and harassment in the community as a key equality and human rights challenge for Wales. The report aims to inform the priorities of the Welsh Government and devolved public authorities when setting Equality Objectives for 2016-20 in line with the Public Sector Equality Duty.

UK legislative developments strengthen further the purpose of the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Act in particular those contained within the Serious Crime Act 2015

- Sections 70 – 75 introducing new offences relating to Female Genital Mutilation, protection orders and a mandatory duty to report to the police
- Section 76 which came into force on December 29th 2015 introduces an offence of “Controlling or Coercive behaviour in an intimate or family relationship”. This offence recognises the reality of domestic abuse for victims; a continuous and repeated pattern of controlling behaviours which have a cumulative impact on an individual’s day to day life causing fear, isolation and distress.

I will endeavour to inform and influence the implementation of these national developments that I believe, alongside the Act, provide a framework that can truly strengthen and improve policy and practice.

This annual plan covers a year in which Assembly Elections will take place. Regardless of the political landscape post May 2016, the Act provides a world leading and long term commitment to improving arrangements for the prevention, protection and support of individuals experiencing any form of gender based violence and I will work alongside the Ministers of the next Assembly term to ensure that the momentum and focus of the legislation is continued.

To deliver real change it is crucial for me to work alongside organisations whose functions are both devolved and non-devolved.

I am acutely aware that my vision and commitment to deliver real improvements for individuals and families who are experiencing any form of gender based violence aligns with significant challenges for our Public and Voluntary sectors. Within my term of office the face of public services in Wales could look very different and I will work alongside leaders of Public Services to ensure that Violence against Women and other forms of Gender Based Violence continue as a strategic priority. With further pressures on public sector budgets forecast I will evidence the cost benefit of effective early intervention and support services and encourage appropriate statutory investment to deliver long term societal cost savings. The cost of getting it wrong in just one instance significantly outweighs investment and resourcing of effective early intervention and prevention.

The Act and subsequent provisions of statutory guidance will increase the early identification of individuals and families and subsequently increase demand on services Wales-wide. It is imperative that individuals, wherever they are in Wales, can access high quality service provision responsive to their needs. It is unacceptable for individuals to face a postcode lottery for quality, needs-led, evidence based service provision that can support positive, lasting outcomes.

The challenge: to use my role to promote awareness of key issues at a strategic level and to work alongside commissioners, service providers and survivors to enable new and innovative thinking about service delivery, collaboration and approaches to early intervention and prevention in order to uphold and enforce peoples’ right to be safe.

My vision and overall aim: through joint endeavour to ensure that any individual (covered by the Act) who is abused, injured, violated, under threat or unsafe can expect and be confident that they will receive a timely, appropriate, consistent, quality and sustained response when this right has been compromised or is under threat.

THE ROLE AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NATIONAL ADVISER

The National Adviser provides an independent, expert perspective to the work being taken forward in Wales; advising, shaping and informing legislative, strategy and policy developments and driving forward improvements in the prevention, protection and support for all individuals affected by violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales.

The functions of the Adviser are detailed in Section 21 of the Act;

The National Adviser is to exercise the following functions, subject to the direction of the Welsh Ministers

- a) To advise the Welsh Ministers about pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- b) To give other assistance to the Welsh Ministers in their pursuit of the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- c) To undertake research relating to the purpose of this Act*
- d) To advise and give other assistance, with the agreement of the Ministers, to any persons on matters relating to pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- e) Produce reports on any matter relating to the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*

The legislation enables me to request information from relevant authorities for the purpose of exercising my role and review actions being taken by individuals and organisations to implement the Act and subsequent statutory guidance. I will report my findings of any such reviews to Welsh Ministers.

I will not shy away from challenging relevant authorities and others if the requirements of the legislation or statutory guidance are not being implemented however, my aim would be to work alongside any such authority or organisation to support improvements.

Requirements for the National Adviser to draft an Annual Plan are contained within the Act. The Annual Plan must set out how I propose to exercise the functions of the role during the following financial year. Section 22 (2) states that an Annual Plan must

- a) State the Ministerial Adviser's objectives and priorities for the financial year covered by the report*
- b) State any matters on which the Ministerial Adviser proposes to report during that year*
- c) State any other activities the National Adviser proposes to undertake during that year in the exercise of the National Adviser's functions.*

The legislation allows the National Adviser to consult with any persons in preparing the annual plan and for this, my first annual plan; I invited individuals, organisations and services to share their thoughts and priorities for inclusion. This invitation was extended via social media, written communications, attendance at events and through the numerous and diverse discussions that I have undertaken during these initial months.

In preparing my annual plan I have considered contributions from the Police and Police and Crime Commissioners, Fire and Rescue Services, Public Health Wales, Health Boards and NHS Trusts, Local Authorities, The Older People’s Commissioner, The Independent Police Complaints Commissioner, National and Local Voluntary Sector organisations, specialist Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence service providers and individual practitioners and Survivors. I have listened to what is important to them in shaping my objectives and priorities for 2016/17.

Alongside the Nolan Principles for Public Life, 7 core principles will inform how I will carry out my duties and underpin the priorities and objectives I have set for this year:

Safety &amp; Safeguarding	For me, the key principle that underpins the purpose of the legislation and my role is that of safeguarding; any child, young person or adult, at risk, or experiencing any form of violence against women, gender based violence, domestic abuse or sexual violence.
Leadership	I will provide visible, active leadership and a consistent, strategic focus for all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.
Enabling &amp; Encouraging	I will work with and alongside Public Services and the Voluntary Sector to inform and influence change; making workable recommendations to improve the impact and effectiveness of services for individuals and families.
Early Intervention &amp; Prevention	I will work alongside stakeholders to develop and promote an evidence base that demonstrates the impact and effectiveness of early intervention in reducing long term societal risks and financial costs
Collaboration &amp; Integration	I will identify and support opportunities nationally, regionally and locally to mainstream Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as “core business” and facilitate innovative, creative ways of working together.
Consultation &amp; engagement	I will ensure there are opportunities for stakeholders and survivors to inform and shape policy and service delivery. I will continuously seek to listen, comprehend and respond to their experiences, needs, challenges and aspirations.
Promoting learning &amp; excellence	I will provide a strategic platform to ensure that good practice and learning is disseminated and used to support improvements that enable service providers and commissioners to achieve the highest possible standards.

Objectives and priorities 2016/2017

As National Adviser, my work will be driven by the objectives and priorities contained within this plan.

The priorities state the focus for this financial year whilst the objectives provide a longer term framework for my work. The objectives that underpin my priorities are inter-related and should be viewed as a whole. The diagram illustrates this connectivity which is further explored in this section.

The requirement to produce an annual plan provides an opportunity for on-going reflection, enabling my in-year priorities to be influenced and informed by progress, developments and learning. My plan needs to be dynamic and an action research approach enables me to remain flexible and responsive to change whilst retaining the focus and clarity to work towards my overall aim.

Overall Aim and Objectives

The Objectives and Priorities

OBJECTIVE 1

- To advise and support the strategic implementation of the legislation

Reference framework →

The Act aims to ensure a consistent consideration of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as a strategic priority.

The development of a National Strategy will be progressed in 2016 along with the development of National Indicators which should clearly articulate progress and contribute to wider indicators and outcomes.

Although providing a focus on Violence against Women, the Act ensures that provisions for the prevention, protection and support extends to all victims of gender based violence, domestic abuse and sexual violence regardless of gender, age, ethnicity, sexual orientation or religion.

To ensure greater understanding of the scope of the legislation there is a need to raise awareness of all forms of violence against women and gender based violence as defined by the legislation; sexual violence including rape, sexual harassment and exploitation, forced marriage, so called Honour Based Violence, Female Genital Mutilation and Domestic Abuse.

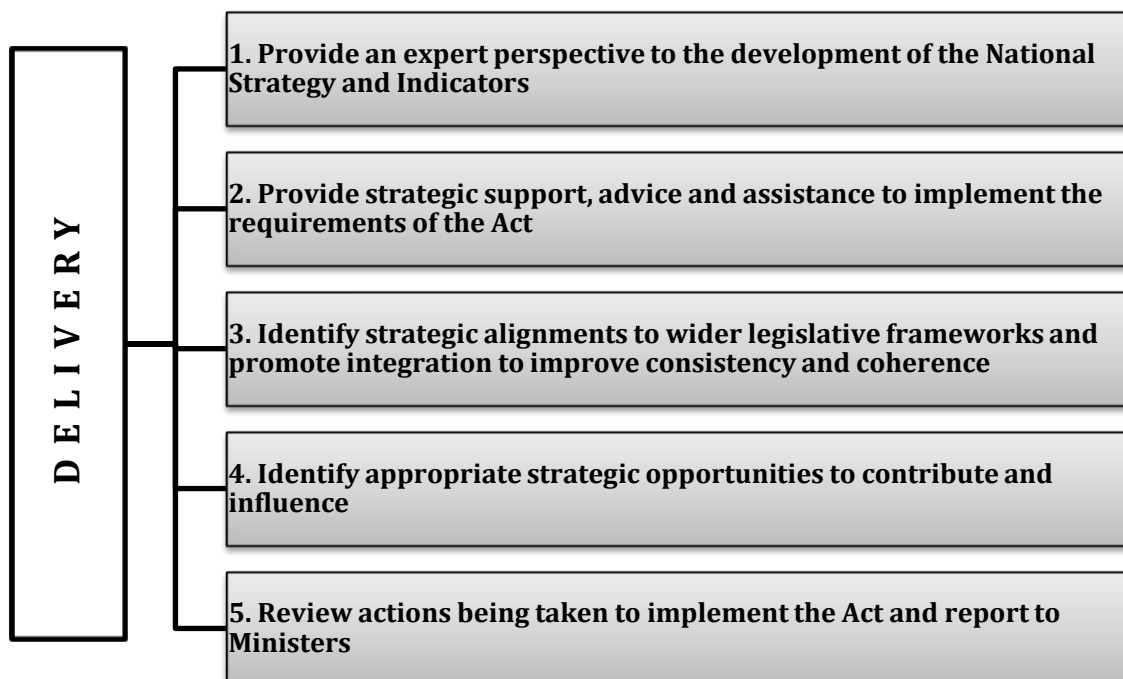

The legislation requires relevant authorities to prepare, publish and implement joint local strategies for Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence. Such strategies should be informed by local / regional needs assessments which demonstrate an understanding of demand and analysis of gaps in service provision for all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

Relevant authorities are also required to comply with statutory guidance issued in line with Section 15 of the Act. Statutory guidance will be issued in relation to the National Training Framework, Effective Multi Agency Collaboration, Ask and Act, the commissioning of services and work related to perpetrators.

“Successful Futures”, Professor Donaldson’s report provides the foundation for a twenty-first century curriculum and “Qualified for Life; A curriculum for Wales – A curriculum for life” sets out the steps that will be taken to achieve the first “made in Wales” curriculum.

I will monitor the progress of education provisions; both the requirements contained within the Act and wider actions. I will influence, inform and advise on such matters to ensure that the commitments articulated during the progress of the Act are implemented and that further opportunities to influence and integrate gender based violence and healthy relationships into the new curriculum framework are identified and explored; ensuring that all children and young people are healthy, confident individuals who form positive relationships based upon trust and mutual respect.

To deliver this objective I will focus on the following priorities:

OBJECTIVE 2

•Develop a strategic, coherent and integrated approach to policy and service delivery decisions

Reference framework →

To enable Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence to be consistently considered as a strategic priority its governance and accountability, at all levels, must be robust and integrated within strategic frameworks.

Consistent strategic information to inform decisions is required. It is a complex task to ensure that all disciplines (education, health, criminal justice, housing and social care) link together on a strategic and practice level and collaborate effectively where necessary. It is crucial that this area is tackled and progressed at a policy making, strategic level in order that services can be integrated and seamless at the point of delivery and from the point of view of service users.

Operating in isolation is not an option particularly given the current opportunities for real alignment and integration across sectors afforded by the legislation referred to earlier.

Across Wales, commissioning and funding of interventions and support services are inconsistent and preventative responses tend to be under resourced and variable across localities. Different principles and approaches to commissioning are being applied depending on the commissioning party with different outcomes being sought. This has inevitably resulted in an over-reliance by service providers on specific funding programmes which due to funding eligibility criterion end up restricting opportunities for innovation and service development. Many services continue to be funded on a year by year basis impacting on forward planning, the ability of service providers to be innovative and creative and ultimately the sustainability of support providers.

There is an overwhelming need to review existing funding arrangements nationally, regionally and locally for all forms of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence and to advise on the feasibility of a sustainable funding model and opportunities to pool statutory resources and jointly commission services to improve outcomes for individuals and families.

Where commissioning of services is chosen as the preferred option to distribute resources the process should be compliant with all legislative and regulatory requirements including the most recent changes to EU procurement regulations and the EU Victims Directive, in force since November 2015. In addition such processes need to be effectively executed, skilfully administered as well as being fair, transparent and accountable.

Commissioning for any violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence service should be informed by survivors and specialist knowledge and be underpinned by a needs assessment demonstrating the current and potential demand for services and an analysis of gaps in provision whilst fully considering the duties imposed by the gender equality duty.

OBJECTIVE 3

- Develop workable recommendations to improve the impact and effectiveness of public and voluntary service provision

Reference framework →

Services to need be inclusive, accessible, high quality and value for money. In order to achieve this:

- Service providers need not to be hidebound and limited by short term funding arrangements and variable commissioning systems
- Service providers need to be encouraged to be innovative and creative within the context of accurate, well researched information in respect of local assessments of need and service gaps without being constrained by different types of funding regimes
- Wales has a wealth of expertise in terms of support provision and commissioning practices. We need to develop a culture where learning and good practice is shared and extended so that excellence can become the norm
- Taking risks is key to innovation and developing new models of provision and this aspect needs to be fostered and encouraged within patterns of commissioning.
- If prevention is to become embedded within core practice commissioners and policy makers will need to develop new ways of measuring the short and long term value of such approaches beyond annual outcome reporting systems and short term funding regimes
- In terms of achieving long term change it will also be necessary to consider approaches to perpetrators and to source models of good practice that are capable of altering patterns of behaviour and where safety and safeguarding are prioritised
- The geographical landscape of Wales, the rich cultural diversity along with the range and size of settlements and communities requires a flexible, locality sensitive response. A variety of service models and approaches are essential to respond fully to Welsh citizens regardless of where they live. It is clear that a one-size fits all approach will not be sufficient.

It is clear that a pluralist response is required to meet diverse demand. No group covered in the legislation (Violence against Women, other forms of Gender based Violence, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence) constitutes a homogenous group and therefore responses will need to be complex, sophisticated, diverse and locality sensitive to respond to the challenge and vision set out in the Statement of Intent.

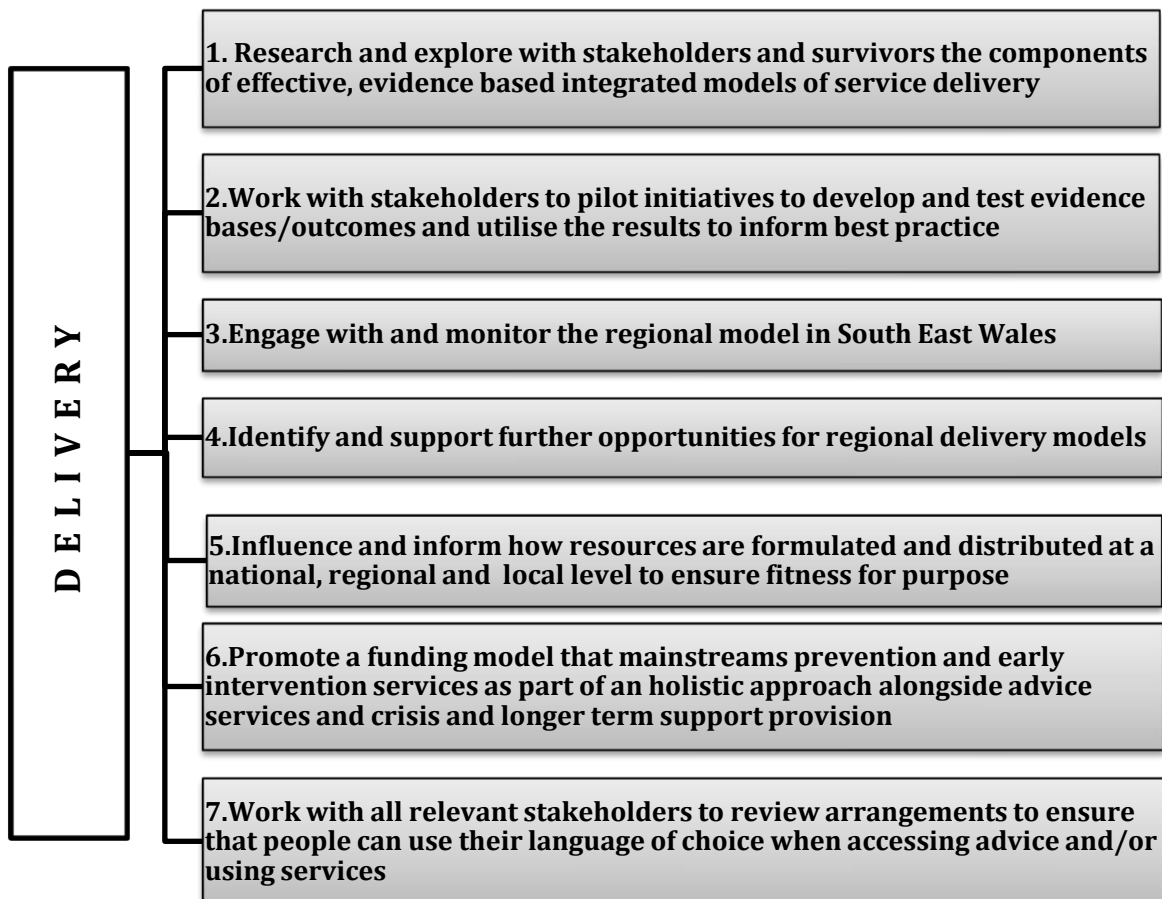

I am aware that intrinsic to the above is the question of resources and that this Annual Plan sits within a period of swinging cuts to public services. The reality is that funding for this area of work has to compete with other service priorities. Therefore it is imperative that the need for new services and the value of existing services is well argued and evidenced.

In such times and to embed gender based violence, domestic abuse and sexual violence across all sectors it will also be necessary to scrutinise existing patterns of funding, commissioning and providing services. It will be essential to ask whether services could be funded and/or provided more effectively and to be prepared to change and adapt. In saying this I am well aware that voluntary sector providers and the public sector have a track record of responding and adapting to changing political and economic circumstances.

The regional model adopted in South East Wales during 2015/16 is an example of such a response and provides a platform for shared learning and supporting further regional models. The evolution of this model has required a significant shift from historic arrangements and the transition will continue to present challenges to existing thinking and approaches. If we are truly committed to improving arrangements for the prevention, protection and support of all individuals we must be radical and brave in our approach .

In many respects I think this objective is the most challenging and complex and also the most pressing because it is about front line services and the responses that are made to people at the time they are in need.

To deliver this objective I will focus on the following priorities

OBJECTIVE 4

- Provide a strategic platform for shared learning and research

Reference framework →

The preceding objectives and priorities outline the challenges and opportunities for change in order to deliver real improvements in the prevention, protection and support for individuals and families.

To enable service providers and commissioners to achieve the highest possible standards a culture of learning, challenge and change must be created whereby stakeholders support and encourage each other to explore and identify good practice.

A strategic platform to promote innovative practices, evidence based interventions and evaluations would encourage sharing of knowledge and continuous improvement across devolved and non- devolved services.

There are numerous innovative practices and interventions currently underway in Wales and the strategic platform would enable greater sharing of knowledge and learning to inform practice and service improvements from these Wales based practices and beyond.

Where reviews have been undertaken there is an absence of a platform where recommendations and learning can be shared.

There continue to be gaps in our knowledge and understanding relating to diverse needs of individuals experiencing gender based violence and as a result, appropriate responses and interventions to inform an evidence base. A strategic platform would provide an arena for research to be shared and for interventions to be tested.

The following areas for further research were highlighted by respondents

- What are the components of an effective integrated community model?
- What is the evidence base for effective recovery programmes?

A greater understanding of the needs and the evidence based for effective interventions and models of support for the following groups;

- Older people
- Children and young people as individuals - as victims and those demonstrating abusive behaviours
- Adolescent to parent violence
- Bi-directional violence
- Individuals who 'choose', feel they have no other options but to stay in an abusive relationship
- Stalking and Harassment

To deliver this objective I will focus on the following priorities

Reference framework →

Survivors' experiences of protection and support arrangements are key to me understanding their needs, challenges and aspirations and should be integral to informing the development of the National Strategy and my work as Adviser.

There is currently no sustainable structure for engaging with survivors about what is important to them. Current survivor engagement is ad-hoc and tends to be responsive to an organisation or establishment's request for feedback or formal consultation. I wish to seek survivors' views on the development of a sustainable national framework for survivor engagement, where survivors are supported to shape the agenda, voice issues that are important to them and influence and inform practice improvements. Survivors from marginalised and under-represented groups including LGBT survivors, Black and Minority survivors, refugees, disabled individuals, women involved in the Criminal Justice System and adult survivors of child sexual abuse will be encouraged and supported to contribute their voices.

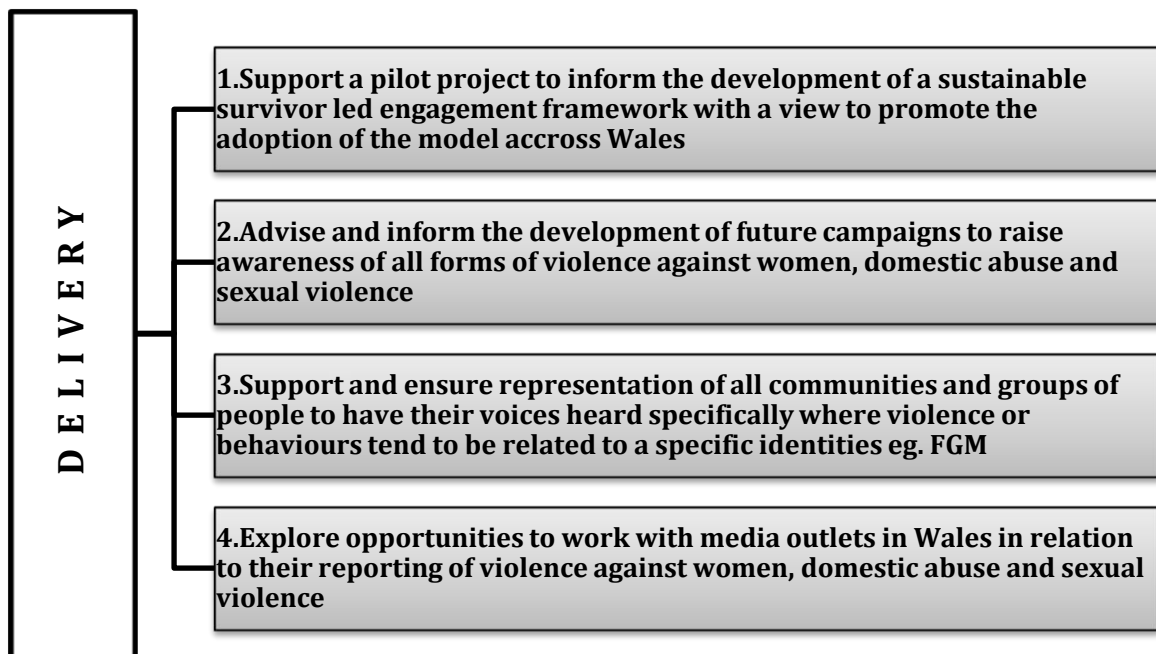

I will advise and inform the development of media campaigns relating to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. The use of targeted campaigns to raise awareness and influence attitudes and behaviours should be informed by survivors and stakeholders to ensure that experiences are accurately reflected and the language, imagery and messaging understood by the wider public.

I am keen to explore the role of the media in Wales in raising awareness and reporting of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. I will seek opportunities to work alongside partners in the media to promote good practice reporting.

I will continue to engage with stakeholders, survivors and the public by means of formal and informal communications identifying the most appropriate format in each case. I will instigate and respond appropriately to media opportunities in order to maximise the reach of messages and contribute to events and conferences which provide an opportunity to meet and engage with diverse groups.

To reduce barriers to effective communication I will continue to communicate bilingually and encourage individuals and organisations to communicate with me in the language of their choice.

To deliver this objective I will focus on the following priorities

Delivery of my Annual Plan

I will develop an Implementation Plan detailing how I will deliver the objectives and priorities outlined in this document and for 2016/17 I intend to the report on the following;

- The development and publication of the National Strategy and National Indicators
- The development of a national sustainable, survivor led engagement framework providing inclusive and supported opportunities for individuals to have their voices heard
- Progress towards a holistic, sustainable funding model that maximises resources, avoids duplication and delivers outcomes for individuals and families through high quality, co-ordinated service provision

- Mapping of recommendations from Wales Domestic Abuse Homicide Reviews and identification of shared learning platforms

Monitoring and reporting

Each year I am required to report to the Welsh Ministers about the exercise of my functions during the previous financial year. My annual report must include

- a) An assessment of the extent to which the National Adviser's objectives and priorities for the financial year covered have been met;*
- b) A statement of the matters on which the National Adviser has reported during that year;*
- c) A statement of the other activities the National Adviser has undertaken during that year in the exercise of the National Adviser's functions.*

During the year I will report progress against the Implementation Plan on a quarterly basis to the National Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Advisory Group, Chaired by the Minister for Public Services, Leighton Andrews AM.

The Act requires Welsh Ministers to publish both my annual plan and report.

Closing Remarks

There can be no denying the commitment and progress that has been made in Wales to date in providing a national vision to drive improvements and deliver change.

My annual plan sets out my statement of intent as Wales' first National Adviser and how I feel my role can contribute to this vision.

I have shared the principles and objectives that will underpin my work for the duration of my term and I have also outlined the priorities which I believe are necessary to build on the momentum of the national context and make the Act and its purpose a reality for individuals and families.

Some of the priorities stated within this plan require a long term commitment and, where appropriate, will continue through to future plans. This is due to the scale and complexity of the work required to achieve the strategic co-ordination and coherence that is necessary to deliver lasting change.

If Wales is to realise the potential of its ground breaking legislation we must all work together to embed a responsibility to provide the best possible arrangements for prevention, protection and support for all individuals. As the Adviser I am reliant on your commitment and co-operation to drive forward the priorities contained within this plan and I look forward to working with you.

ANNUAL REPORT

National Adviser for tackling Violence against Women, other forms of Gender based Violence, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence

NATIONAL ADVISER RHIAN BOWEN-DAVIES

INTRODUCTION

My name is Rhian Bowen-Davies and this is my first Annual Report as National Adviser for Violence against Women, other forms of Gender based Violence, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

This, my first Annual Report, relates to the six month period from my appointment in September 2015 to March 31st 2016 and summarises how I exercised the functions of the National Adviser. This six month period informed the content of my Annual Plan April 2016 – March 2017 which was published in April 2016.

The appointment of the National Adviser, the first role of its kind in the UK, is required by the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015 (the Act).

This potentially ground breaking legislation provides the strategic framework to improve arrangements for the prevention, protection and support of those affected by all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

During this period I reported to the Minister for Public Services, Leighton Andrews AM.

THE ROLE AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NATIONAL ADVISER

The National Adviser provides an independent, expert perspective to the work being taken forward in Wales; advising, shaping and informing legislative, strategy and policy developments and driving forward improvements in the prevention, protection and support for all individuals affected by violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

The role is a statutory advisory role, independent of Government, and its functions are detailed in Section 21 of the Act;

The National Adviser is to exercise the following functions, subject to the direction of the Welsh Ministers

- a) To advise the Welsh Ministers about pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- b) To give other assistance to the Welsh Ministers in their pursuit of the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- c) To undertake research relating to the purpose of this Act*
- d) To advise and give other assistance, with the agreement of the Ministers, to any persons on matters relating to pursuing the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*
- e) Produce reports on any matter relating to the purpose of this Act or tackling related matters*

The Act requires the National Adviser to draft an Annual Plan. The Annual Plan must set out how I propose to exercise the functions of the role during the following financial year.

Section 22 (2) states that an Annual Plan must

- a) State the Ministerial Adviser's objectives and priorities for the financial year covered by the report
- b) State any matters on which the Ministerial Adviser proposes to report during that year
- c) State any other activities the National Adviser proposes to undertake during that year in the exercise of the National Adviser's functions.

My first Annual Plan was published in April 2016.

Each year I am required to report to the Welsh Ministers about the exercise of my functions during the previous financial year. My annual report must include

- a) An assessment of the extent to which the National Adviser's objectives and priorities for the financial year covered have been met;
- b) A statement of the matters on which the National Adviser has reported during that year;
- c) A statement of the other activities the National Adviser has undertaken during that year in the exercise of the National Adviser's functions.

The Act requires Welsh Ministers to publish both my annual plan and report.

THE CONTEXT – RELEVANT DEVELOPMENTS

The six month period covered by this Annual Report provided an exciting and progressive international, UK and national context for me to establish the role of National Adviser.

ON THE WORLD STAGE

In September 2015 world leaders agreed 17 new global sustainable development goals as part of the “Transforming our World – The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”.

Sustainable Development Goal 5 commits to achieving “Gender Equality and empowering all Women and Girls” and includes targets to

- End all forms of discrimination against all women and girls everywhere
- Eliminate all forms of violence against all women and girls in the public and private spheres, including trafficking and sexual and other types of exploitation
- Eliminate all harmful practices, such as child, early and forced marriage and female genital mutilation

The publication of the sustainable development goals underlines a global commitment to ending all forms of violence against women and girls and a set of indicators to monitor the progress of the goals are expected in 2016.

ELSEWHERE IN THE UK

The publication of the UK Government's "Ending Violence against Women and Girls Strategy 2016 -2020" in March 2016 builds on the work of the UK Government over recent years and prioritises the prevention of violence and abuse, provision of services, partnership working and pursuing perpetrators. The accompanying action plan provides detail of the legislative and policy changes required to deliver the strategy and the resources being invested to support implementation. When considered collectively, the UK Government strategy commitments and subsequent inquiry announcements by both the Home Affairs and Women and Equalities Parliamentary Committees relating to prostitution and sexual violence and harassment in schools provide an opportunity for increased engagement with UK Government. Whilst recognising the "complexities" of devolved and non-devolved policy areas it is imperative that potential duplication is avoided and opportunities for improved co-ordination, consistency and coherence identified for stakeholders and survivors.

UK legislative developments have strengthened further the purpose of our Act and the UK Strategy, in particular offences contained within the Serious Crime Act 2015;

- Sections 70 – 75 introducing new offences relating to Female Genital Mutilation, protection orders and a mandatory duty to report to the police
- Section 76 which came into force on December 29th 2015 introduces an offence of "Controlling or Coercive behaviour in an intimate or family relationship". This offence recognises the reality of domestic abuse for victims; a continuous and repeated pattern of controlling behaviours which have a cumulative impact on an individual's day to day life causing fear, isolation and distress

HERE IN WALES

Having received Royal Assent for the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act in April 2015 Wales now has a legislative framework to enable progress and deliver improvements. Since September 2015, two commencement orders have brought into force all provisions of the Act including requirements on Welsh Ministers, Relevant Authorities and the National Adviser. There have been consultation periods for three pieces of draft statutory guidance;

- The National Training Framework,
- Ask and Act and
- Multi Agency Collaborative Working

In March 2016, following consultation, the National Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Training Framework was published as statutory guidance.

The Well Being of Future Generations (Wales) Act aims to improve the social, economic, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales and, through the introduction of a sustainable development principle, requires Public Bodies listed in the Act to think more about the long term, work better with people, communities and each other, look to prevent problems and take a more joined up approach. Wales' first Future Generations Commissioner will act as a guardian for the interests of future generations in Wales and support the public bodies listed in the Act to work towards achieving the well-being goals.

The implementation of the Social Services and Well-Being (Wales) Act 2014 aims to improve the well-being of people who need care and support and carers who need support. The Act changes the way people's needs are assessed and the way services are delivered; promotes a range of help available within the community to reduce the need for formal, planned support and introduces stronger powers to keep people safe from abuse and neglect. The Act also has wide ranging implications for ensuring services are able to provide the right support at the right time.

The National Independent Safeguarding Board has been established under the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014. The National Board is an advisory body that will advise Welsh Ministers on safeguarding people in Wales. It will work alongside the regional safeguarding adult boards and safeguarding children boards to secure improvements in safeguarding policy and practice throughout Wales. The Chair and members of the National Board were appointed in 2016.

In January 2016 Public Health Wales published a report on the first Welsh Adverse Childhood Experiences Study (ACEs). ACEs are stressful experiences occurring during childhood that harm a child (e.g. physical or sexual abuse) or affect the environment in which they live (e.g. growing up in a house with domestic violence or abuse). Findings show that ACEs have a major impact on the development of health harming behaviours in Wales and the prevention of ACEs is likely to not only to improve the early years experiences of children born in Wales but also reduce levels of health harming behaviours such as problem alcohol use, smoking, poor diets and violent behaviour.

The study found that 16% of adults had lived in households where there had been domestic abuse and that, as children, 17% of adults had experienced physical abuse and 10% had experienced sexual abuse.

The first Welsh ACE survey identified that a substantial proportion of the Welsh population suffered abuse, neglect and other ACEs during their childhood with 47% reporting having experienced at least one ACE and 14% having experiencing 4 or more ACEs.

Activity by other Commissioners in Wales has continued to identify Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as a strategic priority;

- In February 2016 the Children's Commissioner for Wales published the findings from the second phase of "Beth Nesa? What next? - the biggest consultation with children and young people to inform the priorities of the Children's Commissioner of Wales and to gather new evidence of the lives of our children and young people.

6000 children and young people (aged 3-18) and 1000 adults responded to the consultation and the findings are considered in line with the themes of Provision, Protection and Participation. For young people aged 11-18 protecting children and young people from violence and abuse in the home was a priority and this was also reflected as a priority for adults who responded to the survey.

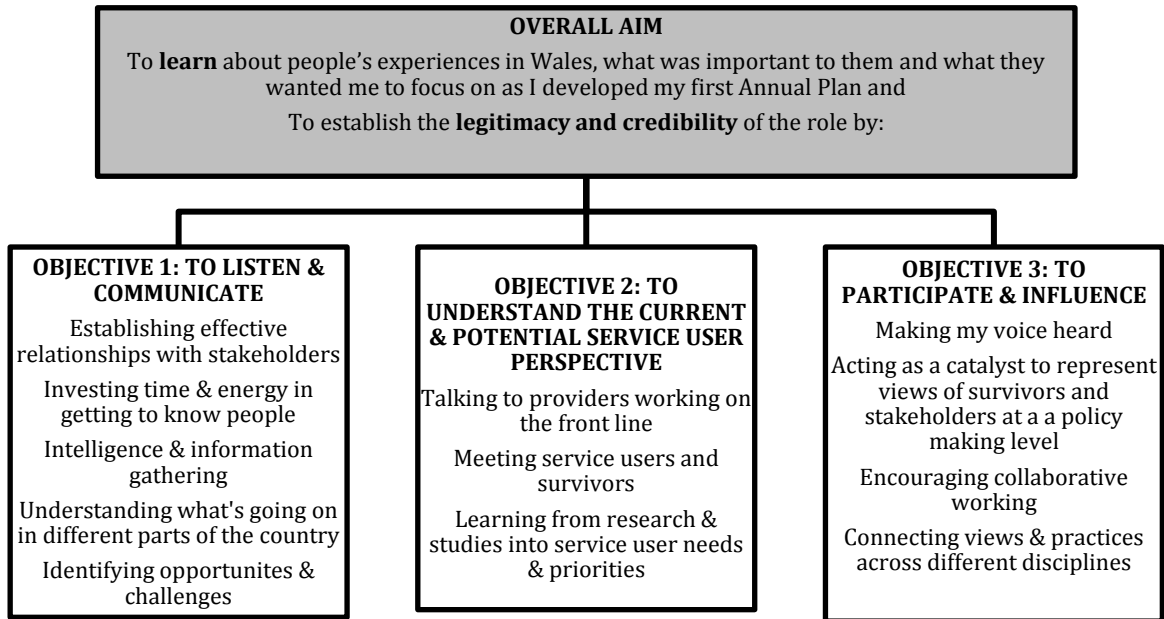

As a result of these findings the Children's Commissioner for Wales has identified the safety of children and young people; in the community, school and at home as a priority for 2016-19.

- The Older People Commissioners' priorities for 2015/16 reinforce her commitment to safeguarding and protecting older people in Wales experiencing violence and abuse; working alongside professionals to raise awareness, developing resources and working in partnership to understand and remove barriers faced by older people in accessing justice.

The legislative and policy infrastructure outlined here provide a complementary and enabling framework for the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015; providing opportunities to both prioritise and mainstream violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. The principles underpinning the legislative framework provide a space for action and an opportunity to work differently. When considered alongside an increasing evidence base for prevention and early identification and the continued recognition of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as a cross cutting priority in society, Wales has a unique opportunity to support and enable system change and practice improvement.

THE FIRST SIX MONTHS: SETTING THE FOUNDATIONS

What I wanted to do in this period .....

OBJECTIVE 1: LISTENING AND COMMUNICATING

I actively sought out inclusive and meaningful opportunities for individuals to engage directly with me, to share their experiences and shape and inform my priorities

Written Communications	Chief Officers of all relevant authorities, strategic leads and the specialist sector
Meeting with survivors	Individually and collectively who have or are receiving information, accommodation and support services from a range of providers across Wales
Attendance at strategic meetings and fora	Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Advisory Group, Violence against Women Action Group, Ask and Act Implementation Board, Home Office Stakeholder Group, DRIVE Advisory Group, National leadership Groups – FGM / Honour Based Violence and Modern Slavery, Curriculum Reform – stakeholder group, MARAC Scrutiny Panel
Social media and media engagement	Press interviews about my role and specific issues relating to Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence, social media and blogs
Meetings with key	Chief Officers and strategic leads for relevant authorities, commissioners, Regional Collaborative Committee representatives, Welsh Government

stakeholders

officials, Police and Police and Crime Commissioners, Specialist Sector, National Probation Service and NOMS, CPS, Home Office, Public Health Wales, NUS, EHRC, Independent Police Complaints Commissioner and Domestic Abuse Co-ordinators, Welsh Language and Older People's Commissioner

Conference and events

Police and Crime Commissioner Events, Welsh Women's Aid Coercive Control and Prevention Seminars, Safeguarding events, Welsh Government Education and Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Conference, NHS Confederation, Local Health Board and Local Authority Presentations, White Ribbon events

These diverse activities have provided a platform for me to articulate the role and functions of the National Adviser and for individuals to gain a better understanding of the role. They have accelerated my own learning, enabling me to develop a greater understanding of survivor and stakeholder experiences across Wales, the challenges and barriers faced and what is important to them.

OBJECTIVE 2: UNDERSTANDING THE CURRENT AND POTENTIAL SERVICE USER PERSPECTIVE

Key to my learning has been the survivor consultation undertaken by Welsh Women's Aid on behalf of the Minister for Public Services between January and March 2016 and the resulting report "Are you listening and am I being heard? - A report of the recommendations of survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales". I attended three of these focus groups where survivors were asked about their recent experiences of using services, their recommendations for improving service responses and priorities for the national strategy in relation to prevention, protection and support.

The learning resulting from my engagement with stakeholders and survivors was crucial to the development of my first Annual Plan. Through asking questions, listening and observing I developed key principles of working and identified my vision, priorities and objectives which are now embedded within my Annual Plan April 2016 – March 17.

OBJECTIVE 3: PARTICIPATING & INFLUENCING

The engagement described above gave me lots of ideas and enabled me to explore how best to work alongside stakeholders to support implementation of the Act. As I have considered and analysed information that was presented to me I was able to start to get involved and to apply my learning. Below are some of the ways I have contributed to debate and discussions:

Working with strategic leads locally and regionally to support implementation of the Act – development of needs assessments and strategic plans	Advice to the Minister on current issues - providing information, ideas, reports and recommendations	Attending national groups: Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Advisory group, DRIVE Advisory Group, Ask and Act Implementation Board, Public Health Wales All Wales Group, Curriculum Reform Stakeholder Group, MARAC Scrutiny Panel
Advising and supporting 3 regions to review and develop effective, integrated governance structure	Advising relevant authorities in relation to policy development and planning for the implementation of the Act	Supporting areas to move to regional footprints
Advice on the the development of commissioning guidance to improve the consistency and practice of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence commissioning in Wales	Advice to establish a Cross Government Officials Group to create opportunities for integration of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence across Government divisions and departments	Advice to Welsh Government through formal consultation processes and events on National Training Framework, Ask and Act and Multi Agency Collaborative working

SUMMARY OF WHAT I SEE AS MY KEY ACHIEVEMENTS SEPTEMBER 2015 – MARCH 2016

During this early period my priorities have been to

- Establish the role of National Adviser – a new role for Wales and a new role for me. I have endeavoured to bring energy and drive to the position and to use this period to introduce and explain the expectations and core functions of the role to stakeholders across Wales and to key parties elsewhere in the UK
- Identify partners and develop effective working relationships at all levels
- Use the information and knowledge to develop my Annual Report which outlines, the principles by which I will work, my priorities and objectives and sets out my statement of intent
- Listen to experiences of survivors who know first-hand what it is like to live through violence and abuse and know best what may help others in a similar situation
- Work to bring an understanding, focus and clarity to Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence within the Welsh context
- Support and enable – working alongside others to create buy in to the role and the strategic vision and direction that I have set out

It is vital that you keep talking to me so that I am aware of innovative practice and interventions and that I can take these into policy and strategic debates. It's a central part of my role to challenge current thinking and to represent evidenced based survivor, practitioner and stakeholder views in high level settings.

Alongside this I want to use my platform and position to promote the Welsh perspective on Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence in the UK and on the international stage in order to ensure that Wales is a prominent and equal contributor.

Looking forward in 2016 -17

This first six months provided me with the opportunity to develop an Annual Plan based on the experiences and priorities communicated to me by stakeholders and survivors. I will now focus on progressing and delivering the priorities identified within my Annual Plan.

Here's a reminder of key elements in the Annual Plan April 2016 – March 2017:

7 core principles will inform how I will carry out my duties:

Safety & Safeguarding

For me, the key principle that underpins the purpose of the legislation and my role is that of safeguarding; any child, young person or adult, at risk, or experiencing any form of violence against women, gender based violence, domestic abuse or sexual violence.

Leadership

I will provide visible, active leadership and a consistent, strategic focus for all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

Enabling & Encouraging

I will work with and alongside Public Services and the Voluntary Sector to inform and influence change; making workable recommendations to improve the impact and effectiveness of services for individuals and families.

Early Intervention & Prevention

I will work alongside stakeholders to develop and promote an evidence base that demonstrates the impact and effectiveness of early intervention in reducing long term societal risks and financial costs

Collaboration & Integration

I will identify and support opportunities nationally, regionally and locally to mainstream Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as “core business” and facilitate innovative, creative ways of working together.

Consultation & engagement

I will ensure there are opportunities for stakeholders and survivors to inform and shape policy and service delivery. I will continuously seek to listen, comprehend and respond to their experiences, needs, challenges and aspirations.

Promoting learning & excellence

I will provide a strategic platform to ensure that good practice and learning is disseminated and used to support improvements that enable service providers and commissioners to achieve the highest possible standards.

Overall aims and objectives

WHAT'S AHEAD IN 2016/2017

There are some key developments expected this year that will provide me with an opportunity to progress the principles, aims and objectives highlighted above:

I will continue to inform and influence the development of the National Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Strategy which will be published in November 2016. I hope to contribute to an ambitious, integrated strategy that will set out the principles, approach and priorities for action that Welsh Government and public bodies in Wales should take to mainstream and prioritise violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, making it “everyone’s business”. The Strategy needs to build on the priorities set out in the Right to be Safe Strategy and the opportunities provided by the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015.

I expect the recommendations and priorities identified by survivors in Welsh Women’s Aid report “Are you listening and am I being heard? - A report of the recommendations of survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales” to be integral to the Strategy, demonstrating how Welsh Government are placing survivors central to improvements in Wales.

Alongside the development of the National Strategy I will lead work to develop a set of National Indicators that will articulate and measure progress towards the achievement of the purpose of the Act.

The development of the National Indicators provides an opportunity to work towards a co-ordinated and coherent measurement framework with disaggregated data which would form part of a wider integrated approach to addressing and prevention all forms of Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

Furthermore, the creation of National Indicators provides an opportunity to mainstream data from this field across wider policy areas; aligning and supporting existing measurement frameworks and strengthening the comparability of data from different policy areas.

The development of National Indicators presents an invaluable opportunity to improve the collection and analysis of data required to enhance knowledge to inform, shape and evaluate the impact of policy and practice developments and, fundamentally, ensures that individuals are protected and supported and prevention work is informing lasting behavioural and attitudinal change.

It is my intention that the National Indicators will be published for consultation at the end of 2016/17.

The establishment of Public Service Boards and Health and Social Care Partnerships and the requirement for population needs assessments provide an opportunity for me to work alongside local and regional leads to embed Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence as a strategic priority within the requirements of the wider statutory requirements and, furthermore, improve the consistency and coherence of our legislative framework.

This year will see elections both for the National Assembly of Wales and our four Police and Crime Commissioners. Those elected have a key leadership role in the implementation of the Act and delivering improvements for individuals and families experiencing any form of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence and I look forward to working alongside elected officers to progress a shared agenda.

It is paramount that I continue to listen and engage in order to feed your views into the above and to shape the future direction of my work in general. It is imperative that my post acts as a catalyst to bring experiences and expertise together and to create platforms to share learning and harness experiences to inform best practice and pursue service improvements.

CONCLUDING REMARKS

We have set ourselves an ambitious agenda on Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence in Wales and my role has a part to play if we are to achieve the vision to improve arrangements for protection, support and the prevention of all forms of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

During this initial period I have invested time and energy to provide meaningful opportunities for survivors and stakeholders to engage directly with me. I have listened to their experiences, challenges and aspirations and asked what is important to them in order to inform the principles, aims and objectives integral to the development of my Annual Plan.

I believe that this was the right approach for my initial 6 months – being visible, establishing relationships, gathering and analysing information and intelligence. It feels now that I need to move to the next phase of the role – using the information and intelligence to get involved and influence improvements and change. It is important that the Adviser gets involved at a practical level in achieving change as opposed to simply being seen as a public figure.

My Annual Plan is both challenging and ambitious – it provides focus and clarity in terms of what I am trying to achieve and there is a lot to do if we are to deliver lasting change. The breadth and scale of my annual plan raises questions about the role of the National Adviser and the infrastructure in which it operates, issues that if not addressed, could potentially limit the effectiveness and potential of the role.

The role is part time and has limited resources attached. One of the issues that I will be pursuing is to ask for additional resources to back up the post and to enable me to build the capacity and consolidate the effectiveness of the role. A balance is required between the resources provided by Welsh Government and the fundamental need to maintain the independence of the role. Given that it is the first term of the post this provides an opportunity for reflection and learning and it is fitting to address these issues at an early stage.

This year Wales will have a renewed National Strategy which is intended to provide an overall framework to achieve the goals set out within the Act. My view is that the Strategy will only deliver if underpinned by detailed intent and sustained informed action. I believe an infrastructure for delivery of the Act that sets out in detail the reality of what is needed to make a difference would help reinforce the Act and promote a consistent Wales wide approach to implementation. Such an infrastructure must be underpinned by a needs-led, strengths-based service model, resourced appropriately and sustainably and within an integrated and coordinated whole system approach. It must be interwoven with other key areas of public policy, finances, commissioning activity, service delivery and accountability frameworks.

Alongside survivors and stakeholders, I want to be part of exploring and developing these approaches to create the opportunities for policy and decision makers to listen, reflect and act to fulfil the potential offered by the Act.

As National Adviser I feel I have a mandate and a unique opportunity to influence and shape change for individuals experiencing Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence. This is what makes this role so stimulating, it's what motivated me to apply and I will endeavour to use the position to its full potential. Survivors have high hopes for the Act and we need to listen to and learn from their experiences and be ambitious and transformative in our thinking and joint efforts if we are to live up to and exceed their expectations. It is incumbent upon us to do so.

Are you listening and am I being heard?

Survivor Consultation: A report of the recommendations made by survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, to inform the National Strategy in Wales.

March 2016

Government should hear from women, women who've been through it, on an ongoing basis otherwise they'll come up with these ideas that won't work. Any of us could ... there's enough of us who've gone through it so we can help (Survivor, FG2)

All organisations need to listen to us and take us seriously. I was one of them who used to say why doesn't she leave? or how can she leave her kids? .....but you go through it and you hear other women's stories and you understand (Survivor, FG1)

You need the consistency with every agency you're involved with, otherwise 3 or 4 different officers only get a bit of the experience, it becomes diluted, there's such a lack of consistency. If professionals could hear women in a group, know what it's like. They get trained but they don't really hear the woman who's gone through it. Maybe women can be filmed and agencies can hear what it's really like for us (Survivor, FG4)

Women survive violence then have to survive on peanuts, we have nothing, no furniture, no food, no recourse to public funds, we need money to live on, otherwise we are either destitute or die. The no recourse and immigration rules don't help... Does the government in Wales understand that we are living on nothing? (Survivor, FG6)

We would like to extend our sincere thanks and deepest gratitude to:

Survivors of violence and abuse across Wales who were able to share their experiences with the facilitators and with each other. Their willingness to participate in these focus groups will help inform an improved response to survivors of violence and abuse in the future.

The national, regional and local specialist support services in Wales for offering a safe and welcoming space and for helping us contact past and recent survivors of violence and abuse to participate in this consultation.

The staff and CEO of Welsh Women's Aid for supporting delivery of the consultation and engagement, and for sharing their knowledge of the landscape of support available for survivors of violence and abuse in Wales.

Rhian Bowen-Davies, Independent National Adviser on Violence against Women, Domestic Violence and Sexual Violence in Wales, for her support throughout the course of this consultation.

About Welsh Women's Aid

Welsh Women's Aid, established in 1978, is the national charity in Wales working to end domestic abuse and all forms of violence against women. It is a federation of specialist organisations in Wales (working as part of a UK network) that provide lifesaving services to survivors of violence and abuse - women, men, children, and families- and deliver a range of innovative support and preventative services in local communities. Welsh Women's Aid provides the National Quality Service Standards accreditation framework for specialist services in Wales, and has been at the forefront of shaping coordinated community responses and practice. It achieves this by campaigning for change and providing advice, consultancy, support and training for agencies, commissioners and partnerships, to deliver policy, systems and service improvements for survivors, families and communities. Welsh Women's Aid also delivers the Wales Live Fear Free Helpline for survivors of sexual violence and domestic abuse, support and advocacy services in Colwyn Bay and Wrexham, the National Training Service partnership providing accredited qualifications and bespoke training, the national Children Matter preventative project that supports agencies working with children and young people in every local authority in Wales, and a national survivor engagement project. Welsh Women's Aid is committed to ensuring the experience of survivors is at the heart of all its work.

About the Facilitator and Report Author

Yasmin Rehman worked on this project as an independent facilitator. Yasmin has worked for almost 30 years predominantly on violence against women, race, faith and gender, and human rights. Yasmin is currently working with a number of organisations on violence against women prevention, providing training for higher education institutions, and is an independent panel member reviewing past serious case reviews relating to children and young people. Yasmin is currently a Board member of EVAW (End Violence Against Women Coalition) and is a Trustee of the Centre for Secular Space.

1. Executive Summary

Understanding how survivors of domestic abuse, sexual violence and other forms of violence against women use and experience public services is key to improving the effectiveness of prevention, protection and support services and systems in Wales.

Survivors' voices and experiences must also be central to informing the development and delivery of legislation, policy and strategy in order to ensure systems and services best meet survivors' needs and action is taken to prevent violence and abuse in the short and longer term.

Between January and March 2016, women and men who had recently experienced domestic abuse, sexual violence or other forms of violence against women,<sup>1</sup> were invited to attend focus groups across Wales. These groups were organised by Welsh Women's Aid and led by an independent facilitator, in partnership with specialist services. Over this period, 66 survivors participated and were asked about their recent experience of using services, their recommendations for improving service responses, and priorities for the national strategy in relation to prevention, protection and support. This consultation also involved testing out a model in which survivors empower and educate services (seeds), and their views on this and other approaches to continued survivor engagement in Wales were sought.

Recommendations

Survivors made a number of recommendations to inform the development of a new national strategy on violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. They also made recommendations for improvements in specific agencies, and provided feedback on what they felt should be the priorities for the National Adviser.

The report also contains recommendations that reflect survivors' overwhelming support for a sustainable model of consultation and engagement. They all wanted to ensure that survivors' voices and experiences remain central to Government and local action to improve prevention, protection and provision of support services across Wales.

An overview of all the recommendations made by survivors is contained in Chapter 5.

Survivors strongly recommended that a national framework for ongoing survivor engagement and involvement be prioritised and resourced by Welsh Government, that enables survivors to educate, advise and inform services on improving their practice.

Survivors also identified 10 key recommendations for priority inclusion in the updated national strategy, to be delivered by Welsh Government:

1. Dedicated specialist services for children and young people impacted by or experiencing domestic abuse, sexual violence, FGM, forced marriage, sexual exploitation or harassment, available in every area.
2. Specialist domestic abuse and sexual violence services for survivors that are accessible and resourced to meet the needs of specific survivor groups, available in every area.
3. Improved awareness of and response to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence by professionals involved in the family justice system (CAFCASS Cymru, judges and court personnel, contact centres), and safe child contact with parents/carers following separation, in cases of domestic abuse and sexual violence.
4. Accessible 'refuge service' support in every area, accompanied by safe, affordable, longer-term housing options for survivors of abuse, that provide flexibility, choice and meet survivors' needs.
5. Women's groups and peer support available in every area, to reduce isolation and maximise independent spaces that increase confidence, esteem, and empowerment.
6. Protection and support for all survivors who have no recourse to public funds, to ensure equal access to safety, support, protection and justice, and finances to live independently, irrespective of survivors' immigration and residency status.
7. Counselling and therapeutic services for survivors that is available, in every area, when needed, is age-appropriate, and helps build resilience and recovery from abuse.
8. Greater focus on stopping perpetrators' behaviour and holding them to account by public services, and where violence and abuse involves coercive control, action by public services to ensure perpetrators leave and end abusive relationships.
9. Improved training for all services on all aspects of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, informed by survivors' experiences.
10. Preventing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence from happening in the first place, through compulsory prevention education in all schools and colleges, increasing awareness of the issues and the help available in local communities across Wales.

Survivors were concerned that there may be a delay in delivering improved interventions in the short-term, and therefore, recommended that the National Adviser ensures that Government and Public Authorities take action to deliver improvements in the following areas:

- Media and publicity campaigns
- Education
- Immigration
- Sustainable funding for specialist services
- Family and criminal courts
- The development of a sustainable model for future survivor engagement.

2. Introduction and national context

This consultation was requested by the Welsh Government Public Services Minister and the Violence Against Women National Advisory Board. Its purpose is to inform the new National Strategy for Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence in Wales, immediate and future priorities for the National Adviser, and the development of a national survivor engagement framework.

Between January and March 2016, women and men who had recently experienced domestic abuse, sexual violence or other forms of violence against women,<sup>2</sup> were invited to attend focus groups across Wales. These groups were organised by Welsh Women's Aid and led by an independent facilitator, in partnership with specialist services. Over this period, 66 survivors participated and were asked about their recent experience of using services, their recommendations for improving service responses, and priorities for the national strategy in relation to prevention, protection and support. This consultation also involved testing out a model in which survivors empower and educate services (seeds), and their views on this and other approaches to continued survivor engagement in Wales were sought.

The findings and recommendations contained within this report will be presented to the Minister and Violence Against Women Advisory Board meeting in the spring, to inform the National Strategy Development and Adviser priorities. The report will also be disseminated by the National Adviser in order to inform regional strategy developments, and improvements in statutory and voluntary agencies' practice.

Wales Right to be Safe Strategy 2010-2016

The Welsh Government national strategy on violence against women and domestic abuse – the 'Right to be Safe Strategy 2010-2016'<sup>3</sup> - defines 'violence against women' in accordance with the United Nations definition, as violence that is directed at women because they are women or affect women disproportionately:

'Any act of gender based violence that results in, or is likely to result in, physical, sexual or psychological harm or suffering to women, including threats of such acts, coercion or arbitrary deprivation of liberty, whether occurring in public or private life'<sup>4</sup>.

The Right to be Safe strategy set out an integrated, cross government programme of action to tackle all forms for violence against women, and was accompanied by a detailed implementation plan. The strategy identified 4 key priorities in 2010:

- Prevention and Raising Awareness of Violence Against Women and Domestic Abuse.
- Providing Support for Victims and Children.

- Improving the Response of Criminal Justice Agencies.
- Improving the Response of Health Services and Other Agencies.

The strategy was a response in Wales to what is known about the extent of various forms of violence against women including domestic abuse and sexual violence:<sup>5</sup>

- 4.6 million women in England and Wales have experienced domestic abuse since the age of 16; in one year 1.4 million women and 700,000 men (aged 16-59) reported having experienced any type of domestic abuse.
- In England and Wales, on average, 2 women a week are killed by a partner or ex-partner. In 2014 149 UK women were known or suspected to have been killed by men.
- According to 2011/12 Crime Survey data disaggregated for Wales, women experience twice the levels of 'any domestic abuse' (11.1% compared to 5.1% for men) while rates of 'any sexual assault' were also higher for women (3.2%) than men (0.7%). The data also indicated more women reported being stalked than men (7.8% compared to 3.5%).
- In Wales in 2013/14, there were 6,325 prosecutions of violence against women and girls offences, with a conviction rate of 76.7%. Of these, 5,637 were cases of domestic abuse; 257 cases of rape, and 431 cases of sexual offences.
- 137,000 girls and women are living with consequences of female genital mutilation (FGM) in the UK and 60,000 girls under the age of 15 are at risk of FGM in the UK. It is estimated there are 140 victims of FGM a year in Wales.
- 82% of cases dealt with by the Forced Marriage Unit involved female victims; 18% involved male victims. It is estimated there are up to 100 victims of forced marriage a year in Wales.
- 1 in 7 children and young people under 18 will have living with domestic abuse.
- 25% girls and 18% boys experience physical abuse in teenage relationships; 75% girls and 14% boys experience emotional abuse, and 33% girls and 16% boys experience sexual abuse. Girls experience more severe abuse, more frequently, and suffer more negative impacts on their welfare, compared with boys.

Experiences of violence and abuse can have serious psychological, emotional and physical consequences and may contribute to multiple disadvantage, problems with substance use, homelessness, offending behaviour, gang involvement, prostitution or mental health problems.<sup>6</sup> The costs of violence and abuse to the economy are also significant. Domestic abuse alone costs Wales £303.5m annually: £202.6m in service costs and £100.9m to lost economic output. These figures do not include any element of human and emotional costs, which research estimates costs Wales an additional £522.9m. It is estimated that providing public services to victims of domestic abuse, and the lost economic output of women affected, costs the UK £15.8 billion annually and the cost to health, housing and social services, criminal justice and civil legal services is estimated at £3.9 billion<sup>7</sup>. The cost to public purse is considerably higher when other forms of violence against women are included, like sexual violence, forced marriage, female genital mutilation, stalking, harassment and sexual exploitation

In order to strengthen responses to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales, the Right to be Safe Strategy was accompanied by the introduction of legislation in 2015 which introduced a range of statutory measures for Government and Public Authorities in Wales.

Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse & Sexual Violence Act 2015

On the 29th April 2015 the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Bill received Royal Assent, and became an Act of the National Assembly for Wales. The stated purpose of the Act is to improve arrangements for the prevention, protection and support for all forms of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.

Provisions include:

- A duty on Ministers to prepare, plan and publish a national strategy and action plan for addressing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.
- A duty on Local Authorities and Local Health Boards to jointly prepare and publish a local strategy for their areas.
- A duty on Ministers to publish national indicators and an annual report to measure progress of the Act. Local authorities and Local Health Boards must also publish an annual report of the progress they have made in achieving the objectives specified in their local strategy.

The following statutory guidance is currently being developed, or will be developed in due course, by the Welsh Government under the Act, and will be issued separately:

The National Training Framework

This statutory guidance<sup>8</sup> aims to create a consistent standard of care for those who experience violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, and an unfailing standard of service throughout the Public Service to survivors. It outlines the key competencies and knowledge required at each professional level within relevant authorities.

Ask and Act policy framework

The primary objective of Ask and Act is to encourage relevant professionals to 'ask' potential victims about the possibility of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence where such abuse is suspected, and to 'act' so suffering and harm, as a result of the violence and abuse, is prevented or reduced. This will be facilitated through guidance and accompanied by a training programme delivered through the National Training Framework. Guidance on responding to perpetrators and on information sharing will also be published.

A Whole Education Approach to Prevention

This will outline the expectations on local authorities in relation to a whole education approach to healthy relationships, and builds on the Whole Education Approach Good Practice Guide published by Welsh Government.<sup>9</sup>

Multi-agency Working

This guidance will explore the necessary stages of collaboration and identify good practice in establishing partnership arrangements. It will also detail what is required within agencies to deliver on their partnership commitments and embed a robust response to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence within their agency.

Guidance for Commissioners

The commissioning guidance will provide a comprehensive outline of the considerations to be made when procuring specialist service provision. The guidance will be developed in partnership. The overarching objective of the guidance is to ensure consistent consideration of the prevention, protection, support and recovery needs of service users within a risk and needs led framework.

The Welsh Government has appointed an Independent National Adviser to advise and support Welsh Ministers on violence against women, domestic and sexual violence, and on the publication and delivery of a refreshed National Strategy and Action Plan.

In addition to strengthening the legislative and policy framework on addressing all forms of violence against women in Wales, the Welsh Government has also introduced relevant parallel legislation including the Well-Being of Future Generations Act 2015. The aim is to improve the social, economic, environmental and cultural well-being of Wales, by making public bodies think more about the long-term, work better with people and communities and each other, look to prevent problems and take a more joined-up approach.

Seven well-being goals have been identified:

- A prosperous Wales
- A resilient Wales
- A healthier Wales
- A more equal Wales
- A Wales of cohesive communities
- A Wales of vibrant culture and thriving Welsh Language and
- A globally responsible Wales.

These are accompanied by 46 national indicators which includes ensuring that Welsh partnerships are working towards the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals. Sustainable Development Goal 5 is to “achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls”, which is accompanied by a series of targets on eliminating all forms of violence against women and girls in the public and private spheres, including trafficking and sexual and other types of exploitation.<sup>10</sup>

UK Government: Ending Violence Against Women and Girls 2016-2020

The UK Government has also stated its commitment to tackling all forms of violence against women and girls by publishing, in March 2016, the revised Ending Violence against Women and Girls Strategy 2016-2020, which identified several outcomes to be achieved by 2020<sup>11</sup>, including:

Prevention:

- Decreases in the overall prevalence of violence against women.
- More victims helped to long term independence and freedom from abuse (strengthening the focus on prevention and early intervention, and addressing perpetrators behaviour).
- More victims and offenders are identified at the earliest possible opportunity, with effective interventions in place to prevent violence and abuse from escalating to a crisis point.
- Increased awareness across all sections of society that violence against women is unacceptable and individuals, communities and frontline agencies are empowered to confidently challenge negative attitudes to violence against women.
- Increased awareness in children and young people of the importance of respect and consent in relationships and that abusive behaviour is always wrong.

Provision:

- Local partners assess the needs of victims and survivors and their families, and have local strategies to ensure they can access the right support at the right time.

- No victim is turned away from accessing critical support services delivered by refuges, rape support centres and FGM and forced marriage units..
- Services provide support at an earlier stage so that fewer victims will reach crisis point or other secure accommodation.
- Better access to integrated pathways of support to meet the needs of victims experiencing multiple disadvantages.
- A robust evidence base in place to support interventions that work and to inform commissioning decisions.

Partnerships:

- Multi-agency working in local areas is transformed - improved governance, links to safeguarding and needs-led interventions for victims, children and perpetrators.
- Areas have violence against women partnership, rigorous needs assessment and local strategy - aligned with drug and alcohol services, homelessness and children's services.
- More children are safeguarded and more families supported through the collection and appropriate (safe) multi-agency sharing of information.
- Violence against women is mainstreamed across businesses with more employers introducing policies to support staff who may be victims of domestic abuse or stalking.
- Greater focus on changing the behaviour of perpetrators based on strong evidence of what works and centred on victim safety (accredited programmes, for example).
- Partnership action to promote gender equality, including the specific targets on violence against women and girls.

Perpetrators

- Increased victim confidence in, and access to the justice system for violence against women victims, and increased reporting and prosecutions.
- Improved victim satisfaction and the first response right first time using Victim Satisfaction Surveys to assess impact.
- Embedded robust approach to tackling perpetrators behaviour and reduction in re-offending.
- Improved use of new technology and rehabilitation.
- Greater transparency and accountability of the criminal justice system through improved data provision.

Many of the above priorities and actions also apply to Wales, in accordance with the delivery of non-devolved responsibilities.

This strategy builds on a number of initiatives undertaken by the UK Government including the introduction of the a new offence of coercive control, the Modern Slavery Act, the roll out of Domestic Violence Protection Orders (DVPOs) and Domestic Violence Disclosure Scheme (DVDS), the introduction of female genital mutilation (FGM) Protection Orders and an FGM mandatory reporting duty, and strengthening measures to manage sex offenders or those who pose a risk of sexual harm.

3. The consultation process

Feedback from services and survivors suggests there is currently no sustainable or consistent framework in Wales for Government, commissioners, or public services to engage with a wide range of survivors about what is important to them. Survivor engagement processes are ad-hoc and the same groups are usually consulted with.

Yet the involvement of survivors in the planning, delivery and review of services and systems in Wales is essential to understand their effectiveness, whether needs are met and abuse is prevented, and how practice and services can be improved. Survivors' voices and experiences are also essential to informing strategies, legislative and policy developments, the National Strategy and National Adviser's Plan. It is especially important to involve whose voices are seldom heard, who are most likely to experience discrimination, whose experiences are hard to hear by agencies and who have multiple support needs.

a) Aims of the consultation

This consultation, conducted via focus groups and interviews, aimed to:

- Ensure that survivors' voices are heard by Government and public services, and maximise the commitment to providing accountability for survivors.
- Collate a snapshot of current information, concerns and opinions from survivors in Wales, in order to inform National Adviser priorities and the development of the refreshed National Strategy on violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence.
- Help shape a more consistent and sustainable framework for survivor involvement, and associated good practice principles, so that survivors inform public services' work to prevent violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, and influence improvements in the provision of services and responses of organisations.

b) Conducting the consultation and producing this report

This consultation provides a snapshot of survivors' views and recommendations for strategy development and for improving practice across Wales.

The focus groups did not request that survivors share experiences of violence and abuse but rather focussed on their recent experience of services in Wales, in order to ascertain whether improvements to services and systems could be made, and action what should be prioritised in any national strategy.

Seven focus groups were held with 66 survivors of abuse in locations across Wales including West Wales, Gwent, Powys, North Wales and South Wales. It is important to note the success of the recruitment process for participating in these focus, which was primarily due to the assistance of the local frontline specialist agencies and community groups. Receiving detailed feedback from 66 survivors regarding their experience of services in relation to violence and abuse is a distinct achievement, both in qualitative and quantitative terms, in such a short timescale.

Each focus group lasted for two hours. All of the focus groups were facilitated by the independent facilitator, with the support of the independent National Adviser on Violence against Women, Domestic Violence and Sexual Violence in Wales and/or the CEO of Welsh Women's Aid. Expenses associated with attendance and participation were covered, interpreters were provided as needed, and childcare arrangements made where necessary. Local specialist services were on hand to support survivors who took part in groups, as were national and local helplines.

There was time allocated during and after the session/interviews for individual survivors to speak with facilitators in more depth and/or with specialist services. Ten survivors accepted this additional opportunity to contribute to the consultation. Information about local services and Live Fear Free Helpline leaflets were made available for each survivor after each session.

This report is based on the findings from the focus groups and telephone interview conducted with survivors unable to attend groups. Survivors in this consultation are not identified at any time in this report to protect their identity. Although quotes are used throughout to illustrate the issues raised, identifiable information has been removed. The recommendations made are based on full transcripts from each group/interview, during which the independent facilitator agreed with participants their recommendations for action and their top priorities for the strategy.

The letter to specialist services about the consultation, the focus group protocol and a group outline are attached as appendices. Survivors who took part in the consultation will be able to access the final report through their contact with specialist services.

c) Background of survivors

The aim was to ensure survivors of different forms of violence and abuse were able to engage with this process, and that has been achieved. Survivors who contributed to the consultation had experienced a number of forms of violence and abuse including: domestic abuse, sexual violence as adults, child sexual/physical/emotional abuse, forced marriage, 'honour based' violence, coercive and controlling behaviour, female genital mutilation, sexual exploitation and trafficking.

The survivors who took part in the focus groups were at different stages in their journeys to freedom from violence and abuse. Some survivors were current service users accessing refuges, counselling, advocacy and a range of provision. Other survivors were recent service users, and of these a small minority had been living free of abuse for a number of years but still felt the impact of the abuse on their lives and needed continued support.

The facilitator made every effort to ensure the involvement of Black and minority women, older and young women, and many of the groups and interviews had interpreters present to enable women's involvement. 65 participants in this consultation were women and were over 18, and 29 women self-identified during the sessions as being of minority backgrounds.

Although we sought involvement from women and men to participate, in separate focus groups, 65 women survivors participated in focus groups/interviews and 1 man participated by interview. A number of male survivors were contacted about the consultation and encouraged to participate in focus groups or interviews by their male support workers, but declined to take part. Additional written recommendations for service improvement was also provided by some survivors, which has been reflected in the report.

Other protected characteristics were not recorded, so there is no analysis provided of responses by gender identity, sexuality, disability and so on. Had more time been available, targeted focus groups with survivors who identified as lesbian, bisexual, gay, disabled, transgender, from Gypsy and Traveller communities, as older and young people, would have drawn out how experiences of services are compounded by protected characteristics, identities and life experience. Evidence shows that belonging to one or more of the aforementioned groups inevitably makes help-seeking more complex and in many instances will reduce the number of services available.

4. Consultation feedback

There were several experiences shared of the violence and abuse endured by survivors and how they accessed services, and even though there were commonalities in these experiences, each was unique and had different needs. However there were several shared experiences of services, particularly with respect to the challenges survivors faced in seeking help, and whether they were able to move on to recovery and freedom from abuse or not.

The common themes from the consultation are set out below with quotes from survivors. A more detailed set of recommendations which were drawn from these experiences and agreed with survivors follows in Chapter 5.

i. Identifying and naming the abuse

Survivors spoke of not always recognising their experiences as abusive or being able to name their abuse, which often made them reluctant or unable to seek help. When survivors eventually did seek help, they found specialist services like refuges, advocacy, counselling and peer support services helpful in supporting them to name their experiences as abusive.

I went from the earlier thing to my first then second husband and things from my childhood were brought back up for me...then it all comes together in your head and you realise it didn't start from when I was married at 17 but it started from much younger. Coming here is amazing and just talking ...someone listening to you... with no one saying 'that didn't happen'. (Survivor, FG7)

I live with all the controlling aspects of abuse and didn't realise he was doing anything wrong. Until I came here I thought it was normal, that I was to blame and that I can't do anything right. (Survivor, FG5)

I've moved from my family home after a lot of sexual and financial abuse. I didn't know a husband could rape you. He told me I don't have any rights to say no, he's my husband and he can do what he wanted. It wasn't until I spoke with women's aid that I knew what rights I had and I now know what rape means. (Survivor, FG3)

I've been in care ...My mother was abusive to me. I'm now in the refuge and getting help. It doesn't matter who the abuser is you just need help. (Survivor, FG4)

When it's more verbal and emotional and controlling abuse, it happens so slowly and builds up, it becomes normal and you get to thinking there's no other way. It was a total eye opener coming to a domestic abuse service, which helped me understand what was going on, I didn't know they existed. (Survivor, FG2)

I've been in two abusive relationships. The first one – he hit me, was very violent. The second one, it was all mind games and control. I didn't recognise what was happening. I just thought he's not hitting me. I did the [group] here and now I know better and will be on my guard (Survivor, FG1).

Most survivors said that services that helped them name the abuse and recognise their experiences as abusive were vital to enable them to begin recovering and moving on, and that this often took some time. Once they recognised their experiences were abusive and they had decided to seek help the response of the agency they disclosed to had a huge impact on their next steps.

If someone discloses and they don't give you the right response, it can be devastating. (Survivor, FG5)

I think I'm getting close to the point of speaking up but I'm nervous about what the response will be. (Survivor, FG4)

Even if you're a strong person, going to get help from services that don't understand and don't believe you or know what it's like. They can make it so difficult and getting an unhelpful response from services has a cumulative effect and feels like you're being abused all over again. (Survivor, FG1)

ii. Coercive and controlling behaviour of perpetrators

Coercive control and fear played a big part in survivors' ability to access services and to recover and move on from the abuse, as did the threats and nature of the abusive behaviour.

Women who engage with services are the tip of the iceberg, think of all those women living with this who aren't engaging because of fear. You're not going to go to mental health services or social services because he's told you they'll section you or take your kids from you. He tells you you're a bad mother so you can't get help because you're worried about that. So you sit alone not knowing where to go, until you're at breaking point. (Survivor, FG3).

Survivors who participated in the focus group spoke about their every movement being controlled and there being very little space for action or help seeking. Often survivors felt that services would not understand the fear and control they lived with.

At home he had complete control over me, he was another person, I couldn't socialise or work or see family. I couldn't eat or sleep or use the bathroom when I wanted, I couldn't wear what I wanted or speak to anyone. (Survivor, FG1)

I've been bullied and controlled and you think it's your fault. You stay because you're frightened, you leave because you're frightened, you try killing yourself because you're frightened. You don't know which way to turn. (Survivor, FG4)

I didn't dare ring the police. I just don't know how to deal with the fear so that when I do get out, I get out alive. (Survivor, FG3)

This is an adult child to their mother who is an OAP, it's still abuse but they're not picking it up. They're probably afraid of him too, he's taking money, giving me drugs and I'm frightened, but I can't speak to anyone (Survivor FG5).

The control I was under was like a spell. He would call me early every morning to check on me...he had control over me in so many ways even when he wasn't in the country. What service would understand that when I try to explain? (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors spoke about how they were denied independent access to even the most basic of healthcare, as part of the abuse, which meant that no amount of training or awareness raising would have made a difference to enabling disclosure.

I was totally cut off. I was taken away for my daughter to be born, I had no midwife or health visitor in this country, they didn't even know I had children. Training or posters wouldn't have meant anything... I was just too frightened, that's the biggest barrier. Being physically locked up, isolated, kept like a prisoner, and being frightened. (Survivor, FG4).

He hit me and bruised me and took me to the hospital but he sat with me all the time so no one said anything. I lost my hearing. (Survivor, FG2)

My husband didn't register my baby with a doctor or anyone so I had no contact with the outside world. I didn't know where to go for help. He dominates me, my thoughts, my space, every moment I'm awake I'm frightened. I imagined I would die if I don't do something about it, they need to understand getting help is often a life and death situation (Survivor FG3).

Some survivors spoke of abusers going to great lengths to monitor their behaviour and movements, including the use of recording equipment being placed in the house to monitor activity during the day when the perpetrator was not at home.

I told them (...) I can't leave the house. I can't go anywhere. He records me in the house so he knows everything I say and who I speak to on the phone. He knows when he hears me open and close doors and asks me where I go. I spoke to a women's aid solicitor on the phone and my husband heard it by recording it, he told me my solicitor called him and told him. This made me not trust the solicitor any more (Survivor, FG3).

He put cameras outside and in the house. He watched my every move. I was trapped. (Survivor, FG1).

Many survivors spoke about the ongoing impact of the abuse they experienced from the perpetrators many years after the relationship had ended.

I haven't seen him or heard from him in 5 years and now he wants to see my daughter. He doesn't care about her or me. This isn't safe for us. I am very scared about what might happen. (Survivor, FG2)

I was totally isolated he broke me with mental and sexual abuse, I'm left with no self esteem, no self worth, no confidence. I felt like I couldn't survive without him. I still feel he has total control over me now even though I've left, I know he can kill me any time he wants to (Survivor, FG4).

iii. Survivors spoke of being judged, labelled, blamed or disbelieved

Survivors wanted agencies to understand the abuse they experience, and recognise its impact and the links between different forms of violence against women, domestic violence and sexual violence. Instead, many survivors gave several examples of being disbelieved, judged or let down by professionals in public services.

I was abused as a child. I told them (Social Services) but no one did anything and nothing happened. It's gone on since then, and now I'm where I am (Survivor, FG5)

I was in hospital having taken alcohol and drugs because of the abuse; it was because of the way my husband abused me yet they took my children into care while I was in hospital. I was told by social services I was an addict which I wasn't...it was all emotional abuse and control. The police laughed at me, and called me a liar (Survivor, FG2)

I think agencies believe it's cultural or don't want to get involved in family arguments. We had an argument in front of a teacher and they just dismissed it, but he was controlling me. He was calm and controlling, I have a louder voice and speak quickly and came across as the aggressive. But I was falling apart. Who would you listen to him or me? They listened to him and dismissed me (Survivor, FG4)

There's a big misunderstanding about why women don't report, the police and council asked me why I'd not reported sooner...That just knocks you back, it felt to me like they were blaming me for something I'd not done, just like the abuse all over again. They need to understand the emotional manipulation and the control going on. (Survivor, FG7)

My neighbour called the police recently, they arrived and said 'he seems to be calm and collected' and said 'cant you sort this out quietly between you'. They saw me screaming and behaving like I'm losing my mind, so who are they going to believe. They went without doing anything (Survivor, FG4).

Social workers in the UK have superpowers and can do what they want, so I have to be careful and not speak out of turn, or they won't believe me as I'm a minority woman (Survivor, FG1)

With me it's mind games – I say to the police, there's bottles left outside, the tyres are down on my car, I know he's been in my house, but the police think I'm mad. That's what he wants (Survivor, FG1)

iv. Gendered nature of abuse, women-only and BME services, and services' understanding of the different needs of men and women

Many survivors spoke of physical abuse, coercive control and sexual violence whilst others talked about their experiences of child abuse. Some survivors disclosed having suffered ongoing domestic and sexual abuse in several relationships, and of needing to be supported for years of cumulative abuse. Survivors wanted to see a greater understanding by public services of the gendered nature of abuse and how it impacts on women and men differently, how violence against women is reinforced by state systems and services, and by wider inequality between men and women in society.

There are so many expectations of women and how we have to be as wives and mothers...this is reinforced by abusers. (Survivor, FG1)

Men can earn more money and pay more for legal advice and a house. I couldn't go out to work because of the children and the state I was in after leaving. (Survivor, FG5)

My ex tells local judges – who are also men – that he's a local businessman and well known in the community and then I have to say I'm a housewife. He knows the judge ...he's well connected and moves in the same circles – who's going to be believed? (Survivor, FG3)

I've not gone back to the police because he's too clever in the way he's doing it, he's still completely in control of everything...He has total power, he does what he wants to do. (Survivor, FG4)

The court is just another extension of the abuser, it's a platform for the perpetrator to play their mind games. They get the courts to reinforce that no one believes you, you're a mess, and they have all the power (Survivor, FG5)

You're put back in the same room as your perpetrator, they try to get you to mediate with him ... when he holds all the power and has dominated you for years, you haven't got a chance, it's not equal (Survivor, FG2).

All agencies that have authority are simply being used as weapons against us, by the abuser, it's part of their game. There's supposed to be equal rights for both parties, but it doesn't happen, the children are living in a war zone as am I, and it's just a form of state violence (Survivor, FG3).

Sometimes men just set out to destroy women. It takes time and dedication and they take in all the professionals gullible enough to not see the signs, along the way, and make sure that women have no choice. (Survivor, FG3)

Survivors also acknowledged that the same service would not always be appropriate for men and women, because their needs and experiences might be very different, so services need to understand this and provide different responses to men and women based on their needs.

Having a women only space in the drugs service means we're more likely to get the help we need, and more likely to open up and share what we've been through (Survivor, FG4)

Women's drop in sessions are simple but invaluable, if the building and environment feels safe, you can take another woman along with you for a coffee, and you don't always have to see a support worker, it's just having that space to get out, see others who understand, and it helps you grow in confidence. Women's drop ins and women's centres are really helpful (Survivor, FG1)

I went to the refuge out of desperation and thought before I got there, there's no way I'm going to stay in a million years. I went there and one of the women working there said just look around, see what you think, you don't have to stay. But they were so lovely, they immediately understood, they listened to me, it immediately felt safe, they reinforced my feelings were right and that I wasn't going mad. I couldn't stay quickly enough (Survivor, FG2)

I had gone through FGM and had a social worker but they didn't make me feel I could trust them... women try to hide things because we are frightened, they should ask us when we're alone, women together, let us know it's safe to talk, like 'are you ok' or 'are you struggling' (Survivor, FG3).

We should have weekly sessions for women to talk in groups with others who have experience of abuse and with women who can support women (Survivor, FG4)

Survivors said that although all public services are available for men and women, interventions would need to be tailored and specific to meet women's and men's needs, and to adapt their approach and service delivery accordingly.

It was so difficult to get help...People don't believe that men suffer too. I have help now but I can't work or move forward because of what's happened to me. There must be more services for men too. (Survivor, interview)

Groups don't work as men won't open up in front of other men. It's embarrassing. Women will talk but men just don't. Services need to think about men and how they are and what might help. (Survivor, interview)

Survivors from Black and minority communities also highlighted the importance for them of being supported by services led by and for Black and minority women who understood their needs and experiences, including their experience of state services.

We can't ever explain to doctors and health services ...so many women I know in my country killed themselves or their families killed them because of the violence. There has been no help for so many women, we are the lucky ones (Survivor, FG3).

Organisations also need to know about religious and cultural issues, we are different cultures and if services don't know about these, they should understand about our family culture, issues about honour and shame (Survivor, FG4).

Women in my community don't trust the police and don't want to speak to police. My husband told me I can't go to the police because I have no evidence, so they won't believe me and will just lock me up or deport me. It was scary not knowing where to go, he beat me and did so many things, I tried to kill myself so many times, and I don't have anyone from my family here, I was totally alone. (Survivor, FG3)

I can't go back to my family any more, if [service] didn't help me, I would definitely kill myself because I would have nowhere else. They are my friends and my life (Survivor, FG1).

It's important for us to have someone to help us who know what our rights are in relation to no recourse to public funds, because there can be help available. (Survivor, FG4).

v. Listening to survivors and responding with timely support

All survivors said they wanted services to listen to them and offer support based on their circumstances and needs

It's not about creating specialists in every service but making sure general services have enough information to signpost you to the right services for your needs at that time. (Survivor, FG1)

We all need agencies to see us as individuals with needs, sectors and agencies take over and we need to fit into them, it should be turned around so we have a 'beginning to end' service built around our needs and is joined up. (Survivor, FG3)

We need more support for us so we're not seen as a case to be closed or passed on to someone else, we have needs in our own right, and support should be available for as long as we need it, not time limited (Survivor, FG1).

It's at least 6 months or more just to get counselling...Why don't the domestic abuse services have their own counsellors for every woman who needs it – not everyone does but I had history and wanted support around my mental health (Survivor, FG6).

Survivors stated that services were not always available when they needed the support. For example, accessing services is a particular problem for women who work; counselling services have such long waiting lists that many found it impossible to access therapeutic support; and survivors spoke of significant delays with accessing ID documents and made practical suggestions for improving the system.

If you work you can't access any help. Groups are held in the day and services close at 5. There's just no help during the evenings or on weekend. You can't go into a refuge and pay the rent if you work either, it's just too expensive. (Survivor, FG4)

The refuge was excellent for one to one support but it wasn't always available when you need it. They're very understaffed so when you wanted to see someone or get advice there's not always someone available. (Survivor, FG1)

My young daughter went through a stage of trying to kill herself because of what we lived with, the doctor gave her tablets. It was 8 weeks later before social services could get to see her and then she was also on a waiting list for counselling. In that time – it took 5 months – I had to manage this on my own, ...I needed support myself, a safe space for me to talk through my feelings about being a mother and how I can help her get through this. (Survivor, FG1)

I was diagnosed with PTSD and depression and I've got really bad anxiety. But their waiting list is long... it's been a year since I've been told that and nothing ... I've been taking medication and its had such a bad effect on me... There are some days I can't leave the house, I think if I had better help from mental health services I could be a better mum.”(Survivor, FG4)

I don't have ID, I don't have bank accounts, we don't have any of our documents. I've been waiting for weeks from social services for papers to provide a record of abuse. I've been waiting 24 months to get replacement ID... I'm stuck if I don't have my passport, I can't get work, I can't stay and live and I can't leave (Survivor, FG3)

Why can't women, when they come to this country, have copies of their passports taken by the Government... It would be helpful if one day a month someone from London came to Cardiff to do immigration interviews, to save us travelling, the interviewer should come to here. There is also no access to embassy staff in Cardiff, they're in London or in other areas in the UK but not in Cardiff. This would help us with passport and ID card access (Survivor, FG3).

At the time the support was a 3-5 year waiting list and I thought I wouldn't be alive to see 5 years. So I started doing overdoses and being held on hospital corridors (Survivor, FG6).

My GPs, they were great to a point but what can they do, there is no psychological help out there, there's 2-3 years waiting lists (Survivor, FG2)

vi. The needs of specific groups of survivors

Survivors in different groups spoke with great insight and understanding of how different life experiences and different identities should not act as barriers to seeking help. Many felt strongly about agencies labelling some groups as 'hard to reach' which meant in reality that services were not meeting their needs.

Several issues were identified by survivors as additional barriers to accessing help and support, based on their identities or life experience.

- Older women

Some older women said they were not comfortable accessing refuge services but were accessing other support services including advocacy or counselling in the community. They explained that they felt accessing a refuge at this stage in their lives was not an option for them. They spoke of needing to avoid the stigma of having to live in a refuge or being homeless, which resulted in some survivors opting to stay with abusive partners until they could find suitable accommodation to move to.

Older women just don't have anywhere to go. I would never go into a refuge at my age. I want to move out but I don't have anyone practically to help me. So I stay with him. A friend I know who is older and is being abused too, she is totally isolated. (Survivor, FG7)

Financially at my time of life I can't start all over again with nothing, but there's still a strong assumption you need a man to survive. I wouldn't go into a refuge but would live on my own in a small flat if I could have support (Survivor, FG6)

Older women also said that they needed to access housing that was more suitable and adapted for their needs, given some of the health issues they were now facing. For some, these were exacerbated by long-term substance use and involvement in the sex industry.

I'm older, I'm vulnerable, I suffer from ill health and I'm disabled, but I don't even have a social worker. The outreach health clinic had to stop coming around my house because he's so dangerous. But they expect me to live there, and expect me to turn him away when he shows up at my door. (Survivor, FG5)

I don't feel safe in my home but where would I feel safe? There should be somewhere that's safe and secure, which isn't sheltered housing which we couldn't get in to anyway, that supports independence but has wardens or CCTV. Older women on the beat who've lived with abuse for years and years need at some stage to get some respite, proper healthcare and protection (Survivor, FG6)

Neighbours called the police and they just came and asked him 'have you hit your mother again'. He'd picked me up and threw me on the floor. I've had injunctions against him and he's been locked up, but he comes straight back to my house. It's helpful when they take him away, I feel calmer, my health isn't good so it's difficult for me to cope when he's around (Survivor, FG5)

- Women abused by their children

Women of all ages who experienced violence from children also spoke of having no-where to turn, and of being frightened but also embarrassed because it was their child who was being violent.

It's hard to accept your child is doing this to you. You can accept a boyfriend – I mean it's more normal. It's worse when it's your own flesh and blood because you expect better. He might kill me ....I'm already on borrowed time. (Survivor, FG4)

My abuser was one of my older children, it's linked to taking drugs, and my younger children are now starting to have an attitude too, they need help to know that's not ok and that's not normal...Getting to the refuge and the help here has been amazing, invaluable. Going through it with my children has been really hard (Survivor, FG1)

- Black and minority women

Black and minority women believed that services did not understand the cultural and religious contexts of their abuse. They spoke of being afraid to seek help and of the consequences of leaving which included further violence from other family members. Survivors wanted services to have a better understanding of religious and cultural issues particularly notions of honour and shame.

In our communities women are even more scared to speak out or share their experience with others. We need to educate these communities so they can speak out, get help and support. (Survivor, FG3)

I can't ever go back. My brothers will kill me. They knew what was going on but told me I had to stay as he was my husband. (Survivor, FG3)

Many survivors stated that the police and other agencies were often reluctant to intervene as they believed it to be a cultural issue.

No one wanted to help me. I called the police but they said 'things are different in your culture maybe you can work things out'. (Survivor, FG4)

I went to the doctor for 3 abortions in so many months. No one ever asked me why. If they had asked I would have told them. (Survivor, FG3)

The police don't really pursue perpetrators in non-white communities because they see it as being racist, when what they should be doing is protecting women. My husband told me I have two weaknesses – my family and the police; the police won't believe me if I tell them about the abuse, and my family will be killed after he chops me up. So I didn't tell anyone for a long time. (Survivor, FG2)

Police need training and to be held accountable for a stronger response to BME perpetrators, despite all the evidence police believe what men and community leaders and the family are saying about women, that they're mad, they're bad mothers, it's their fault (Survivor, FG4)

The police and others need to be better trained to deal with domestic violence and different cultures and to publicise this in different communities in different languages – all the time, not just some times of the year. (Survivor, FG2)

Immigration status and insecurity was a real worry for many minority survivors. Many feared destitution as a result of having no recourse to public funds. Some spoke of perpetrators using insecure immigration status as part of the ongoing abuse by threatening to expose them to police and having the women deported and taking their children from them. Services too were often reluctant to help victims with insecure immigration status.

All agencies see is an immigration status they do not see us as human beings. We need help. (Survivor, FG3)

He told me no one will believe me because of my status, that they will take my children from me. (Survivors, FG1)

Not having access to identification papers which then affected their ability to access services or prove any identity or status was causing huge difficulties in accessing legal help and progressing their cases. Some women faced threats of deportation, which they experienced as secondary abuse by the state.

He has all my papers. No one will help me to get them. He's in {...} and they say it's too far. (Survivor, FG2)

My father is very sick... I haven't seen him for many years. I have no papers and no one can help me get them. I can't go to my father. (Survivor, FG2)

I was brought here by him and now they tell me I will have to leave in a few weeks. What can I do? I will have to go back – but to what? My family don't know what happened to me and now I don't know if I will have anything. (Survivor, FG6)

No recourse to public funds was a significant problem for women accessing help and support, and in many cases was an immediate problem for some of the survivors we spoke to.

I will have to leave the refuge in 2 weeks because I have no money. (Survivor, FG2)

Where will I go? I will be destitute if I can't get money in 28 days. I am so frightened. (Survivor, FG6)

Having no recourse to public funds is a huge problem. When I married my husband he was supposed to put me onto his own documents but he refused... When I left home with my pram and baby bag, I saw housing and social workers. I'd had a baby 3 months ago and they both told me – no you can't go back to that house, it's not safe but at the same time said no, we can't help you because you have no recourse to public funds. What was I supposed to do? (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors who had lived in the UK for several years and had endured abuse for much of that time told us they faced particular challenges moving on from the abuse towards independence. The abuse had stripped them of life skills, confidence and self-esteem, and they had been prevented from learning English, leaving the house, and in some cases accessing maternity care when pregnant. These women were subsequently deemed by benefits assessors to have limited or no prospect of finding work so their access to Job Seekers Allowance was only payable for a limited period.

I got JSA for a bit and its now stopped so I only get child benefit, £34 per week for me and my children, that's all I have to live on. I'm in a refuge and can't afford to stay there anymore. The benefits agency told me Ive got no hope of getting work. I tried to explain I've been living with violence for 9 years but was kept at home all that time, I was trapped, I couldn't learn English I wasn't able to learn any skills that would help me work and I don't have childcare. Why don't they understand that? (Survivor, FG2)

How does anyone help a woman like me? I had no one. I never went out. I had my child but no one knew or was there to help. Nothing could have helped me. I got out by chance. (Survivor, FG3)

If a woman has experienced years of abuse and claims JSA, they should take that domestic abuse into account before assessing us as 'without any prospect of work'. (Survivor, FG2)

Survivors also spoke of the system challenging their experience of being victims of severe violence and abuse, despite police call-outs and evidence from other agencies, including in some cases the state issuing leave to remain for their abusers.

They told me to go back home to Africa as I would be safe there because he now has his stay [leave to remain]. I called the police 100s of times about him and he nearly killed me. The police know all about it. But they let him stay anyway. (Survivor, FG2)

Services need to be improved – legal services, the courts - Ive come here for help and support but they didn't consider my experience... They've turned down my application for asylum and haven't accepted the things I've been through so everything is closing for me (Survivor, FG7).

Nowhere is safe for women seeking asylum...I feel this is no life for me or my children here, I can't see anything changing. It's been [like this] from 16 years of age in my first marriage, my second husband wanted to traffick me and I've never slept one night in peace. I want the home office and immigration people to understand violence and abuse and what happens to women, we need to feel safe. That is my one recommendation for things to change (Survivor, FG7).

Language was often a barrier to accessing help and support for many minority women. Several minority women spoke of not knowing what help and support was available because they did not read or speak English and they did not understand that services were available to support women experiencing violence and abuse.

I don't speak English. How could I call anyone? I did call once but then hung up. I was frightened. What could I say anyway? What if he found out?(Survivor, FG6)

I did not even know that I could speak to my GP or tell anyone at the hospital what was happening to me. (Survivor, FG4)

I called {service} 3 times before I told them what was happening. I needed to know what they do and be sure they wouldn't tell him I'd called. (Survivor, FG2)

Taking English language classes would be good. We need to be able to communicate in here and in the outside world. (Survivor, FG4)

Women can't speak or say what they're feeling because of the language, it's a barrier to speaking about the abuse because we're trying to talk about the same thing but in different languages. Even with an interpreter it's hard (Survivor, FG5)

There were particular concerns raised about access to helplines, including the Live Fear Free Helpline and other services that depend on survivors accessing them by phone or through leaflets.

Information should be available in community languages, we can't all read or write in our own languages. It's a massive cultural barrier to get women to come forward...there should be radio or TV ads in our own communities where to go for help. Just an image and Helpline and number available. (Survivor, FG1)

The helpline leaflets aren't helpful, they have too much information on them, it doesn't have any pictures – images would speak to women across all languages, for us who can't speak English very well, this information tells us nothing. We need to know there's help and what the number is, that's all. (Survivor, FG4)

Even when you call the helpline you can't get through if you don't speak English or Welsh, it's not a person, I called a few times and wanted to hear someone's voice, to hear if they sounded kind, even though I couldn't speak the language, so I could then ask for an interpreter. I called and kept hanging up as it was a machine. (Survivor, FG2)

- Survivors living in rural areas and small communities

Survivors in rural areas raised a number of issues specific to their abilities to access and engage with services. They spoke of their fear of their experiences becoming known by the local community and of the stigma associated with this.

The [local paper] had reported my story from court. I was devastated. They did it without me knowing which had ramifications for work. My boss called me in to speak to me. Our names and address were in there and everyone who knew me knew it was me. (Survivor, FG5)

He moved away but he's now moved back. He's told our friends and everyone locally knows what I've been through. He's lied about me. I just can't get away from it. I've got to put up with it or move away and why should I? (Survivor, FG3)

Women living in rural or smaller towns or villages also found it difficult to seek help because they didn't trust local professionals to keep this information confidential. This problem was exacerbated when their abusers are also known locally, and in some cases abusers were the local police officer, GP, court official or other well-known community leader.

He works in the justice system locally so it really limits me still. I was more scared of going to court because he worked in the system. (Survivor, FG3)

I've been having really bad panic attacks for years and my doctor has been asking me why I get them....My doctor knows everyone in the village and we live in a very small village. But I don't really want to tell her about the abuse because I don't want anyone else to know. (Survivor, FG6)

Transport issues in many areas meant that survivors who did not have access to their own vehicle which they were freely able to use, were forced to use public transport which was extremely limited, where it existed at all.

Some women can't get out at all because they haven't got access to a car or can't drive. The only place some women ever get to is the farmers markets. It's impossible to get anywhere sometimes. (Survivor, FG6)

Broadband and mobile coverage is very limited and in some areas of Wales, non-existent, which meant finding out about sources of help and support could be almost impossible. Survivors spoke of being increasingly isolated and vulnerable without access to a phone line or mobile service so that they can get help in an emergency.

I've moved here after several other moves to get away, there's no landline or mobile connection, I was terrified he might turn up and kill me, and there was nothing I could do. I had no internet, no mobile signal for a month. I wasn't able to call emergency services. I spoke to the police and they said there was nothing they could do. That's a major flaw in the system that's supposed to protect women from abuse. Why can't BT lines be prioritised if the police or council tell them it's an emergency? (Survivor, FG3)

Hospital services including emergency services are often some distance from where a survivor lives, and several survivors told us that getting to the hospital could take over an hour or more from where they lived.

It's really difficult to access regular services in our community, any service at all let alone whether they know about domestic abuse. There's no doctor nearby, there's no A&E – the nearest is an hour away. (Survivor, FG3)

In some areas there is only one legal practice which was used by local people. This meant survivors had to travel to another area to try and get legal advice and support.

He knew the solicitor so got there first. I haven't got anyone (solicitor) for me yet. (Survivor, FG3)

Survivors who had been placed in rural areas as a result of fleeing an abusive relationship said they experienced a culture shock coming from a larger town or city. Several said they did not feel accepted even after a number of years of being in the area.

I was moved here from [...]. It's been 3 years and I still hardly know anyone. I feel like a stranger. It can be really lonely. (Survivor, FG3)

There's a lot of stigma for single women in small villages. In a city you're not so noticed but in rural areas everyone expects you to be married and you can't really go out on your own if you're single. It's a stigma, it's odd. (Survivor, FG5)

- Women with multiple support needs

During the consultation we were able to hear from women who had support needs relating to mental health support needs, problematic substance use and homelessness.

They stated that they felt judged by some services and felt they got a worse response than other women who were being abused, because of their life experiences.

I can't go to a domestic violence service or a refuge. If they find out I've been on the streets on the beat that's it. They look down on you, think you're worthless, its staff and the other women. (Survivor, FG5)

The police called because of domestic violence, they're so used to coming round, they just separate him from me and tell him to take a minute, then leave. Are they like that with everyone, if women don't work the beat or aren't known for having been in trouble before, do they do the same? I doubt it... The thing is you get beaten so badly after the police come and do nothing, it makes you think twice about calling the police again. (Survivor, FG5)

Sometimes they turn up with women's aid who tell me about this or that support, or about refuges, but I've been there before it doesn't work (Survivor, FG5).

I was there at the back of the court supporting him, I find them [domestic abuse advocates] a bit pushy, they turned up at my house and told me 'you've got to prosecute, we're here to support you' but what are they going to do afterwards, what happens then, they won't be there for me when he comes straight home. What will they put in place to protect me then? They've got no answers. (Survivor, FG6)

Social services have made it impossible for me to be honest with them. They wouldn't work with us...they threatened me with adoption if I had anything to do with him. So we went back to lying to them again. We didn't trust them (Survivor, FG6)

Survivors with problematic substance use or mental health support needs spoke about the inordinate delays they experienced accessing assessments, and they felt they were being punished because they found it difficult accessing the service at set appointment times.

It takes months to even get an assessment, and the system is designed for women to fail. From assessment to appointment can take 4 months or longer and if we miss an appointment we have to start again...Once we're ready to get help, there should be a way of getting from an appointment to a script within a week (Survivor, FG5).

Drug service appointments are 9-5 which it makes it difficult for us to get there if we're working the beat at night (Survivor, FG5).

Mental health services say to women who are obviously struggling, 'why are you here', or they say there's nothing wrong we don't need help. A woman I know tried to kill herself and was told by her doctor 'that's only superficial, that's not a real attempt'. (Survivor, FG6).

Survivors also spoke to us about their concerns about health services medicalising their need for support for the trauma they had experienced, and treating them with medication, without access to specialist services or other talking therapies. Long waiting lists for counselling services and/or lack of provision of therapeutic services in some areas was a real concern for many survivors.

When I was pregnant I went to the GP to ask for something, and no matter what I've been through it's like they weren't interested, they gave me tablets, I was pregnant and had another one to look after and I didn't need those tablets because they just wouldn't help...they just think of me as the problem. (Survivor, FG7).

I disclosed that things had happened which led me to feeling suicidal and there and then the police referred me to the crisis team in hospital, they asked me do you still feel the same, I said I don't really know, and they said that's good enough here's some sleeping tablets, off you go. (Survivor, FG7).

It feels like the public sector lets us down and the charity sector like here is left to pick up the pieces. It's like you go to a GP or whoever and they can't deal with the trauma, you are psychologically traumatised but you are treated with medication, it doesn't get to the root cause of the problem. Counselling services here don't deal with it as a medical issue. (Survivor, FG7).

I wanted counselling but the doctor gave me pills because there was a waiting list. I didn't want the pills but took them anyway. When the counselling was available I couldn't go because of the pills – I'd lost all motivation and couldn't speak. (Survivor, FG3)

Survivors with additional needs said they wanted services available at times suited to their needs, and that understood their life experiences and could help them without judging them.

I'm on a methadone script. I've been clean for 4 years. I don't want to still be working the beat in 10 years' time. It's important to have support – my support workers here coordinate my social worker, my probation officer, health visitor – so they're all working to help me. (Survivor, FG5)

My support worker goes above and beyond, they will see me at night when I'm out working, they're a voice at the end of the phone ... She's there for anything I need, she takes me to hospital appointments, food banks, to the doctor, she's there for everything, because I don't have family to help me. (Survivor, FG5)

Most women like us who need help have experienced child sexual abuse and are either now involved in offending because of that or need more support than there can be available, and are now victims of abuse as adults. Children need support at the time of being abuse ... what is there when it happens to us first time round? (Survivor, FG5).

If every woman on the beat had a keyworker from very early on, when they're vulnerable to getting involved... then so many of the other problems we face would be less by the time they get to our age. (Survivor, FG5).

I've been using counselling here for coming up to a year and I'm worried it's about to finish, I just want this to carry on... it's much better to have someone listen to you when they're sat in front of you, speaking with someone you can trust, that's what these ladies have done. (Survivor, FG7).

This service is good because they stick to what they say they'll offer. They never let me down, if I have an appointment it will happen, there's consistency and there's an opportunity to open up, talking through years and years and years of things that have caused me problems, to work through that in my own head and speak about it with someone is good. (Survivor, FG7).

vii. Training for professionals

Training for all service providers was a recurring theme throughout the consultation process. Survivors were concerned that agencies did not understand or were not aware of the dynamics and impact of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence. This affected the services they delivered to survivors but also agencies ability to work together as they were approaching cases from different perspectives. Many also stated that training and improved understanding of violence and abuse would enable services to better engage with survivors and improve service delivery.

Professionals don't always know how to deal with disclosures, and aren't engaging with women who try to seek help. Women only tell someone who they feel comfortable with, most professionals get minimal training on this. (Survivor, FG6)

My child has been diagnosed with stress, and they're not a teenager yet, they've had psychologists, but find it too difficult to talk about feelings, and the school has no training on how to deal with these issues. They were having these flashbacks at school, it took one of the refuge workers to go into the school to tell them why this was happening. (Survivor, FG1)

Domestic abuse services need to have training on supporting minority women and on our culture, immigration and language support needs are, what our rights to public funds are, and so on (Survivor, FG3)

All agencies need training on sexual exploitation, trafficking, child abuse, and mental health and drugs issues... support workers in [specialist services] should be respected for the expertise and knowledge they have (Survivor, FG5).

Survivors also spoke of the importance of community members being trained to understand violence and abuse and the help available.

First aid courses for community groups gives you 2-day training to listen, assess level of danger and signpost to support services. If you did something like that on domestic abuse, for 2 days, to explain to all people how to refer to specialist services, to know who to go to, that might be the first and only time they've spoken about it so it's so important that community members know how to respond. (Survivor, FG2)

viii. The value of holistic specialist services

Survivors spoke movingly of the role of specialist services and the support they had received that had helped them move towards independence, autonomy and a life free from violence and abuse. Many survivors spoke of specialist services as a lifeline, a last hope and the reason they were still alive or with their children.

One of the least stigmatising services is the refuge and services for women. They still have to tell social services if they're concerned but at least you'll get support while they do it and afterwards. (Survivor, FG1)

I lacked knowledge that women's aid dealt with emotional abuse, I thought my situation was nowhere near as bad as it needed to be to go to a refuge service, but my friend persuaded me and it was the best thing I've ever done, it saved my life (Survivor, FG2)

Many survivors spoke of the importance of having someone who understood their experience but also who could advocate on their behalf when necessary.

If you haven't got bruises they think there's nothing wrong with you... We need an advocate who argues our case because you get so many people involved it's a minefield. Even if you have a support worker it's important to know they're there for you. (Survivor, FG6)

I can't praise women's aid enough, they gave me knowledge about my rights and options, they challenge social workers when they've given me wrong information (Survivor, FG4)

It wasn't until I spoke with women's services that I understood what rights I had, that I understood it is so important to name your abuse and talk to other women about what's happened (Survivor, FG6)

Some survivors also talked about the importance of simply being listened to and how counselling was helping them.

Coming here and just talking and sobbing my heart out to someone listening to you, being able to talk and talk and talk and talk with no one saying anything back... You can never move on, that's why you need to talk to cope with the things that happen (Survivor, FG7).

You just want someone to listen and not say to you you're wrong or you should be doing this or doing that because they don't know what you should be doing. They should be there to just listen to you, you have to decide yourself from what you say to them 'yeah im getting better'. (Survivor, FG7)

They're just someone you can sit and just talk and talk to without any interruptions just about how you feel, it could be anyone because they don't have to talk they just listen, how you feel from very young to what happened yesterday you've just got that space to talk and say what's going round and round in your head (Survivor, FG7)

Whilst many survivors recounted positive experiences of specialist services they were aware that these services were not always well regarded by other service providers e.g. police and the courts. Survivors wanted to see specialist services given professional recognition by other agencies for the services they provide supporting women, men and children and the expertise that they bring to this area of work.

They don't really like it if you have women's service in court with you. No one listens to them anyway. They should as they know about what's happened to me and understand. (Survivor, FG1).

Women's aid should be authoritative enough in the eyes of others to say to the police, CAFCASS and any other agencies yes this is domestic abuse ... but I sometimes get the impression it's detrimental in court if you've had support from women's aid, its looked down on, as like you're being more vulnerable (Survivor, FG2).

In each of the focus groups and the telephone interview fears were expressed by survivors about the impact of austerity measures and cuts to services which may result in the loss of specialist violence and abuse services, counselling services and other sources of help and advice.

What will happen if these services go? Who will be there to help? They're already struggling. You can see it but they try to help all the time. (Survivor, FG7)

Survivors were concerned that funding cuts would mean the severing of a vital lifeline for them.

The women in this service saved my life. I couldn't cope and they gave me my life back. I was living in an unreal situation and they understood. They made me feel less isolated and helped me find myself again. (Survivor, FG1)

The refuges ...break down the isolation, get you out of the situation, and believe you. Even though we're all from different backgrounds they're holding us all cos they know what we've been through. I don't know what could happen if they weren't here. (Survivor, FG7)

(Service) was there and they really helped me with money and finding out where to go for help but they are gone now as there was no more money. I still need help. (Survivor, FG1)

ix. Peer and group support: Survivors supporting each other

Many survivors spoke of how much they valued the peer support they received from accessing specialist services, individually or in groups.

Groups really help, peer to peer support really helps ... you make the connections (Survivor, FG3)

I wasn't allowed friendships and children weren't allowed friendships. So the women I got to know through groups are so important to me now, I've made really strong friendships which I wasn't allowed to do before. (Survivor, FG4)

For women in a refuge it was a simple gesture that led to friendships being formed.

When I came to the refuge I was terrified I didn't want to be friends with anyone, now we're such a close knit group. I moved in and a lady gave me pakoras and I didn't know why...I just closed the door on her. Now she's a good friend. (Survivor, FG4)

Meeting other survivors who had also experienced violence and abuse helped survivors recognise that their experience was not unique and reduced a sense of isolation.

The group was the most helpful thing as it made me feel less isolated. I had contact with other women and realised for the first time in years that I wasn't the only one living with this. It's common and it's what many men do to women – that was an invaluable lesson and made me feel stronger, that it wasn't about me, that he had the problem. It helped me to begin to move on, the women's group saved me. (Survivor, FG2)

Groups are great because women had been going through all this on their own, ... what we get from the group is the support and connections with other women, because we're all on a journey and we can help each other along even though we're in different places (Survivor, FG6).

It's really self fulfilling to have peer support groups, I can say something honestly to my peer and we can make connections and can support each other outside of this group. My biggest problem with it is that it ends ... the support of women is invaluable (Survivor, FG1)

Women need more group support because it helps break down the belief that it's only me going through this, it reduces our isolation it helps us make connections that this is common – whether we've experienced sexual abuse, emotional or mental torture or physical beating, it helps us name it so we can move on, we need more groups (Survivor FG6)

For some others, groups were inaccessible or considered unhelpful unless women said they were ready to talk to others.

If you work full time you can't access any help, groups are held in the day and services close at 5, there's just no help or groups during the evenings or on weekend. Why not? (Survivor FG3)

I don't want still to be working in the street in 10 years time, but you could have put a thousand groups in front of me, but until I was ready I knew it wouldn't work (Survivor, FG5).

Many survivors told us about how important drop-in centres, women's centres and places where they could meet other survivors could be, to helping those who have experienced violence and abuse recover.

Drop-in centres are great, they're critical because we need support when it's most needed. The Friendship Forum here gives us support that we organise – like self-defence, yoga classes – that's fine for us but we need services who know what they're doing for all women who aren't yet ready to come to a wider forum. (Survivor, FG1)

I'm stuck and I can't see any way out. I wouldn't ever go through the door of a council office or call the police unless it was a dire emergency. They've brainwashed you into thinking it's normal and you're trapped anyways so even if someone asked me I would deny it. But being able to come to a centre like this, where there are women there in groups like this one we're in today, that would give me the courage to plan to move out, it would help if I know I could get support without telling someone official (Survivor, FG6)

x. Children and young people

Many survivors repeatedly stated their primary concern was the impact of the violence and abuse on children. Survivors wanted children to be heard and to be able to access specialist support separate and distinct from the support being given to their mothers/carers.

The children need support too. They need to be able to get help to help them understand what's happened. (Survivor, FG1)

There's no one to listen to children especially if they're under 6. (Survivor, FG4)

We have asked [service] for parenting courses, and for play groups for children, and for child care, they say there's no money. That would be one thing I would like to see. (Survivor, FG2)

Survivors were very concerned about preventing children and other young people from experiencing further violence and abuse in their lives. They welcomed any efforts to ensure that all those working with children and young people had access to information that helped them identify abuse and be able to recognise it should it happen, and to know where sources of support could be accessed if needed.

Children need to know what's wrong and right in relationships, what's acceptable, and what help is available – what services there are. It needs to be age appropriate, in primary school – it should be compulsory and not out of choice as parents and some children may not get it. As they get older, in secondary schools, boys already hit girls in school, for the sake of it and no-one challenges it. It needs to continue all the way through university” (Survivor, FG1).

The focus group participants wanted programmes in school to begin with young children as early as possible and to be available to all boys and girls.

My child he's seen and heard a lot. I'm glad I got out because if I stayed any longer he would think it's more normal. But they should have sessions in at 5, 6, 7 years of age; it needs to start very early on. (Survivor, FG3).

I want my daughter and her friends to know. I wish I'd had more knowledge, I never saw it coming and I'm not stupid, but we just didn't have any education, any awareness. I didn't know there were services here to help me. This should be taught in all schools. (Survivor, FG6).

Survivors stated the need for children and young people to be able to access confidential services at school to ensure that those who are living with abuse are not identified or singled out.

The worse thing was the children didn't have the option of speaking to someone at school. They wouldn't say anything to a teacher or a police officer 'cos they don't want everyone to know but if there was a support worker there for children I'm sure they'd have spoken to them. (Survivor, FG6)

Survivors stated that therapeutic services for children to help them understand their experiences were either extremely limited or not available at all. Survivors who had engagement with the family courts and child contact proceedings were especially keen to ensure that provision for support for children was made available. Survivors expressed concern at how children were subject to ongoing emotional abuse as a result of child contact issues and that this had a significant impact on both mothers and children who had to go through the process with limited support.

The children need help just for them, but maybe not in school because they may be embarrassed or worried their friend's will find out. Someone needs to listen to the children. (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors were aware of the impact of the abuse on their relationships with their children and their ability be a parent. They used various strategies to address this but spoke of being judged by services.

I can't work and I've been diagnosed with PTSD after the abuse. I've left my children with {...}s and see them regularly but at I've got services telling me they should be with me. I know I've not got enough support to cope with supporting the children at the moment. They're safe and happy why would I risk that? (Survivor, FG5)

Some survivors also told us about their need to have support for themselves, when their children have also disclosed or experienced child abuse by the perpetrator, but this had not always been forthcoming.

I wanted a service there for me, someone to explain what sexual abuse was, I tried to cope ...I had to understand all that and no one gave me support...I just cried every night and started drinking to block this out (Survivor, FG7).

xi. Criminal Justice Services

Survivors had mixed experiences of criminal justice services.

I called the police and they were brilliant. They referred me to women's aid to get the help I needed. (Survivor, FG6)

They asked him to leave the property which he agreed to. The following day women's aid contacted me having had my details from the police, which was great. That's what made the police response good for me – to get help from here as I didn't know these people and these services existed. (Survivor, FG1)

Everyone says 'phone the police', but they don't do anything. They'll send him away and he'll be back in an hour and kicks down the door. (Survivor, FG4)

I don't think the police know enough about domestic abuse. I was 17 when I first spoke to police and they used to say 'why don't you just leave him?' they helped him more than they helped me. He went to court and there were more agencies around him and wanting to help him than me. When he told them it was my fault he did this and that, they believed him – they gave him counselling, they offered him parenting sessions but no one told me about refuges or offered me support. (Survivor, FG2).

I didn't have secure status when my abusive situation started, I called in the police over 49 times over a few years, but because I didn't have my immigration status, they would tell me to call social services, give me options to go back to Africa or go back to him This went on for 5 years. (Survivor, FG1).

Many survivors stated that they did not feel safe and were looking for protection, and how they continued to feel unsafe after criminal justice services had taken action against the perpetrators. Court orders, prison sentences and injunctions seemed to have little effect at keeping some of the survivors safe from further abuse.

He was given 6 weeks in prison for attacking me but as soon as he was released he came straight back to me. It's his home and he's my son. What can I do but let him in and it starts all over again. (Survivor, FG4)

The court said he has to stay 100 metres away from the house. He does stay that far away but he stands and watches – all the time – I don't know what he'll do next. (Survivor, FG1)

His 3 previous wives have gone through similar. Despite all the evidence the courts believed him. So now he's stalking me and no-one's interested. (Survivor, FG1)

What would be helpful is for him to be kept away and for him to not know where I live ever. (Survivor, FG7)

xii. Family Justice Services and legal aid

The family justice system<sup>12</sup> was the most negatively experienced by survivors who participated in this consultation. Every focus group highlighted significant criticism in relation to family court processes, child contact proceedings and the consideration given to domestic and sexual abuse.

Survivors in many areas talked about their experience of perpetrators using the family court system to continue to abuse and control them.

In family court the fact that you're not allowed to bring in past issues doesn't make sense when it's domestic abuse. Judges should be allowed to hear this. He defended himself and just spoke and spoke and I wasn't allowed to answer any of the lies. (Survivor, FG1)

The family court system can continue abusing you after you've left your ex – it's like the system abuses you all over again. (Survivor, FG3)

They put you back in the same room as the abuser, to try to get you to mediate with him when he holds all the power and has dominated you for years, you haven't got a chance it's not equal. (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors stated that, unlike the criminal justice system, the family courts did not appear to understand domestic abuse and its impact on the non-abusing parent or the children. This lack of understanding resulted in not being able to access the help and support needed by survivors and their children, through the court process.

Court services aren't utilising all the services in place that victims need. (Survivor, FG6)

CAFCASS has not been helpful. I had to go to see them [where he's from] so I'm trying to see them here because I don't want him to know where I am. They don't seem to know about domestic abuse or what I've been through. This is still going on years later and the issue is still not resolved. (Survivor, FG3)

Survivors also spoke of a lack of a joined up approach between criminal and family court cases, where in some cases women felt family courts were not aware there was also a criminal case being investigated.

He went to prison but the family courts were just interested in him seeing the children. I'm not sure they even knew about the prison stuff. (Survivor, FG3)

Cross border working was also raised as an issue particularly in relation to contact proceedings.

He had other relationships where he did the same thing. There were children too and he always wanted contact. Why didn't the courts make the connections between the cases? I know they were in England but they need to know about when they've done this before. (Survivor, FG3)

CAFCASS didn't make the connections between my experience and the ex-wives he's had before. He's done the same to them, we're all going through court. There was clearly a pattern but maybe because it was cross border they don't connect this up. They should look at the history of abuse. In the end it was his word against mine and the children didn't get a look in. (Survivor, FG5)

Survivors stated that they felt the courts did not look positively upon involvement of specialist services or other services that know about the violence and abuse. In some regions, survivors spoke of CAFCASS preventing support workers from domestic abuse services from attending appointments with women.

They were awful...I was a wreck when I first left, I couldn't sit in a room with him on my own so I had someone from women's aid come with me, the CAFCASS officer thought I was a drama queen, they felt sorry for him and told women's aid they couldn't come in with me even though they didn't say anything, she was just there to help me feel I could go into the room, I was that terrified (Survivor, FG2).

Many survivors said they felt that family justice system professionals seemed to side with the perpetrator, and dismissed evidence of abuse presented by women and children.

He won't let my daughter access her own support through a domestic abuse service. She was offered activities, groups with other children and he said no way', he wouldn't have his child having their own support. I told CAFCASS I'd like my child to go access support, and she said to me 'there's no sign of emotional abuse in your relationship so I don't see why your child needs to go to this service', she told me I'm not a victim of domestic abuse. (Survivor, FG3)

My CAFCASS officer went to see my ex and he put on the charm and she was taken in. She came back and told me 'there's no domestic abuse going on here.' They should be professional and trained and see through what they're being told by abusers. Instead the court report was written making out I was lying. They don't see him as a stereotypical abuser so don't believe he's capable of that, they just go on what he says to them which is part of the way they continue abusing us. (Survivor, FG7)

Many survivors stated that the abusive parent's rights to see his/her children seemed to override the safety and well-being of their children, during family court proceedings, despite the intent of the law to put the child's safety, wishes and feelings first.

Children aren't listened to, these children who are afraid of their fathers are going through hell. CAFCASS isn't there for them, just for him. (Survivor, FG1)

My child is bed wetting, not concentrating, terrified of seeing their father and in a total state before and after the visit, which I have to manage. Yet CAFCASS don't seem concerned about that at all. My child is dragged kicking and screaming to contact visits...My child tells CAFCASS they don't want to see their dad, they tell them he frightens them...Why aren't they speaking up for children and making the case that this isn't in their best interests, it's harming them? (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors spoke of the non-abusing parent often being seen as being obstructive or lying to stop contact. Survivors stated that they were having real difficulty proving the abuse they and their children had suffered, to the family courts.

My husband is trying to take my son, he's going for custody. I've been told the family court judge may not believe the abuse because I don't have any evidence. The fact finding meeting suggested I've not really been abused. This is a man who cons everybody. He's nice to everyone but he's been degrading me my whole life. How will I prove it? (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors in many instances spoke of family justice system services prolonging and reinforcing the abuse they had experienced by perpetrators. Survivors felt they and their children were not heard or understood in cases of child contact and family proceedings.

I didn't feel listened to by CAFCASS. The report they submitted to the court wasn't based on what I told them. She's biased towards him and against me because he works in the system, and it's his word against mine. (Survivor, FG5)

Family courts and CAFCASS need training. Women and children aren't being heard. (Survivor, FG1)

My children don't want to see their dad after what he's done, they're scared of him, where can children tell someone this and where are children listened to? (Survivor, FG2)

My daughter is dragged screaming to visits with my ex. She runs away from him in the car park. It's like he's abducting her, she doesn't want to go and she's scared and it breaks my heart. I'm her Mum and there's nothing I can do to protect her. Why do they let this happen? It's like they're on the side of the abuser. It's wrong that children don't have a voice in family courts. (Survivor, FG3)

Many survivors believed that perpetrators were using child contact as a mechanism of ongoing control and that this was either not understood or ignored by the court and related agencies.

All agencies that have authority are simply being used as weapons against us by the abuser, it's part of their game, there's supposed to be equal rights for both parties but it doesn't happen. The children are living in a war zone and so am I. it's just a form of state violence. (Survivor, FG1)

The reason he wanted my daughter was to keep the house and get the child tax credits. Now he's got the house he doesn't want her he sent her back to me – that's fine for me and my daughter. The courts can't see the games he's playing. (Survivor, FG1)

He showed my daughter all the court documents and said "mum said this about me and mum said that about me" which is just emotionally abusing her. She's too young to have to deal with that, it's also made me not able to say what I needed to in court because I knew he would show her every detail. He brainwashed her against me. (Survivor, FG6)

The costs of childcare for court attendance was an issue of concern for some survivors.

Costs of childcare is a big problem. I've been in family court on and off for over 7 months with my husband and any time I have to go to court I need childcare, I need to be back there tomorrow and I don't have anywhere to leave my child. Social services and CAFCASS say I can't help you. Do they want me to bring my baby to court for 3 to 4 hours? No, they won't let me. So what am I supposed to do with my child? I've tried registering them at nursery as I only need it when I need childcare, I can't pay for nursery all the time, I can't afford it. If the family court is dragging me to court they should provide me with childcare. (Survivor, FG3)

Survivors in many areas spoke of the facilities available for supervised and supported contact in their area, which are provided by a range of agencies across Wales. Concerns were expressed about the availability, location and access to suitable supervised contact facilities, following a family court decision.

If there are kids involved, the whole process of contact after leaving abuses you all over again. There's a lack of contact centres that can provide proper supervised not supported contact, the closest is [ ] which is hours away and it's only available once a fortnight (Survivor, FG6).

The contact centres in [...] only have volunteers in, no one who knows what to look out for... I'm concerned about safety every time we go there. (Survivor, FG4)

We need adequate supervised contact centres around Wales that know about domestic abuse and a CAFCASS service that is trained in domestic abuse and listens to children and knows about the damage contact can make unless it's safe. (Survivor, FG2)

Survivors also spoke of problems with not being able to access legal aid, and the additional trauma this had caused them.

When you finally have the confidence to leave, there are so many problems with the courts and solicitors, we have no access to legal aid and the men, they have your money and they can get legal help so they keep their power; even if you have a good job and earn money, it doesn't mean it's yours to use to protect yourself (Survivor, FG1).

There's no come back on the men, they get money, they get the children, they can buy the best lawyers and they continue to abuse me after I've left. I have to travel 2 hours to access a legal aid lawyer, the abuse just carries on by the system (Survivor, FG2).

There's very few legal aid lawyers in Wales, there's not much choice, especially if you want specialist support with family matters and immigration issues. They have offices in the cities so there's no access to legal advice in other areas (Survivor, FG4).

It doesn't help when you can't get legal support and your ex is cross examining you in court, when he presents the case against you it's him and the judge against you (Survivor, FG6).

He turned me into an absolute wreck. Yet on the surface he's a middle-aged respectable businessman who does everything to appear like a normal charming person. I thought I was going absolutely mad, I've got boxes of evidence and the thing that let me down most of all was the family court. I had to represent myself, I'm in debt, I sold everything I owned to pay for a barrister, and the judge thought he was untouchable, they believed every word he said (Survivor, FG1).

xiii. Social Services

A number of survivors told us they were very wary and suspicious of social services and their motives. There was a still an accepted view that social services would remove children from non-abusing parents if they did not comply with social services procedures, and survivors did not feel there was enough – or any – onus on the abusers to stop their abuse.

Social services tell him one thing, and they tell me if I don't leave him, I'll lose my children. (Survivor, FG6)

Social workers came out to see me, 4 months ago, but they haven't seen me since. Because I'm in a refuge agencies assume you're ok, leave you there without any support or without anyone challenging the abuse (Survivor, FG1).

It's the way they say to me, do this and don't do that, and they can come into my house whenever they want. Why aren't they going after him, who's been so abusive to us (Survivor, FG1).

I would advise every woman to stay away from social services, all they want to do for victims of abuse is put the children up for adoption, not help us look after our kids. We walk into social services for help and they don't understand, they put us in more danger (Survivor, FG4).

Some survivors told us that social services had not responded positively to their attempts at seeking help, and many said they felt judged and blamed for the abuse.

I went to social services, they weren't interested and said 'we don't have funding for you' and 'you have to go back to London' (Survivor, FG1).

Because I decided to stay in the house I get no support from social workers or anyone in the council. They assumed that because I didn't leave the house, because my children had issues about being frightened of moving, they assumed it wasn't that bad (Survivor FG2).

Social services are the worst agency to get involved, because we know we will end up losing our children. They have so many rules for us to follow and if we don't follow the rules we will lose our child, they look in the fridge, they ask my daughter what I'm doing, they check if my house is clean. And it's not us who's done anything wrong... (Survivor, FG3).

I am still with my violent partner and all social services do is come round to see if everything is ok. They put my children on the register and go away, and leave me to it... I just need help. (Survivor, FG1).

Social services didn't tell me about refuges, they just scared me by threatening to take my children away ... if they'd have helped and told me about these services I could have got away sooner, I wouldn't have stayed so long with the abuse. (Survivor, FG2).

All social services said was we'll get you back in a room with him to talk about it. But I didn't want to go near him after what he'd done. I feel social services are not very good, I've got no praise for social services, the way they've treated my son and myself (Survivor, FG7).

Safeguarding training was a particular concern for some survivors.

Safeguarding training for agencies just isn't enough. It gives a bit of knowledge but there's no information or in depth understanding of domestic abuse included in safeguarding courses. (Survivor, FG3)

Some told us that the advocacy they received from specialist services helped them keep their children in their care.

If it wasn't for women's aid I wouldn't have kept [my children]. Social services didn't think I was strong enough to look after them, so I had to hand them over, and I had to prove to them I was ok to have them back; the support workers helped me get through that. (Survivor, FG2)

Survivors stated that the safety of them and their children should be paramount in cases of violence and abuse. They felt that this was not the case and that survivors were judged and sometimes asked to mediate with the abuser.

What social services seem to be doing in domestic abuse is erring on the side of treating everyone the same but what they should be doing is erring on the side of children's safety because what happens time and again is they expect women to mediate with their own abusers when they've lived with them in a war zone, and if you don't do this you're judged by agencies for failing in some way or for not doing what they expected you to do. (Survivor, FG1)

xiv. Independence and moving forward

In each of the focus groups and in the telephone interview survivors stated that whilst they highly valued specialist services, they did not want to become dependent upon services but wanted to be able to access skills, training and employment in order to gain independence and move forward with their lives. They spoke of setting an example for their children and gaining financial independence.

For most of us mothers here it's important we can settle children and move into a settled home life again as quickly as possible. A place to live, work, money, a future. So the children see a better life. (Survivor, FG5)

Some things that survivors said they needed help with included English language teaching for minority women

I'm desperate to get help to support me with a CV and to get help to get skills and to learn English and to find a job. That's the only way I can see to survive. (Survivor, FG2)

Survivors also said they wanted to find out more information about training, education and other learning opportunities with a view to accessing employment opportunities.

You need to help women to move away from the abuse and have a new life. It should be important to get new life skills and we should be able to link to other services to do this. (Survivor, FG1)

Services help with benefits, doctors, schools and urgent things, but then the dependency comes in and women aren't helped to move on to live well on their own, to make community links, to get English lessons, to stand on their own two feet and to get work if they can, even practical help with CVs or skills so they're not dependent on these services for ever. Otherwise the service is a substitute for the family or for them getting a new life (Survivor, FG2).

xv. Housing

Housing was a significant issue for many survivors, and concerns ranged from extended lengths of stay in a refuge, accessing affordable housing, issues with private landlords, housing benefit allowances and eligibility, to issues around getting furniture.

I was living in a house for 13 months with just a bed, without any furniture or heating, it was freezing cold, there was nothing left and he still harassed me. (Survivor, FG2)

Private landlords are the worst. They keep you there for 6 months if you're lucky and put the rent up and there's just no security. It's not possible to get out if you can't afford it. (Survivor, FG1)

I've been told I can't stay in [...] because I have no local connection .....that shouldn't matter if you're a victim of domestic abuse. They should look at your safety, local connection shouldn't come into it. (Survivor, FG6)

A small but significant number of survivors who attended groups had been in refuge accommodation for some time, ranging from 6 months to, in one case, two years.

I've been in the refuge for two years now. I'm hoping to get a place soon but then I've got to get everything to go in it. I just want a home for me and my son. (Survivor, FG6)

Survivors questioned the approach that always resulted in the victim of the abuse and any children having to move.

Why did I have to leave? They always make the woman move. He gets to stay in the house with everything and he's the one who has done wrong. There's no consequences. I've lost everything – my belongings, the kids toys, everything. It's not right. (Survivor, FG2)

No one ever said to me when the police came that they should remove him – every time it's been me and my child that's left. (Survivor, FG1)

The cost of finding alternative accommodation was a barrier to moving forward and single women were also concerned about their lack of housing options.

It takes ages to get rehoused here, there's nothing available, and if you find anywhere you can't afford it. (Survivor, FG6)

Single women under 35 shouldn't have to live in a shared house or stay in a refuge until they can afford to move out that just tells them to stay with the abuse until they're 35. (Survivor, FG6).

There should be a combination of refuges, support in your own home and support into houses where women have moved on either from the refuge or from abuse. (Survivor, FG6)

xvi. Communication, media, raising awareness

Despite many years of raising awareness about violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, survivors in each of the focus groups said much more needed to be done to raise awareness of the different forms of abuse and where to seek help. Many survivors said that as they were not suffering physical violence they did not recognise their own experiences in the images of victims portrayed in publicity or by services.

The verbal and emotional abuse, it happens so slowly, you get to thinking there's no other way. It was a total eye opener coming to a domestic abuse service and realising what I'd been through. (Survivor, FG6)

Survivors spoke of their fears and the potential consequences of disclosing the abuse to a service and/or professional.

I was scared when I went to the hospital with broken bones. I wanted to tell them but I was terrified. I didn't know how to tell or how to report or what they would do with the information. (Survivor, FG4).

Survivors wanted to see more advertising on television and radio – not just as part of a short-term campaign – but ongoing so that they could access the information needed without any risks from the perpetrator. Comparisons were made with child abuse campaigns and advertising. Although some survivors recognised that the child abuse advertisements on television were focused on funding and donations they felt that the campaign was still able to convey the different forms of abuse and name an organisation that could help.

There's an advert on TV about child abuse and they show the different things (forms of abuse) – you know – and there's a number. It's on all the time. They should do something like that. (Survivor, FG4)

Minority women also recommended the use of television and radio as a means of sharing information about violence and abuse that was safe for them and would not arouse the suspicions of the perpetrator. Several survivors talked about how health services used television advertising in promoting health campaigns to minority communities e.g. diabetes and stroke campaigns, in which a generic advert is dubbed in community languages and shown throughout the day.

Survivors wanted information to be much be widely available including online.

Having online support would be really helpful, as I can't find anything that helps me during the day or for me to see anyone in person. I'd rather it be anonymous. But then some libraries don't have computers so how would they get help? Is there any information in local libraries? (Survivor, FG1)

Survivors in rural areas spoke of the difficulties they and others faced in accessing help and information, and that information should be available in as many locations as possible.

Farmers markets are the only place married women I know go. They should have this information there or articles should regularly be in the [local paper], posters in the hairdressers and dentists and local libraries. To give women options and the chance of seeing something. Youth clubs and young farmers too. Young people need to know what to look out for. (Survivor, FG3)

Information about the help there is should be everywhere women go, like supermarkets, pharmacists, on local radio, in local community halls and in every GP surgery, or if you work your employer should publish this as routine. It should just be everywhere. We should be able to go somewhere and see what help there is. The local shop should have posters. (Survivor, FG6)

xvii. Misperceptions and misinformation

Over the course of the focus groups it became clear to the facilitators that there were a number of misconceptions and misinformation that was affecting survivors' ability to engage with services and to understand the experiences of others. There are three points to highlight in this regard.

Firstly, a small number of survivors said that limited ability to access services was a result of an increasing immigrant and migrant population, as well as survivors being placed in refuges out of area, across Wales. They felt that this had resulted in a shortage of housing, health services including counselling and support workers.

I'm sorry but I have to say it. It's the immigrants. If they weren't all here there would be enough money for everything. Me – and these other women would be able to get housing. But they've got it. I know people won't like it but it has to be said. (Survivor, FG6)

Secondly, the male survivor who participated in this consultation said that he and other male survivors he knew, believed that services for women received all the funding and male victims of violence and abuse were disregarded.

Finally, survivors in rural areas were concerned that funding was disproportionately distributed to cities resulting in a lack of services in their areas.

Welsh government needs to give more money to [rural areas] rather than give it all to Cardiff. Just because it's more rural here that doesn't mean we don't need support. (Survivor, FG6)

These misconceptions must be addressed and challenged in order to avoid building resentment between communities and survivors.

5. Recommendations

Recommendations for the National Strategy in Wales

SUMMARY:

Survivors strongly recommended that a national framework for ongoing survivor engagement and involvement be prioritised and resourced by Welsh Government that enables survivors to educate, advice and inform services on improving their practice.

Survivors also identified 10 key recommendations for priority inclusion in the updated national strategy, to be delivered by Welsh Government:

1. Dedicated specialist services for children and young people impacted by or experiencing domestic abuse, sexual violence, FGM, forced marriage, sexual exploitation or harassment, available in every area.
2. Specialist domestic abuse and sexual violence services for survivors that are accessible and resourced to meet the needs of specific survivor groups, available in every area.
3. Improved awareness of and response to violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence by professionals involved in the family justice system (CAFCASS Cymru, judges and court personnel, contact centres), and safe child contact with parents/carers following separation, in cases of domestic abuse and sexual violence.
4. Accessible 'refuge service' support in every area, accompanied by safe, affordable, longer-term housing options for survivors of abuse, that provide flexibility, choice and meet survivors' needs.
5. Women's groups and peer support available in every area, to reduce isolation and maximise independent spaces that increase confidence, esteem, and empowerment.
6. Protection and support for all survivors who have no recourse to public funds, to ensure equal access to safety, support, protection and justice, and finances to live independently, irrespective of survivors' immigration and residency status.
7. Counselling and therapeutic services for survivors that is available, in every area, when needed, is age-appropriate, and helps build resilience and recovery from abuse.
8. Greater focus on stopping perpetrators' behaviour and holding them to account by public services, and where violence and abuse involves coercive control, action by public services to ensure perpetrators leave and end abusive relationships.
9. Improved training for all services on all aspects of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, informed by survivors' experiences.
10. Preventing violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence from happening in the first place, through compulsory prevention education in all schools and colleges, increasing awareness of the issues and the help available in local communities across Wales.

Survivors stated that it is important the needs of all survivors be addressed in the development of national and regional strategies, including survivors in rural and urban locations, in Black and minority communities and those who face immigration issues, survivors who are disabled, who are lesbian bisexual or gay, who are young or older, who are transgender, and survivors whose life experiences lead agencies to define them as having multiple and/or complex needs (for example if they have mental health or substance abuse needs, if they are involved in the criminal justice system or in the sex industry, if they are homeless or in the care system).

The stated aims of the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Act (2015) is to improve prevention, protection for survivors and provision of services. In addition to the key priorities survivors identified that the strategy should address (above), additional issues and recommendations emerged during the consultation process which either addressed each of these aims or cut across and encompassed all three aims.

The additional issues and recommendations made by survivors across all groups and interviews, are outlined below.

PROVISION

Independent violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence support services

- To ensure high quality specialist support services, accessible for all survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, in every area, that are independent of state agencies and include:
  - community outreach and advocacy support that meets needs e.g. one stop shops, women's centres
  - refuges that have dedicated support for survivors and their children
  - age-appropriate, specialist services for children and young people
  - counselling and timely therapeutic support for children
  - perpetrator programmes with partner support integral to the programme
  - specialist services for Black and minority families
  - safe suitable and affordable housing and rehousing options
  - Sexual assault referral centres
- To ensure specialist services are available unconditionally, meet needs, and help survivors with immediate needs as well as achieve long term independence and freedom from abuse.

- To provide access to specialist services in a range of locations, including in communities and through co-located locations in other agencies (eg co located specialist support workers in health, police, social services, housing, education).
- To provide more counselling services that survivors can access when they need it.
- Provision of a range of safe, supported housing (refuges, dispersed units with access to specialist support), which is accessible for survivors including older women, women in the sex industry, and women with substance use problems.
- To ensure that survivors involved in the sex industry have access to an independent support worker, who can coordinate and support services to meet their needs, help divert or safely exit from the sex industry, and navigate agency systems to support their engagement with other services.
- To review and address the accessibility of the Live Fear Free helpline for survivors with additional support needs, including language support needs.
- To ensure provision of support for child survivors of violence and abuse who are in refuges and that specialist support is available in communities for children who have experienced violence and abuse that is specifically focused on their needs.
- To ensure provision of groupwork with survivors of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence is available and accessible for all survivors.
- Dedicated drop-in 'women's centres' for women survivors of abuse that is accessible to all women where they will not be judged, where women can be supported to meet their needs irrespective of the type of abuse they have experienced. This would include being supported to exit from prostitution, poverty, addictions and to achieve independence from violence. Provision should include a range of services including sexual health support, targeted group work to help recover from abuse, access to advocacy and counselling.

Social care services

- To ensure social workers are trained in all aspects of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, to better identify and respond to survivors and perpetrators across all services and departments.
- Provision of co-located domestic and sexual abuse support workers in social care services, to take referrals following disclosure of abuse.
- To ensure adequate and accessible safe supervised or supported child contact facilities, following separation, in cases of domestic abuse, provided by staff or volunteers trained in domestic abuse.
- To ensure that government initiatives such as Flying Start which are available in areas associated with disadvantage, are not bound by geography but include disadvantage associated with domestic and sexual abuse.
- To ensure provision of domestic and sexual abuse services for children in appropriate settings that meet their needs.
- To ensure provision of domestic and sexual abuse support services for young people in the care system who need it.
- To ensure provision of support for mothers of children who have been victims of child sexual abuse.

- To develop systems for the transition of survivors from children to adult services and ensure that survivors are supported through this process so they are able to access the services they need.
- To incorporate in depth domestic and sexual abuse training in all safeguarding courses – for adults and children.
- To ensure forced marriage and FGM are seen as key safeguarding issues.

Health services

- To ensure health services are trained in all aspects of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, to better identify and respond to survivors and perpetrators across all services and departments.
- To ensure mental health service professionals understand the needs of survivors, and that services are accessible in a timely manner for survivors of violence and abuse.
- To ensure that survivors are seen alone by health practitioners, and that there is a co-located specialist domestic abuse/sexual violence support service /worker available who can offer support following disclosure.
- To make more specialist therapeutic counselling services (individual and group support) available and accessible for survivors affected by violence and abuse, and ensure that counsellors have received training and understand different forms of violence and abuse e.g. domestic abuse, sexual violence, female genital mutilation, forced marriage, honour based violence.
- To incorporate training on domestic and sexual abuse in safeguarding courses for vulnerable adults.
- To improve links between health access points and specialist support services, and facilitate specialist support services available at GP and health centres.

Housing services

- To ensure housing services are trained in all aspects of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence and to better identify and respond to survivors and perpetrators across all services and departments.
- To ensure appropriate, safe housing provision for older people who have experienced violence and abuse, with specific needs that cannot be met in refuges. This accommodation could support independence but also be used to provide respite, healthcare and protection.
- More support for survivors of domestic abuse to stay in their own homes when safe to do so and training for agencies to remove the perpetrator and address their abusive behaviour.
- To work with housing providers to ensure that the needs of domestic and sexual abuse services are incorporated within housing strategies and policies.
- To work with Benefits Agency to ensure that the needs of domestic and sexual abuse survivors are addressed.
- To improve access to information about benefit entitlement in order to secure affordable and appropriate housing.

PROTECTION

- To ensure all agencies have a greater focus on perpetrators that incorporate sanctions and prioritise survivors and children's needs and safety.
- To ensure the behaviour of perpetrators is taken into account and risk assessed by all agencies when making decisions about child contact.
- To ensure criminal, family and civil justice services are trained in all aspects of domestic abuse, sexual violence and violence against women, to better identify and respond to survivors and perpetrators across all services and departments.
- To work with telecommunications providers to develop a system that prioritises installations in rural areas for survivors who have fled violent and abusive situations.
- To ensure all services have systems that enable them to see survivors alone without the perpetrator present and, where an interpreter is needed, that an independent language service is used.
- To improve police responses to survivors of abuse who are involved in the justice system and/or involved in the sex industry.
- To ensure equal access to protection and justice irrespective of immigration status. This would include for example, ensuring that Welsh Government Ministers and officials work with UK government departments to ensure:
  - Improved access to legal advice for survivors with specific immigration needs.
  - UK Borders Agency arrange immigration appointments in Wales to avoid women having to travel significant distances for appointments; and they explore taking copies/holding copies of identification documents as a person enters the country so these can be electronically accessed at a later date.
  - UK Borders Agency and Home Office ensure that survivors of abuse can use electronic records of their ID papers when they no longer have hard copies with them as a result of fleeing violence.
  - Relevant embassies explore the possibility of survivors of violence and abuse being able to access embassy services in Wales.
- To improve access to and effectiveness of legal aid in offering protection against violence and abuse.
- To work with relevant agencies to ensure the specific needs are addressed of survivors of violence and abuse who have no recourse to public funds and/or are EU nationals unable to access benefits after a fixed time period and face destitution.
- The possibility of a national emergency 'destitution fund' is explored in Wales for survivors without recourse to public funds who do not have access to the domestic violence concession.
- To ensure all survivors whose cases are progressing through court have access to advocacy and pre-trial counselling as appropriate, and to review ways of improving communication between criminal and civil legal systems so that violence and abuse is effectively addressed and that the family court process does not contradict orders made in criminal courts.

- To ensure advocacy and support is available for survivors involved in civil legal action relating to violence and abuse, particularly advocacy and support in relation to the family justice system.
- To improve training and understanding of domestic and sexual abuse and its impact for CAFCASS Cymru and all associated legal personnel involved in child contact proceedings, and that its impact is fully considered by family court professionals.
- To ensure survivors of domestic abuse attending the family court have access special measures, similar to those available in criminal courts e.g. separate waiting areas, safe access/exit routes, and screens if needed.
- To ensure that survivors of domestic and sexual violence and abuse are no longer involved in mediation meetings with perpetrators and that they receive specialist support throughout the court process where possible.

PREVENTION

Training

- Training for all frontline staff in all services and for this to be cascaded.
- To ensure all training includes emotional and psychological abuse, coercive and controlling behaviour, financial abuse, sexual exploitation, forced marriage, and sexual violence and abuse.
- Ensure specific focused training for child protection officers, social workers, teachers, and others in the voluntary sector working with children about violence and abuse, and how to respond effectively.
- To ensure that all services have training on religious and cultural issues and how these can impact on survivors of violence and abuse.
- To ensure that all services have training on immigration issues and no recourse to public funds.
- To develop a programme of prevention focused initiatives that addresses the gendered nature of violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence, the types of abuse, coercive and controlling behaviour and healthy relationships.

Media

- To ensure media campaigns raise awareness about forms of violence and abuse, the services available, and national and regional helplines.
- Ongoing publicity campaigns targeting survivors and the help available should be developed for television and radio and shown throughout the day (including community channels in different languages).
- To ensure that publicity materials are widely disseminated and available; these should include publicity materials focussing on coercive controlling behaviour, emotional abuse, sexual and financial abuse. Targeted publicity should focus on the help available for survivors in rural areas, those from minority communities, amongst older people, young people, LGBT communities, and male survivors.

- Publicity campaigns should also target
  - different agencies so they are aware of the range of services available for survivors of different forms of violence and abuse.
  - family and friends so that they know what help is available for survivors and their children.
  - Journalists and the television companies so they report stories of violence against women more responsibly and include more storylines about violence and abuse in their programmes, with a focus on Wales-based media.

Education

- To work with education providers nationally and locally to ensure mandatory healthy relationships education for all school pupils, and all schools and colleges to focus on awareness raising and prevention.
- Provision of peer support for children and young people in schools, and for children and young people to have access to school counselling services that are trained in sexual and domestic abuse.
- To work with relevant education bodies to support survivors to gain skills and qualifications to support them in moving towards independence. This can include English language classes, literacy and numeracy classes, support to find paid employment and/or training etc.
- Improved access to affordable childcare so that survivors with children can engage with education, training and employment.

Specific priorities for action for the Independent National Adviser

Survivors were encouraged when told about the developments planned as part of the implementation of the Violence against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence (Wales) Act 2015.

Many of the recommendations directed at the National Adviser were focussed on ensuring that Welsh Government, and public and third sector services, delivered the recommendation made for the strategy (as set out above).

Survivors agreed that it is for the National Adviser to work with the relevant national and regional agencies and contacts to ensure that the recommendations contained within this report are taken forward. However they were concerned that whilst these are being developed, that there would be a delay in improved interventions in the short term.

Survivors recommended a plan be developed and disseminated by the National Adviser that addressed immediate needs for prevention work, protection and support, that includes prioritising holding Government and Public Authorities nationally and regionally to account for taking action to deliver improvements in the following areas in the short term, whilst ensuring all recommendations made are implemented in the longer term:

- Media and publicity campaigns
- Sustainable funding for specialist services
- Education
- Immigration
- Family and criminal courts
- The development of a sustainable model for future survivor engagement.

Survivors also strongly recommended that the advisor be responsible for ensuring Welsh Government works effectively with Westminster to make sure that criminal and family law issues and immigration concerns are addressed. They felt that closer alignment is needed between action being developed in Wales and responsibilities for public services as set out by the UK Government.

They also felt that the Adviser should review lessons learned from the way media and publicity campaigns for health (diabetes) and/or child abuse (NSPCC) are currently delivered, to ensure these are applied to improving publicity on violence against women.

Survivors consulted strongly supported a coordinated approach to ensure consistent survivor engagement across Wales.

Survivors recommended that the National Strategy requires agencies to work directly with survivors to develop a number of ways of utilising survivor experience to inform and improve practice and policy. There was much positive support received for a model for survivors to be supported – and resourced – to empower and educate service to improve their responses to violence and abuse (SEEDS).

Some additional suggestions included:

- Supporting survivors in local communities to signpost women to known, safe sources of help and support, where appropriate
- Developing befriending and group support services, and a national network of peer support groups where survivors are trained and supported to support other women.
- Training and supporting survivors to form groups to research issues or problems with practice and educate services about these, and on how to improve their response.
- Engaging survivors in the development of training materials, e.g. by using filmed clips to support agencies' training.
- Supporting survivors to continue to meet after group work programmes end so that informal friendship forums evolve.
- Training and supporting survivors to volunteer and gain education and employment in the sector wherever appropriate.

- Group support where women can meet each other. This would open up a safe space for women to meet, access help and support when needed and know that they are not alone.
- Including survivors in the development of publicity material to ensure that campaigns reflect their experiences.

6. Final Comments – what survivors gained from the consultation

At the end of the focus groups many of those who participated wanted to tell us how they felt about being part of this process.

I want to help other women who experience domestic violence. It's been good to have a chance to do that today. (Survivor, FG3)

This was good, I think we should be able to feed back to other services, on a more regular basis. If they listened to us more maybe things could be better for others. (Survivor, FG4)

It was good to hear women who left longer ago than me, that they can say that things are better for them now. There's hope for me too. (Survivor, FG1)

I think it's important that we say what we think — so that women and children are protected. (Survivor, FG5)

It's been good. I liked meeting the other women. (Survivor, FG7)

It gave me a chance to reflect back and see where I've come. Survivor, FG1)

Some survivors said they would be keen to participate in further consultation.

Survivors have lived through violence and abuse. They know first-hand what it is like and what may help others in a similar situation. This report is an opportunity for agencies to receive direct feedback and recommendations from survivors. It is vital now that Welsh Government and partner agencies are prepared and willing to use the feedback it receives. This can really have an impact on future services and resources for families impacted by violence against women, domestic abuse and sexual violence in Wales.

Appendix One

Survivors Consultation: Information for agencies

Wales Strategy for addressing Domestic Abuse, Sexual Violence & all forms of Violence Against Women

I am writing to let you know about a small number of focus groups Welsh Women's Aid has been asked to organise, and to report on survivor recommendations to Welsh Government officials, by the end of March 2016.

The purpose of the groups is to help contribute survivors' voices to the development of a new national strategy in Wales to prevent domestic abuse, sexual violence and all forms of violence against women. We also want to gather survivors' views on what the priorities should be for the Independent National Advisor in her first year, and on how survivor involvement should be established and supported across Wales, in future.

The 6-8 focus groups, which will last around 2-2.5 hours maximum, will target survivors who are in touch with specialist services in Wales. Whilst survivors of violence who have recently accessed services will be the main contributors, we particularly aim to hear views from diverse backgrounds and experiences. The focus groups will be led by experienced facilitators, and will have Rhian Bowen Davies in attendance in her role as the National Independent Ministerial Advisor on Violence Against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence.

All contributions will be confidential, and feedback on the group's recommendations will only be reported in an anonymous manner to the Welsh Government. We will be offering survivors a token of thanks for their time and to cover expenses they might have incurred, in the form of vouchers, after the group.

I have contacted you as I hope your service can support survivors to attend focus groups on the proposed dates (see email), to enable survivors' voices to be heard, to inform this strategy development. If you are able to support survivors attend these groups, or if you already have a group you would like us to speak with or can offer a venue at your premises, please do get in touch.

I have attached a protocol for the focus group, which provides some background information, and an attendance nomination form for the group, which you should complete and return to Welsh Women's Aid: AliceMoore@welshwomensaid.org.uk. If you have any questions about the enclosed information or would like further details, please get in touch with Alice or I on 02920 541551.

Thank you for your help with such a vital task.

Yours sincerely,

Eleri Butler
CEO, Welsh Women's Aid

1. Purpose of the focus group

To responsibly record the views of survivors who have experienced violence and recently used services, to inform:

- the development of the Wales Violence Against Women, Domestic Abuse and Sexual Violence Strategy
- the priorities for the Independent National Advisor in her first year, and
- how survivor involvement should be established and supported across Wales, in future.

Welsh Women's Aid is committed to hearing the views of survivors from diverse backgrounds and experiences. Separate groups will be held with women and men, to maximise safety. The groups will primarily be attended by groups leads who can communicate in English or Welsh; where survivors have additional language support needs, interpreters or signers will be arranged to support the groups (advance notice of additional support needs is needed).

2. Purpose of this protocol

To provide information on what can be expected from the focus group and to ensure those wishing to attend these focus groups are not harmed or endangered in any way as a result.

3. Contacting survivors to attend the consultation focus groups

Welsh Women's Aid will use its existing contacts with specialist services in order to contact survivors who voluntarily have expressed an interest in attending any of the consultation focus groups. Welsh Women's Aid will hold these names in its office and will not, under any circumstances, share these with any other agency or use them for any future consultations, unless express permission is provided from an individual. If so, Welsh Women's Aid will only do this in the way that is dictated as safe by that survivor participating in the group.

4. Who will be at each consultation focus group

These are survivor-only focus groups, and will be for women-only or men-only.

At each focus group there will be:

- (Approximately) 6 - 12 survivors; and AS A MAXIMUM:
- Facilitators to guide the process and ensure survivors get a chance to contribute to the consultation; and the Independent National Advisor on Gender-based Violence
- Welsh Women's Aid staff members to oversee the logistics of the day and to transcribe proceedings;
- Interpreters (as required).

All of these people listed above are committed to and bound by this protocol.

5. Format for the consultation focus groups

The focus groups are not support groups and facilitators will not be asking about experiences of abuse. Questions will focus on survivors' views about preventing violence and abuse, how should agencies support and protect survivors, what should the national priorities be, and how can survivors be better involved in national and local developments future.

Each group will last for approximately 2 – 2.5 hours. Refreshments will be available on arrival and where appropriate a sandwich lunch will also be provided. Each focus group will broadly follow a programme such as that outlined below, although groups will be sufficiently flexible in response to survivors' needs and circumstances:

Approx. times

15 minutes Welcome / introductions / about the consultation

40 minutes Discussion – feedback on use of services

30 minutes Discussion – priorities for prevention, protection and support

15 minutes Round-up and close

A verbal outline of the proposed national priorities of a strategy will be provided. All additional content will also be verbally presented and collected. There will be no requirements to read or write unless participants wish to. Should survivors who attend the focus groups offer advice on how the programme might work better, we will consider this and alter it where necessary.

The focus groups have not been designed to act as a 'support group'. However, Welsh Women's Aid will ensure that survivors who attend are in contact with local support services, should they need support following the group. The facilitators will also have on hand a list of agencies which can offer support and guidance following each event.

6. Access and additional support

Welsh Women's Aid will only book venues for the consultation focus groups which are recommended by specialist services as meeting the support needs of survivors. Signers and interpreters will be provided where necessary. To assist with the costs that may be incurred, Welsh Women's Aid will be providing those attending the focus groups with some form of reimbursement, for example in the form of supermarket or high-street vouchers as appropriate.

Welsh Women's Aid aims to hear the views of women from diverse backgrounds and experiences. Survivors attending will be encouraged to complete equality monitoring forms after each event (this will be voluntary) in order for us to make sure we invite a range of different survivors to attend and participate – not just those who can easily make their voices heard.

7. Recording and storage of material collected at the focus groups

In order to accurately reflect survivors' views, Welsh Women's Aid will need to record key issues arising from the focus groups. Information will be recorded in written form and if agreed by all attendees, a back-up in the form of a recording may be used. It should be noted that any tapes made of proceedings will only be used to cross-reference to recommendations and to provide anonymous, non-identifiable quotes in the final report, as necessary.

There will be ground rules for 'no use of surnames' in order to help survivors feel more comfortable in sharing views and information. Welsh Women's Aid will use the feedback from the focus groups to publish a report to Welsh Government to inform the development of the National Strategy.

All written material and recordings will be held in a locked filing cabinet in Welsh Women's Aid office. It will not, under any circumstances, be shared with any other agency, nor will it be used for any other purpose than to feed in to the development of this consultation. Following production of the report, the recorded material will be destroyed.

8. Use we will make of the consultation material

Welsh Women's Aid will be producing a report summarising the key findings from the focus groups. Survivors who attend these focus groups will not have the opportunity to comment on this report due to the tight timeframes of this programme of focus groups. However Welsh Women's Aid commits to providing timely feedback to focus group participants by distributing the finished report to the organisations involved in supporting these groups, so survivors can view the report in this way – or directly - if they wish.

Thank you very much for your help.

Gwaith craffu ar ôl y broses ddeddfu mewn perthynas â Deddf Trais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol (Cymru) 2015

Papur gan Ysgrifennydd y Cabinet dros Gymunedau a Phlant cyn ymddangos gerbron y Pwyllgor ddydd Mercher 19 Hydref 2016

Cefndir

Derbyniodd Deddf Trais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol (Cymru) 2015 (y Ddeddf) Gydsyniad Brenhinol ar 29 Ebrill 2015 ac mae'r holl ddarpariaethau sy'n ymwneud â'r Ddeddf bellach wedi dod i rym. Mae'r Ddeddf yn ddarn hanesyddol o ddeddfwriaeth, ac yn torri tir newydd fel y gyfraith gyntaf o'i bath yn y DU.

Diben cyffredinol y Ddeddf yw gwella ymateb y sector cyhoeddus yng Nghymru i drais ar sail rhywedd, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol. Ei bwriad yw rhoi ffocws strategol ar y materion hyn a sicrhau y rhoddir ystyriaeth gyson i ddulliau ataliol, amddiffynnol a chymorth wrth ddarparu gwasanaethau.

Roedd rhagflaenydd y Pwyllgor yn y Pedwerydd Cynulliad, y Pwyllgor Cymunedau, Cydraddoldeb a Llywodraeth Leol yn gyfrifol am graffu ar y Bil Trais ar sail Rhywedd, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol (Cymru) cyn iddo gael ei ailenwi a dod yn Ddeddf. Adroddodd y Pwyllgor Cymunedau, Cydraddoldeb a Llywodraeth Leol ar y Bil yn Nhachwedd 2014 ac roedd hefyd yn gyfrifol am ystyried diwygiadau Cyfnod 2 i'r Bil yn Ionawr 2015.

Mae'r papur hwn yn rhoi diweddariad ar y cynnydd a wnaed wrth weithredu darpariaethau'r Ddeddf a'i heffaith hyd yma fel y nodir drwy gylch gorchwyl y Pwyllgor.

I ba raddau mae'r dull o fynd i'r afael â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol yn gwella o ganlyniad i rwymedigaethau'r Ddeddf?

Rydym wedi gwneud cynnydd sylweddol o ran ein dull o fynd i'r afael â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol ac rydym yn

Strategaeth Genedlaethol

Un o rwymedigaethau'r Ddeddf yw dyletswydd i baratoi, cyhoeddi ac adolygu Strategaeth Genedlaethol. Rhaid cyhoeddi'r Strategaeth Genedlaethol gyntaf heb fod yn hwyrach na 6 mis ar ôl dyddiad yr etholiad cyffredinol cyntaf a gynhaliwyd ar ôl cychwyn yr adran hon. Ar hyn o bryd mae Llywodraeth Cymru yn ymgynghori ynghylch y Strategaeth a daw hyn i ben ar 10 Hydref. Bydd fy swyddogion yn adolygu'r ymatebion ynghyd â mewnbwn a gafwyd o 3 digwyddiad rhanddeiliaid a gynhaliwyd ledled Cymru yn ystod Medi a chaiff hyn oll ei ystyried ar gyfer y strategaeth derfynol a fydd yn cael ei chyhoeddi ar 4 Tachwedd. Rhoddir ystyriaeth hefyd i ganfyddiadau'r Pwyllgor wrth ddatblygu fersiwn derfynol y Strategaeth.

Mae'r Strategaeth yn adeiladu ar gynnydd ar y cyd o'r Sector Cyhoeddus hyd yma, ac yn blaenoriaethu'r meysydd atal, amddiffyn a darparu cymorth, yn unol â diben y Ddeddf. Mae'r amcanion arfaethedig fel a ganlyn:

- Trefniadau ar gyfer atal trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol;
- Trefniadau ar gyfer amddiffyn dioddefwyr trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol;
- Cymorth i bobl yr effeithir arnynt gan drais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol.

Y tri diben yma sy'n sail i'r Strategaeth hon ac yr ydym ni'n disgwyl i bartneriaid eu defnyddio fel sail i ystyried a datblygu eu strategaethau a'u polisïau hwy eu hunain.

Strategaethau Lleol

Rhaid i bob Awdurdod Lleol a Bwrdd Iechyd Lleol fynd ati ar y cyd i baratoi strategaeth leol ar gyfer ardal yr awdurdod lleol.

Wrth baratoi ac adolygu strategaeth leol, rhaid i awdurdod lleol a Bwrdd Iechyd Lleol ystyried y canlynol —

- (a) y strategaeth genedlaethol ddiweddaraf a gyhoeddwyd;
- (b) yr asesiad diweddaraf ar gyfer ardal yr awdurdod lleol o dan adran 14 o Ddeddf Gwasanaethau Cymdeithasol a Llesiant (Cymru) 2014 (dccc 4) (asesu anghenion am ofal a chymorth, cymorth i ofalwyr a gwasanaethau ataliol);
- (c) yr asesiad strategol diweddaraf a baratowyd yn unol â rheoliadau o dan adran 6 o Ddeddf Trosedd ac Anhrefn 1998 (t.37) sy'n ymwneud â lleihau trosedd ac anhrefn yn ardal yr awdurdod lleol;
- (d) yr asesiad strategol diweddaraf a baratowyd yn unol â rheoliadau o dan yr adran honno sy'n ymwneud â mynd i'r afael â cham-drin sylweddau yn ardal yr awdurdod lleol;

(e) yr asesiad strategol diweddaraf a baratowyd yn unol â rheoliadau o dan yr adran honno sy'n ymwneud â lleihau aildroseddu yn ardal yr awdurdod lleol.

Cyllid Grant Gwasanaethau Cam-drin Domestig

Yn 2015-16 dyrannwyd £4.97m o gyllid refeniw i sefydliadau er mwyn darparu gwasanaethau effeithiol mewn perthynas â Thrais yn erbyn Menywod a Cham-drin Domestig i ddiodefwyr ledled Cymru (£4m o refeniw; £0.97 o gyfalaf.)

Yn 2016-17 cafwyd cynnydd o £500,000 yn y gyllideb refeniw i £4.5m, gan ddod â'r gyllideb i gyfanswm o £5.4m, a oedd yn golygu y gellid cynyddu'r dyraniadau i Awdurdodau Lleol. Mae tair ardal yn cael eu hariannu ar sail ranbarthol yn 2016-17 – Gwent, Powys a Chwm Taf sy'n cynnwys Merthyr Tudful a Rhondda Cynon Taf. Mae'r dyraniadau wedi bod yn seiliedig ar y boblogaeth sy'n byw ym mhob ardal Awdurdod Lleol.

Mae cyfanswm y gyllideb wedi'i dyrannu fel a ganlyn:

- £1,937,730 wedi'i ddyrannu i Awdurdodau Lleol
- £1,979,820 wedi'i ddyrannu'n uniongyrchol i sefydliadau'r Trydydd Sector i roi cymorth i holl ddiodefwyr trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol, yn cynnwys diodefwyr sy'n ddynton. Mae'r cyllid hefyd yn cwmpasu'r broses o ddarparu'r Llinell Gymorth Byw Heb Ofn.
- caiff £582,450 ei ddyrannu i weithredu Deddf Trais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol (Cymru) 2015 sy'n cynnwys gweithredu'r Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol, canllawiau statudol ar nifer o faterion; ariannu'r Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol a Chyhoeddusrwydd.

Gwnaed buddsoddiad cyfalaf sylweddol dros y pum mlynedd diwethaf - £5.3 miliwn – drwy ddatblygu'r rhwydwaith o 21 o Siopau Un Stop ledled Cymru sy'n cynnwys gwasanaethau i fenywod, dynion a phlant.

Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol

Cyhoeddwyd y Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol ar drais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol ar 17 Mawrth 2016 a daeth i rym ar 1 Ebrill 2016. Mae Canllawiau Statudol y Fframwaith yn amlinellu cyfres o ofynion gwahanol ar gyfer hyfforddiant ar draws y gwasanaeth cyhoeddus a'r trydydd sector arbenigol yn dibynnu ar y rôl dan sylw.

Mae Adran 4 o'r Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol yn ganllawiau statudol a gyhoeddwyd o dan adran 15 o'r Ddeddf a daeth i rym ar 1 Ebrill 2016; rhaid i holl ofynion statudol y Fframwaith sy'n ymwneud â dyddiad penodol gydymffurfio â'r dyddiad hwn. Arferion da a gyhoeddir o dan adran 60 o Ddeddf Llywodraeth Cymru 2006 yw gweddill y canllawiau.

Mae'r Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol wedi'i anelu at bob Gweithiwr Proffesiynol yn y Gwasanaethau Cyhoeddus yng Nghymru, yn enwedig y rhai sy'n ymwneud â dysgu a datblygu, y rhai sy'n gweithio ym maes Trais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol ac Arweinwyr Gwasanaethau Cyhoeddus.

Fel rhan o'r Fframwaith mae Llywodraeth Cymru yn treialu "Gofyn a Gweithredu" sef dull ymholi wedi'i dargedu ar draws y gwasanaethau cyhoeddus ynglŷn â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol. Bydd hyn yn rhoi hyder i weithwyr proffesiynol 'Ofyn' os byddant yn gweld arwyddion o gam-drin a 'Gweithredu' mewn modd priodol er mwyn sicrhau, os bydd dioddefwr yn datgelu gwybodaeth o'r fath, ei fod yn cael y gofal priodol. Ar hyn o bryd rydym yn gweithio mewn partneriaeth â dwy ardal beilot (pum Awdurdod Lleol Gwent a Bwrdd Iechyd Lleol Prifysgol Abertawe Bro Morgannwg) i brofi dull 'hyfforddi'r hyfforddwr' o ddarparu hyfforddiant Gofyn a Gweithredu a datblygu dull llywodraethu rhanbarthol ar gyfer Gofyn a Gweithredu. Yn dilyn gwerthusiad o'r dull hwn yn gynnar y flwyddyn nesaf byddwn yn llunio'r Canllawiau Gofyn a Gweithredu terfynol ac yn eu cyflwyno'n genedlaethol ledled Cymru o 2017 ymlaen.

O ran gwneud gwahaniaeth, dim ond megis dechrau mae'r Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol a bydd yn cymryd nifer o flynyddoedd i gael ei ymgorffori'n llawn o fewn gweithlu'r awdurdodau perthnasol a thu hwnt. Mae'r arwyddion cynnar yn gadarnhaol ac mae'n amlwg bod croeso mawr i'r Fframwaith o ran codi ymwybyddiaeth ymhlith gweithlu'r sector cyhoeddus er y cydnabyddir bod cyfathrebu rheolaidd yn hanfodol ac y bydd Llywodraeth Cymru yn monitro effaith y Fframwaith Hyfforddiant Cenedlaethol yn fanwl iddo fynd rhagddo.

Grŵp Cynghori ar Drais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol

Diben y Grŵp hwn oedd darparu safbwynt strategol ar gyfer y sector ac i randdeiliaid roi cyngor arbenigol i ategu'r broses o weithredu'r Ddeddf yn ogystal â chefnogi polisïau a rhaglenni.

Mae trefniadau, ffocws ac aelodaeth bresennol y Grŵp hwn wedi'u diwygio'n ddiweddar ac mae'n amlwg bod angen i Lywodraeth Cymru sicrhau bod lleisiau a phrofiadau'r sector cyfan, yn cynnwys goroeswyr yn cael eu clywed.

Mae'r grŵp cyngori yn chwarae rhan bwysig o ran casglu safbwyntiau o bob rhan o'r sector ond mae angen iddo hefyd roi cyngor strategol imi. Gofynnir i'r grŵp roi mewnbwn strategol sylweddol dros y misoedd nesaf, yn cynnwys, er enghraifft, ar y Strategaeth Genedlaethol, ymgysylltu â goroewyr, Dangosyddion Cenedlaethol a threfniadau datganoli cyfrifoldeb i'r rhanbarthau ar gyfer y dyfodol.

Anffurfio Organau Cenhedlu Benywod

Cyflwynodd Llywodraeth y DU Ddeddf Troseddau Difrifol 2015 a gyflwynodd ddarpariaethau i amddiffyn a chefnogi dioddefwyr a'r menywod sydd mewn perygl o ddioddef anffurfio organau cenhedlu. Mae Llywodraeth Cymru wedi bod yn gweithio gyda'r Weinyddiaeth Gyfiawnder a'r Swyddfa Gartref ar nifer o ganllawiau statudol sy'n ymwneud â chyflwyno dull adrodd gorfodol, gorchmynion amddiffyn rhag anffurfio organau cenhedlu benywod a'r canllawiau amlasiantaeth ehangach.

Daeth adrodd ar achosion o anffurfio organau cenhedlu benywod yn orfodol ar 31 Hydref 2015. Mae'r ddyletswydd yn ei gwneud yn ofynnol i weithwyr iechyd a gofal cymdeithasol proffesiynol rheoledig ac athrawon yng Nghymru a Lloegr roi gwybod i'r heddlu am achosion hysbys o anffurfio organau cenhedlu ymhlith merched o dan 18 oed.

Cyhoeddodd y Swyddfa Gartref Ganllawiau Ymarfer Amlasiantaeth diwygiedig ar Anffurfio Organau Cenhedlu Benywod ar gyfer pob unigolyn sy'n arfer swyddogaethau cyhoeddus ar 1 Ebrill 2016. Mae'r canllawiau hyn yn ganllawiau statudol o dan Ddeddf Troseddau Difrifol 2015. Mae'r canllaw yn nodi cyfrifoldebau prif weithredwyr, cyfarwyddwyr ac uwch reolwyr o fewn asiantaethau sy'n ymwneud â diogelu a chefnogi menywod a merched y mae anffurfio organau cenhedlu yn effeithio arnynt.

O ganlyniad i adroddiad "Tackling FGM in the UK – Intercollegiate recommendations for identifying, recording and reporting" a gyhoeddwyd gan Goleg Brenhinol y Bydwagedd, datblygodd Llywodraeth Cymru a GIG Cymru ffrwd waith lechyd mewn perthynas ag anffurfio organau cenhedlu benywod.

Yn dilyn arolygiad Arolygiaeth Cwnstabiliaeth Ei Mawrhydi a oedd yn edrych ar ymateb Heddluoedd i Drais ar sail Anrhydedd, Anffurfio Organau Cenhedlu Benywod a Phriodasau dan Orfod, penderfynwyd uno'r Grŵp Arwain Trais ar sail Anrhydedd a Phriodas dan Orfod a'r Grŵp Arwain Strategol Anffurfio Organau Cenhedlu Benywod. Cynhaliwyd cyfarfod cyntaf y Grŵp Arwain Strategol Trais ar sail Anrhydedd ar ei newydd wedd ar 15 Mawrth 2016, ac mae'r grŵp wrthi'n cwblhau Cynllun Gweithredu 2016-2017, a fydd, o hyn ymlaen, yn cwmpasu anffurfio organau cenhedlu benywod, trais ar sail anrhydedd a phriodas dan orfod.

Rhywedd, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol (Cymru) 2015 a Deddf Gwasanaethau Cymdeithasol a Llesiant (Cymru) 2014 er mwyn sicrhau bod strwythur a threfniant gwasanaethau datganoledig yn cael eu hystyried.

Beth yw'r ffyrdd mwyaf effeithiol o gasglu safbwyntiau a phrofiadau goroeswyr? A oes trefniadau ar waith i gasglu'r profiadau hyn ac i ba raddau mae'r wybodaeth hon yn cael ei defnyddio i helpu i lywio'r broses o weithredu darpariaethau'r Ddeddf?

Adroddiad Ymgysylltu â Goroeswyr

Mae Llywodraeth Cymru yn cydnabod pwysigrwydd gwranddo ar oroeswyr a defnyddio'r hyn maent yn ei ddweud wrthym i helpu i lunio polisiau. Comisiynodd fy rhagflaenydd, y Gweinidog Gwasanaethau Cymdeithasol, Gynghorydd Cenedlaethol a Chymorth i Ferched Cymru i lunio adroddiad ar brofiadau goroeswyr. Mae'r adroddiad hwn 'Are you listening and am I being heard?' yn cyflwyno safbwyntiau a phrofiadau goroeswyr trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol yng Nghymru.

Ystyriwyd argymhellion yr adroddiad fel rhan o'r broses o ddatblygu'r Strategaeth Genedlaethol. Bydd llawer o'r argymhellion yn cael eu cynnwys yn y cynllun cyflawni a gaiff ei gyhoeddi ar ôl cyhoeddi'r Strategaeth. Mae'r egwyddorion a amlinellir yn yr adroddiad wedi cael eu hymgorffori yn y Strategaeth, yn enwedig o ran gwella cymorth a hygyrchedd gwasanaethau arbenigol a'r broses o gyfeirio pobl atynt, ar gyfer y dioddefwr, y goroeswr a'u teuluoedd.

Credaf fod awdurdodau lleol yn dechrau ymateb yn well i oroeswyr a'n bod yn ymdrechu i wella'r sefyllfa. Rydym yn parhau i ddatblygu gwell ffyrdd i oroeswyr roi gwybod am eu profiadau a sicrhau bod gwasanaeth cyhoeddus ac arbenigol cadarn ar gael i helpu.

Rydym yn cydnabod bod bylchau o hyd yn y broses o ddarparu gwasanaethau arbenigol a chyda'n partneriaid arbenigol, rydym yn parhau i fynd i'r afael â'r bylchau hyn a pharhau i gefnogi'r gwasanaethau sydd eisoes ar gael, a byddwn yn targedu adnoddau ychwanegol tuag at y meysydd lle mae'r angen mwyaf er mwyn sicrhau bod gwasanaethau arbenigol yn gynaliadwy yn y dyfodol.

“Gofyn a Gweithredu”

Mae “Gofyn a Gweithredu” yn ei gwneud yn ofynnol i bobl broffesiynol ofyn i gleientiaid a ydynt yn cael eu cam-drin ac mae’n ofynnol iddynt gynnig atgyfeirio, ymyriadau neu gymorth arbenigol yn dibynnu ar yr hyn sydd ei angen arnynt.

Fel y nodir uchod, mae Llywodraeth Cymru yn treialu “Gofyn a Gweithredu” ar hyn o bryd, sef dull ymholi wedi’i dargedu ar draws gwasanaethau cyhoeddus mewn perthynas â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol. Bydd hyn yn rhoi hyder i bobl broffesiynol ‘Ofyn’ os byddant yn gweld arwyddion o gam-drin a ‘Gweithredu’ mewn modd priodol er mwyn sicrhau, os bydd dioddefwr yn datgelu gwybodaeth o’r fath, ei fod yn cael y gofal priodol.

Mae Llywodraeth Cymru yn bwriadu comisiynu gwerthusiad o dreialon ‘Gofyn a Gweithredu’. Ymhlith nodau arfaethedig y gwaith ymchwil mae:

- Nod 1 – Deall a all y ddau dull “Gofyn a Gweithredu” a fabwysiadwyd yn gynnar newid patrymau neu effaith y broses adnabod, atgyfeirio a’r defnydd o wasanaethau ar gyfer y rhai sy’n profi trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol, a sut y maent yn gwneud hynny.
- Nod 2 – Cynnal dadansoddiad cost a budd mewn perthynas â’r dull Gofyn a Gweithredu.
- Nod 3. Deall y gwersi allweddol sy’n dod i’r amlwg o bob un o’r safleoedd sydd wedi mabwysiadu’r broses yn gynnar er mwyn llywio’r gwaith o gyflwyno’r broses yn genedlaethol.

Yn wreiddiol, bwriadwyd i’r gwerthusiad gael ei gynnal rhwng hydref 2016 a gwanwyn 2017. Fodd bynnag, mae pob un o’r safleoedd sydd wedi mabwysiadu’r broses yn defnyddio dulliau gwahanol o hyfforddi a chasglu data. Mae angen mynd i’r afael â materion yn ymwneud â chasglu data er mwyn gwerthuso’r prosiect yn effeithiol.

Rhaglen bum mlynedd yw hon ac ar ôl ei chyflwyno ar ddiwedd 2017 bydd pob cyflogai mewn awdurdod perthnasol yn y sector cyhoeddus sydd naill ai’n gweithio mewn swydd sy’n ymdrin â’r cyhoedd (e.e. bydwraig neu Swyddog Tai Awdurdod Lleol) neu’r rhai sy’n gweithio mewn swydd lle y byddai profiad o Drais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol yn cymhlethu natur ymgysylltiad eu cleientiaid â hwy yn eu rôl ac yn effeithio ar hynny (e.e. Gweithiwr Cymdeithasol neu weithiwr Iechyd Meddwl proffesiynol) yn cael hyfforddiant Gofyn a Gweithredu.

Llinell Gymorth Byw Heb Ofn

Mae Llywodraeth Cymru wedi ail-dendro contract Llinell Gymorth Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol Cymru Gyfan ac fe’i hailenwyd yn wefan Byw

Heb Ofn. Cymorth i Ferched Cymru oedd y darparwr llwyddiannus a dyfarnwyd y contract newydd ym mis Hydref 2015.

Mae'r wefan Byw Heb Ofn wedi cael ei hailstrwythuro'n sylweddol i ddarparu adnodd cynhwysfawr i ddiodefwyr a goroeswyr, teuluoedd a ffrindiau a gweithwyr proffesiynol. Mae'r safle newydd wedi cael ei gynllunio i fod yn un o'r prif ffynonellau gwybodaeth am drais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol yng Nghymru ac mae'n ategu gwaith y Llinell Gymorth drwy roi cyngor i bobl a'u cyfeirio at ffynonellau cymorth.

Yn 2014-15 derbyniodd y Llinell Gymorth 199 o alwadau gan ddynion o gymharu â 4,754 o alwadau gan fenywod a oedd yn gofyn am gymorth a chyngor. O ran ffigurau 2015-16 cafwyd 232 o alwadau gan ddynion a 5,161 o alwadau gan fenywod.

Cynllun Dyn

Mae Cynllun Dyn yn darparu cymorth eiriolaeth rheng flaen i ddynion, yn ogystal â chymorth dros y ffôn a'r we gan eu cyfeirio at wasanaethau lleol. Mae'r Cynllun hefyd yn darparu hyfforddiant ac yn gweithio i godi ymwybyddiaeth ledled Cymru o'r mater a sut i gefnogi dynion yn yr amgylchiadau hyn yn y ffordd orau.

Darparodd Llywodraeth Cymru gyllid i Cynllun Dyn yn ystod 2016-17.

A oes gan y Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol ddigon o bŵer ac annibyniaeth ar Lywodraeth Cymru i sicrhau bod y Ddeddf yn cael ei gweithredu?

Mae'r Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol yn darparu safbwynt annibynnol, arbenigol o ran y gwaith sy'n cael ei gyflawni yng Nghymru; gan gynghori, llunio a llywio datblygiadau deddfwriaethol, strategaethau a pholisïau a hybu gwelliannau yn y broses o atal, amddiffyn a chefnogi unigolion y mae trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol yn effeithio arnynt.

Mae'r rôl yn un gynghorol statudol, sy'n annibynnol ar y Llywodraeth, a nodir ei swyddogaethau yn adran 21 o'r Ddeddf;

(a) cynghori Gweinidogion Cymru ynghylch ymgynraedd at ddiben y Ddeddf hon neu fynd i'r afael â materion cysylltiedig (gweler isadran (2));

(b) darparu cynhorthwy arall i Weinidogion Cymru wrth iddynt ymgynraedd at ddiben y Ddeddf hon neu fynd i'r afael â materion cysylltiedig;

(c) gwneud gwaith ymchwil mewn perthynas ag ymgynraedd at ddiben y Ddeddf hon, mynd i'r afael â materion cysylltiedig neu ymchwilio i weld a yw cam-drin o unrhyw fath yn gysylltiedig yn uniongyrchol neu'n

anuniongyrchol ag anghydraddoldeb o unrhyw fath rhwng pobl o wahanol ryw, hunaniaeth o ran rhywedd neu gyfeiriadedd rhywiol;

(d) darparu cyngor a chynhorthwy arall, gyda chydsyniad Gweinidogion Cymru, i unrhyw berson ar faterion sy'n ymwneud ag ymgyrraedd at ddiben y Ddeddf hon neu fynd i'r afael â materion perthnasol;

(e) cynhyrchu adroddiadau ar unrhyw fater sy'n berthnasol i ddiben y Ddeddf hon neu fynd i'r afael â materion cysylltiedig.

Dechreuodd y Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol, Rhian Bowen-Davies ar ei swydd ar 28 Medi 2015 ac mae'n gwbl annibynnol gyda chymorth gweinyddol gan y Tîm Trais yn erbyn Menywod, Cam-drin Domestig a Thrais Rhywiol mewn perthynas ag arfer ei swyddogaethau.

Mae'r Cynghorydd yn ymgysylltu'n llawn â'r Gwasanaeth Cyhoeddus, gyda sefydliadau arbenigol o'r trydydd sector a chyda dioddefwyr a goroeswyr.

Mae'r Ddeddf yn ei gwneud yn ofynnol i'r Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol ddrafftio Cynllun Blynyddol. Rhaid i'r Cynllun Blynyddol nodi sut mae'n bwriadu arfer swyddogaethau'r rôl yn ystod y flwyddyn ariannol ganlynol. Mae Adran 22(2) yn datgan bod yn rhaid i Gynllun Blynyddol:

(b) Datgan unrhyw faterion y mae'r Cynghorydd Gweinidogol yn bwriadu adrodd arnynt yn ystod y flwyddyn honno;

Nod cyffredinol yr Adroddiad Blynyddol cyntaf oedd dysgu am brofiadau pobl yng Nghymru, yr hyn a oedd yn bwysig iddynt a'r hyn yr oeddent am i'r Cynghorydd ganolbwyntio arno.

Yn ystod y chwe mis cyntaf, er mwyn i'r Cynghorydd Cenedlaethol sicrhau cyfreithlondeb a hygredded, gosodwyd tri amcan: Gwrando, Cyfathrebu a Deall, y Defnyddiwr Gwasanaethau Presennol a'r Darpar Ddefnyddiwr Gwasanaethau, a Chyfranogi a Dylanwadu ar sail Persbectif.

Ni wyddom beth yw maint y dylanwad ar hyn o bryd. Bydd Estyn yn cynnal adolygiad thematig o'r ddarpariaeth cydberthnasau iach bresennol yn ystod blwyddyn academaidd 2016-2017, ac erbyn hynny bydd y diwygiadau presennol rydym yn ymgymryd â hwy, yn cynnwys mewn perthynas â'r Fframwaith Hyfforddi Cenedlaethol, wedi cael cyfle i ymsefydlu'n gadarn.

Mae adolygiad o adnoddau addysgu cydberthnasau iach wedi cael ei gomisiynu ac mae Llywodraeth Cymru wedi parhau i ariannu 'Prosiect Sbectrwm' Hafan Cymru a 'Phrosiect Plant yn Cyfrif' Cymorth i Ferched Cymru er mwyn cefnogi elfen atal y Ddeddf.

12 Hydref 2016

Annwyl John,

Diolch am y cyfle i drafod y Tasglu Gweinidogol ar gyfer Cymoedd De Cymru ar 21 Medi. Yn eich llythyr dilynol, rydych wedi gofyn am ragor o wybodaeth yn dilyn cyfarfod cyntaf y tasglu, a gynhaliwyd ar 22 a 23 o Fedi.

Bydd copïau o bapurau a chofnodion ein cyfarfod yn cael eu cyhoeddi ar dudalen we tasglu'r cymoedd Llywodraeth Cymru yn ddiweddarach yr wythnos hon. <http://gov.wales/topics/people-and-communities/communities/taskforce-for-the-valleys/?lang=cy>

Yn dilyn adborth yn ystod y cyfarfod hwn o'r tasglu, mae'r cylch gorchwyl yn dal i fod ar ffurf drafft ond bwriedir cytuno arno'n electronig cyn y cyfarfod nesaf ar 28 Tachwedd. Bydd yn cael ei gyhoeddi ar y dudalen we.

Nododd y tasglu nifer o heriau allweddol yn ei gyfarfod cyntaf, y gellir eu grwpio o dan y pedwar pennawd canlynol:

- Gwell integreiddio a chydgyssylltu ar draws gwasanaethau cyhoeddus;
- Mwy o fynediad i swyddi o ansawdd da, gan gynyddu sgiliau cyflogadwyedd;
- Cyfathrebu cadarnhaol ac ymgysylltu o ddifrif â chymunedau;
- Sicrhau'r manteision mwyaf o strwythurau a sefydliadau sy'n gweithio gyda'r cymoedd ac yn y cymoedd.

Bydd ymgysylltu o ddifrif â chymunedau lleol yn hanfodol i waith y tasglu. Rydym yn awyddus i fynd at wraidd yr hyn y mae cymunedau'r cymoedd ei eisiau ac er mwyn gwneud hyn byddwn yn ymchwilio i ddulliau arloesol o ymgysylltu. Mae cynllun cyfathrebu ac ymgysylltu yn cael ei ddatblygu a byddwn yn falch o rannu hyn gyda'r pwyllgor ar ôl iddo gael ei gwblhau.

Trafododd y tasglu oblygiadau refferendwm yr UE a'r DU yn ymadael â'r Undeb Ewropeaidd yn y dyfodol yn ei gyfarfod cyntaf. Mae'n rhy fuan i benderfynu beth fydd y goblygiadau i'r cymoedd, fodd bynnag, byddwn yn parhau i adolygu'r pwnc pwysig hwn.

Mae gwaith y Tasglu Gweinidogol ar gyfer Cymoedd De Cymru ar gam datblygiadol - bydd yn esblygu dros dymor pum mlynedd y llywodraeth hon ac yn cael ei lywio gan ymgysylltu parhaus â chymunedau'r cymoedd. Gyda hyn mewn golwg, byddaf yn falch o roi'r wybodaeth ddiweddaraf am y datblygiadau i'r Pwyllgor Cydraddoldeb, Cymunedau a Llywodraeth Leol.

Annwyl John,

Diolch am eich llythyr dyddiedig 30 Medi, yn dilyn fy ymddangosiad gerbron y Pwyllgor Cydraddoldeb, Llywodraeth Leol a Chymunedau ar 21 Medi.

Yn ystod y sesiwn, cytunais i ysgrifennu atoch ynglŷn â thrafod cymorth ar gyfer ffoaduriaid Syria gyda Llywodraeth y DU ac ynglŷn â bwriad Llywodraeth y DU i gyflwyno Deddf Hawliau Prydeinig.

Nid wyf wedi cael unrhyw drafodaethau uniongyrchol gyda'r Gweinidog Gwladol dros Fewnfudo, Robert Goodwill AS, eto. Fodd bynnag, mae wedi ysgrifennu ataf ynglŷn â phlant sy'n geiswyr lloches ac sy'n ffoaduriaid, sydd ar eu pen eu hunain, gan gydnabod ymdrechion Awdurdodau Lleol Cymru i roi cymorth ceiswyr lloches a'u teuluoedd. At hynny, cyfarfu Prif Weinidog Cymru yn ddiweddar â Chymdeithas Llywodraeth Leol Cymru ac mae wedi cytuno y dylid gwneud cais ar y cyd i'r Swyddfa Gartref am gymorth ychwanegol, gan adlewyrchu safbwynt yr Alban hefyd o bosibl. Rwy'n edrych ymlaen at ddeialog barhaus gyda Llywodraeth y DU ar y materion hyn.

Ar 7 Medi, holodd Pwyllgor Cyfiawnder Seneddol y DU yr Ysgrifennydd Gwladol dros Gyfiawnder, Elizabeth Truss AS, ynglŷn â chynlluniau Llywodraeth y DU i ddisodli Deddf Hawliau Dynol 1998 â Deddf Hawliau. Pan bwyswyd arni gan y Pwyllgor am fwy o fanylion am y cynigion, fel yr amseru a'r effaith ar y gweinyddiaethau datganoledig, yr wyf ar ddeall i Ms Truss ddweud eu bod yn dal i edrych ar y paramedrau a bod angen ymgynghori'n drwyadl ar y cynigion. Fodd bynnag, cadarnhaod Ms Truss na fyddai'r cynigion yn golygu tynnu'n ôl o'r Confensiwn Ewropeaidd ar Hawliau Dynol. Felly, byddaf yn hysbysu'r Pwyllgor pan fydd unrhyw wybodaeth bendant am y cynigion ar gael. Mae'n hanfodol bod Llywodraeth Cymru a Chynulliad Cenedlaethol Cymru yn rhan o unrhyw ymgynghoriad sy'n effeithio ar hawliau dynol pobl Cymru, ac rydym yn disgwyl i Lywodraeth y DU gyflawni ei hymrwymiad i ymgynghori'n llawn ar y cynigion hyn.

We welcome receiving correspondence in Welsh. Any correspondence received in Welsh will be answered in Welsh and corresponding in Welsh will not lead to a delay in responding.

Yn eich llythyr, gofynnoch am wybodaeth am nifer o faterion ychwanegol. Gofynnoch a wyf yn ystyried gwneud unrhyw newidiadau i'r cyfnod o amser y mae'n rhaid i landlordiaid preifat gofrestru a chael trwydded o'i fewn o dan Ran 1 o Ddeddf Tai (Cymru) 2014. Erbyn hyn rwyf wedi cael cyfle i ystyried ymhellach y posibilrwydd o newid y cyfnod o amser y mae'n rhaid i landlordiaid preifat gofrestru a chael trwydded o'i fewn ond nid wyf yn argyhoeddedig ynglŷn â mantais hyn, os bydd mantais o gwbl. Mae landlordiaid wedi cael blwyddyn i gofrestru a dod yn drwyddedig, a hoffwn roi clod i'r llu o landlordiaid sydd wedi gwneud hynny. Mae perygl nawr y gall y rhai sydd wedi ei gadael yn hwyr fod yn torri'r gyfraith. Roeddem yn gwybod o'r cychwyn y byddai hyn yn risg ac fe wnaethom rybuddio landlordiaid i osgoi hyn os yn bosibl. Fy mhryder gydag ymestyn y cyfnod amser ymhellach yw y bydd yr un broblem yn digwydd gyda'r terfyn amser newydd gan y bydd rhai bob amser yn gadael pethau tan y funud olaf. Teimlaf nad yw'n iawn oedi cyn gweithredu'r ddeddfwriaeth oherwydd nad yw unigolion wedi cymryd eu cyfrifoldebau o ddifrif. Rwyf hefyd yn credu y byddai hyn yn cyfleu'r neges anghywir ynglŷn â pha mor bwysig yw ein gwaith deddfu. Mae angen i landlordiaid ac asiantau gymryd camau nawr i gofrestru neu wneud cais am drwydded. O ran y rhai sydd wedi ei gadael yn rhy hwyr i ddilyn cwrs hyfforddi, byddwn yn awgrymu eu bod yn ystyried cwblhau'r hyfforddiant ar-lein yn lle hynny. Os bydd eu cais wedi'i gyflwyno erbyn y dyddiad cau, dylai hyn fod yn ddigon i osgoi unrhyw gamau yn eu herbyn a bydd Rhentu Doeth Cymru yn prosesu eu cais am drwydded cyn gynted ag y bo modd.

O ran cefnogi landlordiaid newydd i sicrhau eu bod yn cydymffurfio â'u rhwymedigaethau statudol o dan Ran 1 o Ddeddf Tai (Cymru) 2014, bydd yn rhaid iddynt sicrhau eu bod yn cofrestru ac yn gwneud cais am drwydded neu benodi asiant trwyddedig o fewn yr amserlen a nodir yn y Ddeddf. Mae'r Ddeddf yn darparu cyfnod o 28 diwrnod i landlordiaid gofrestru. Gan mai dim ond tua 15-20 munud y mae'n ei gymryd i gofrestru ar lein, mae'r amser hwn yn ddigonol. Gellir ymgymryd â hyfforddiant ar unrhyw adeg ac mae'r cyfleuster hyfforddi ar-lein yn cynnig mwy fyth o hyblygrwydd a dewis. Nid yw dod yn landlord newydd yn rhywbeth sy'n digwydd dros nos neu'n ddifeddwl fel arfer. Fel gydag unrhyw broffesiwn arall, bydd angen i unrhyw ddarpar landlordiaid sicrhau eu bod yn cydymffurfio â phob un o'u rhwymedigaethau cyfreithiol. Mae gwefan Rhentu Doeth Cymru yn rhoi digon o arweiniad a chymorth i landlordiaid newydd ac, a barnu wrth yr adborth rwyf wedi'i gael hyd yma, mae'r staff yn gefnogol iawn ac yn hynod gymwynasgar.

Gofynnoch am fanylion cynlluniau Llywodraeth Cymru i fynd i'r afael ag unrhyw faterion a all godi o benderfyniad y Swyddfa Ystadegau Gwladol i ailddosbarthu Landlordiaid Cymdeithasol Cofrestredig Cymru yn gyrff sector cyhoeddus. Rydym yn ymchwilio i ddatrysiaid deddfwriaethol i'r mater o ailddosbarthu. Gall Cymdeithasau Tai fod yn hyderus y bydd yn cael ei ddatrys. Bydd fy swyddogion yn gweithio'n agos gyda chynrychiolwyr rhanddeiliaid a'r Swyddfa Ystadegau Gwladol i ddatblygu pecyn deddfwriaethol a fydd yn cyflwyno'r diwygiadau angenrheidiol ond yn sicrhau bod y sector yn parhau i gael ei reoleiddio'n effeithiol. Mae hyn yn golygu y byddant yn gallu parhau i fenthycu oddi wrth y sector preifat er mwyn ein helpu i gyrraedd ein targed o 20,000 o gartrefi fforddiadwy yn ystod tymor y Cynulliad hwn.

O ran cynaliadwyedd gwasanaethau arbenigol yn y sector trais yn erbyn menywod a cham-drin domestig, mae'r Grant Gwasanaethau Cam-drin Domestig wedi bod ar waith ers dros 10 mlynedd ac mae'n cefnogi prosiectau sy'n ymwneud â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol. Cynhaliwyd adolygiad o ddyrannu'r Grant Gwasanaethau Cam-drin Domestig a sut yr ymdrinnir â'r grant yn 2014 er mwyn sicrhau bod cyllid yn y dyfodol yn cyd-fynd yn well ag amcanion y Ddeddf a chyfeiriad polisi ehangach yn y maes hwn. Ar hyn o bryd rydym yn ystyried opsiynau i newid i ddull mwy rhanbarthol gydag Awdurdodau Lleol er mwyn rhoi cyfle i geisiadau am gyllid yn y dyfodol fod yn fwy ymatebol i anghenion lleol. Nod yr adolygiad hwn oedd annog a hwyluso mwy o gydweithio rhwng partneriaethau Diogelwch Cymunedol a phartneriaid perthnasol wrth gyflawni prosiectau trais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol gan gynnwys y rhai a ariennir drwy'r Grant Gwasanaethau Cam-drin Domestig, ond nid yn gyfyngedig i hynny, drwy nodi cydflaenoriaethau o fewn eu priod feysydd.

Rydym yn annog Awdurdodau Lleol a'u partneriaid i fabwysiadu dull mwy cydweithredol o ddarparu gwasanaethau. Gall hyn olygu comisiynu a darparu gwasanaethau ar sail ranbarthol er mwyn gwella gwasanaethau sy'n mynd i'r afael â thrais yn erbyn menywod, cam-drin domestig a thrais rhywiol fel canlyniad allweddol. Rwy'n disgwyl i Awdurdodau Lleol weithio gydag Awdurdodau Lleol cyfagos ac ar draws ardaloedd Byrddau Iechyd Lleol i asesu anghenion a darpariaeth leol, gan nodi ble y bydd mwy o ffocws ar ddarparu gwasanaethau yn hwyluso gwerth am arian a hyblygrwydd gwasanaethau a ariennir er mwyn diwallu anghenion lleol, gan ddarparu gwell gwasanaeth i ddiodefwyr. Bydd y broses hon yn cael ei chyflawni drwy ymgynghori â rhanddeiliaid, darparwyr gwasanaethau arbenigol a goroeswyr i helpu i sicrhau asesiad cynhwysfawr o anghenion a darparu gwasanaethau dilynol. Mae fy swyddogion wedi cwrdd â'r Sector Arbenigol i drafod y model cyllido cynaliadwy a bydd y trafodaethau hyn yn parhau.

Yn ystod y sesiwn, cyfeiriwyd at adolygiad arfaethedig o Reoliadau Adeiladu, Rhan L (Arbed tanwydd ac ynni). Gan mai un o feysydd cyfrifoldeb fy nghydweithiwr, Ysgrifennydd y Cabinet dros yr Amgylchedd a Materion Gwledig, yw hwn, rwyf wedi gofyn iddi roi'r wybodaeth ddiweddaraf i'r Pwyllgor ar y mater maes o law.

Yn olaf, o ran ymgysylltu â'r Cynulliad, mae'r pedair strategaeth drawsbynciol a amlinellir yn Symud Cymru Ymlaen yn cynrychioli dull llywodraeth gyfan o gyflawni ein blaenoriaethau a sicrhau canlyniadau gwell i bobl Cymru. Bydd hyn yn gofyn am gydweithio gan bob aelod o'r Cabinet, bob Gweinidog a phob un o Adrannau Llywodraeth Cymru. Wrth ddatblygu'r strategaethau, bydd y trefniadau ar gyfer cydweithio agos ar draws y llywodraeth yn cael eu sefydlu.

Carl Sargeant AC/AM

Ysgrifennydd y Cabinet dros Gymunedau a Phlant
Cabinet Secretary for Communities and Children
