I would like to add my comments on the proposal to ban snares in Wales.

Firstly I was extremely pleased to hear that this proposal has been accepted. I have campaigned for a ban in England with no success so far but Wales's courageous and morally correct stance on this issue raised my spirits tremendously. As someone with family ties to Wales, it has made me feel much more likely to spend time in Wales due to this ban, that is how strongly I feel about snares.

I only hope England has the integrity to do the same.

Please do not bow to the minority who oppose this ban, theirs is a vested interest argument not shared by the vast majority of people.

Yours sincerely,

Ros Berrington.
