Dear Chair,

I recognise the level of concern raised regarding donations to my campaign as part of the Welsh Labour leadership contest. I very much regret the anxieties this caused for other members and I take seriously the work of seeking a resolution with the input of colleagues. While Senedd debates have shown it is accepted that the decisions taken complied with existing rules, the wider questions, reservations and concerns raised underscore the need for action that allows us to look at well developed reforms that are fit for the future.

It is important we work collectively to ensure that the rules and processes relating to political donations are robust, transparent and have the confidence of the public.

I have considered carefully the range of views expressed by colleagues in recent weeks and given thought to the best route to developing considered reforms that can have a lasting impact. It is, of course, important that proposed reforms are given careful and detailed consideration and that collectively, we put the interests of our democratic traditions ahead of any narrow party political priority. With an approach based on evidence and join working, my hope is that we can draw on the vast areas of agreement that exists across the Senedd. The Standards Committee plays an integral role in considering these important questions. It is well placed, I believe, to now consider proposals to consider and bring forward proposals to update the Standing Orders and Code of Conduct in relation to donations made to Members of the Senedd.

It will of course be for the Committee to decide their own terms of reference in such work. However, it would seem sensible for consideration to be given to meaningful and workable changes concerning the following areas in relation to donations:

- the level of reporting and disclosure and;
- whether there should be a cap on donations from any one entity or individual.

As the Trefnydd has set out, it is important that we consider the nature of contributions that are clearly acceptable to the Senedd but may be disqualified by rules that overly simplistic. For instance, the treatment of donations provided in wills or via collective contributions from workers via their democratic trades unions should be considered carefully. It is also important that a thorough and dispassionate view is taken of the existing protections that are in place and have worked well in preventing conflicts of interest.

While we cannot expect full agreement across politically contentious matters on a cross party basis, there is an opportunity to make progress on areas of agreement. In addition to this proposed process, I will be asking the Welsh Government's Propriety and Ethics Director to consider recommendations on how to strengthen public confidence regarding any potential conflicts of interest where a Member of the Senedd is also a member of the government.

I would like to work with the committee to explore the opportunity to bring greater transparency to the way the Senedd and Welsh Government engages with organisations that seek to influence decisions taken in Wales. To this end, I would welcome a joint approach to revisiting the case for the creation of register of lobbyists in Wales. By looking to best practice that exists in other nations, the Senedd and the Welsh Government could benefit from a more transparent system that helps organisations engage decision makers in a way that carries the confidence of the public over the long term.

With a stronger Welsh Parliament that exercises far reaching powers that touch the lives of people across Wales, it is right that we ask how can make our decision making processes more transparent.

In recent weeks, I have exchanged letters with the leader of Plaid Cymru regarding the matter of a proposed recall system for the Senedd which also has the ability to generate greater confidence in our Senedd.

In my role as leader of Welsh Labour, I have already instigated a review process and I am pleased this is being taken forward within my own party.

I will be discussing the proposals set out above with the leaders of all parties in the Senedd and I am copying this letter to each of them as well as the Llywydd.
